Wadsworth Urges Pay as We Go Plan for Government

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Says Only One Way to Maintain Financial Position of Nation.

Washington, April 1.—Necessity of a pay "as we go" policy of government finance was urged by Eliot Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of foreign loans, in an address before the Washington stock exchange. By such a policy only, he declared, could the country maintain its position as the soundest financially in the world. No matter how much the costs roll up, he asserted, income should be available to meet these costs. Money, he added, can be obtained from only one ultimate source which is taxes, direct or indirect, but in the end coming out of the pockets of the people.

"Our federal budget this year will practically balance," said Mr. Wadsworth. "Next year the estimates show a deficit. We are carrying interest charges and other expenses resulting from the war, which cannot be reduced. We are meeting a debt of honor to our disabled soldiers and sailors at a cost of $450,000,000 a year. No one grudges one cent of what we may wisely spend to make life prosperous and happy for those men.

"Other expenses will arise from the war. Perhaps you may have heard some talk of a bonus in the past few weeks. If paid, it will clearly be a war expense, but will not necessarily liquidate the war. There are today 60 widows of the war of 1812, and 2,000 widows of the Mexican was on our pension roll. Our last great war is 50 years in the past and our annual pension bill is $250,000,000. Who would dare to estimate the ultimate cost to this country of the world war?"

Burglar Beats Child of 8 Years

Complaints of Mother Reveal Plucky Attempts of Girl to Capture Bandit.

New York, April 1.—A dauntless little girl's efforts to capture a burglar who had cruelly beaten, bound and gagged her, were disclosed when her mother, Mrs. Clara O. Pomeroy, complained the police had "done nothing" in the case.

Still disfigured by a swollen, blackened eye, and with her body covered with bruises, the child, Martha, 8, told newspapermen of her experiences.

She had just returned from school Wednesday and was alone in the house, Martha said, when the burglar, "a big man with red hair," called. He threw her to the floor, hit her two or three times with his fists, bound and gagged her, and left her huddled in a corner for three hours while he ransacked the house. He took jewels, silverware, clothing and valuable papers. Almost everything he didn't take he ripped up, broke or tossed away.

Then he untied the child and hurried away, warning her not to move for half an hour. But as he closed the door, Martha staggered to her feet and followed him.

She said she saw him meet a woman, give her one of his two suitcases of loot and get into an automobile. Martha tried to follow the car, but was too weak.

Machine Generates Heat From Light Rays, Claim

Preston V. Cheek, jr., of Dublin, Ga., has arrived in Omaha with his mechanical device for heat control. His invention can be used for heating, welding, or steel cutting, he claims.

Rays from the sun pass through a series of magnifying glasses and chemicals in a mechanical device and produce a roll of white heat three-fourths inch in diameter, strong enough to cook a meal for an average sized family, according to Cheek. At night th machine can be brought indoors and electric lights rays be used. From a 100 or 150 watt light, sufficient heat is produced for baking or toasting, he says.

While in Tennessee, Cheek demonstrated his invention by cooking a meal for the faculty of the Goodwyn institute. In St. Louis he was awarded the John Fritz medal by four engineering societies, he says.

Cheek has ordered over a hundred machines to be made by a local manufacturer, and will engage in business here soon.

Omahans Asked to Aid Thousands Starving in Russia Volga Region

Campaign for Funds to Be Opened Here Monday by Central States Relief Society.

"Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? When thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?"—Isaiah 58:7.

With this quotation from the Scriptures, Rev. Edouard Eichhorn of Messer, Province of Saratow, Russia, sends a soul-stirring appeal to America for aid for the starving thousands in the Volga famine regions.

A campaign for funds will be opened in Omaha Monday by the Central States Volga Relief society, operating under auspices of the American Relief administration, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

John Rohrie, Lincoln, member of the executive committee, will be in direct charge of the Omaha headquarters of the Central States society, which will be opened Monday in the Sherman & McConnell store at Sixteenth and Harney streets.

Once "Corncrib of Europe."

The Central States Volga Relief society, with headquarters in Lincoln, was founded early in September, 1921, to alleviate suffering in the famine district of the Volga river.

This particular part of Russia was once the "corncrib of Europe." The people there are industrious and thrifty and before the war were prominent factors in the production of all kinds of grain to help feed the 1,700,000,000 human beings in the world. But war, revolution and bolshevism brought them to their present condition.

The Central States society has two representatives in Russia, Rev. Jacob Wagner of Portland, Ore., and George Repp of Lincoln, Neb., and the various Volga societies already have forwarded more than $200,000 to Russia through the American Relief administration, which is sufficient only to keep the sufferers alive for one month on the basis of 96 cents sustaining one person one month.

Children Send Thanks.

"Twelve hundred children in our village," writes Rev. Mr. Eichhorn from Messer, one of a thousand towns in the Volga district, "who receive their nourishment in the American kitchens here, send with tears of thankfulness a thousand greetings to you, compassionate America, across the wide ocean; while the other 300 children who as yet are not being fed by your representatives are longing for your relief; they, too, stretch their emaciated hands toward heaven for aid from America.

"One pound of rye bread costs 14,000 rubles (at par a ruble is worth 52 cents), a pound of millet sells for 20,000, a pound of meat for 13,000 and a pound of butter for 50,000 rubles. Even for a box of matches we have to pay 2,000 rubles.

"Your brethren, Wagner and Repp, oftentimes break down under their emotions and weep bitterly when they meet face to face with the living 'corpses' and hungry 'skeletons' of human beings, whom to feed they have been commissioned by you, blessed America."

Dahlman Recommends Project.

Mayor Dahlman says: "I take pleasure in recommending to the public the project undertaken by the Central States Volga Relief society. This organization is headed by gentlemen who have come to me well recommended, and I am certain that any assistance extended them will go toward a most worthy cause.

"This service is being rendered the needy people of this devastated region, in conjunction with the American Relief administration, whose activities need no introduction to our American citizens.

"These gentlemen will gladly produce credentials identifying them with this organization, and are glad to explain their mission to anyone who wishes to extend charity toward the suffering Russians and Germans whom they represent."

Favored by McKelvie.

Governor McKelvie says: "Being personally acquainted with the principal officers of the Central States Volga Relief society, Dr. H. P. Wekesser, president, I have no hesitancy in recommending this organization to those who desire to contribute to the relief of the sufferers in the famine-stricken district in Russia. This organization is working through the American Relief administration of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, and a most cordial relationship exists between the two organizations."

President Harding says: "We do not recognize the government of Russia nor tolerate the propaganda which emanates therefrom, but we do not forget the traditions of Russian friendship.

"We may put aside our consideration of all international politics and fundamental differences in government. The big thing is the call of the suffering and dying, and it is evident that unless relief is afforded the loss of life will extend into many millions.

Officers of Society.

"America cannot be deaf to such a call as that.

"The American Relief administration is directed in Russia by former officers of our own armies and has demonstrated its ability to transport and distribute relief through American hands without hindrance or loss."

Officers of the Central States Volga Relief society include Dr. H. P. Wekesser, president; J. J. Stroh, vice president; F. A. Lorenz, secretary; John Lebsock, treasurer, and Rev. G. J. Schmidt, financial secretary.

Omaha Musician Rejects Jolson

Violinist in Randall Orchestra Refuses Offer to Join Comedian.

Al Jolson will have to look elsewhere than Art Randall's orchestra for his musical talent.

That's the reply the famous comedian and singer received from Gilbert Jaffy, crack violinist with the orchestra which is making a name for itself in the Brandeis restaurants, when Jolson tried to lure Jaffy back into his troupe.

Jaffy was concert violinist for Jolson for five months when the comedian was starring in Sinbad. But he has no desire to go back.

"I think I'm playing in an orchestra that is going to be one of the top-liners in the country," said Jaffy, "so I'm going to stay in Omaha with Randall."

Jaffy is one of the principal reasons the Brandeis restauronts have become so popular with Omaha diners and dancers. He plays the solo violin and leads the orchestra during numbers, although Arthur Randall, the pianist, is the manager and director.

Jaffy, who plays anything from a difficult classic to a jazz melody with equal skill, hopes someday to go to Europe to pursue his studies further. "I've got the bank account started," he said, "and when it gets big enough I'm going to Europe to study."

Man Used Force to Make Her Sign Will, Says Wife

Husband Told Her to Leave Home, Claim of Woman in Hearing Over Alimony.

"My husband used duress in having me sign a will," Mrs. Myrtle Marshall testified before District Judge Sears at a hearing for temporary alimony.

Last month Mrs. Marshall brought suit for divorce from Floyd Marshall, druggist of Wallace and North Platte, Neb. She charged him with cruelty and nonsupport.

"My husband did not want me to remain in North Platte to help him in the drug store just because he wanted to get up at noon, said Mrs. Marshall. "That is why he told me to go to our other home in Wallace."

The Marshalls own considerable property in the state. Mrs. Marshall is now making Omaha her home.

"Isn't it a fact that you left Wallace because you could not stand the small-town stuff," said attorney for her husband.

"No," replied Mrs. Marshall, "it was because my husband was cruel to me and I realized it was no use for us to be together."

Sears took the case under advisement.

Girl and Father on Justice Hunt

Rum Case "Buck Passing" Puzzles Child and Parent Seeking Redress.

Albert Villalla and his little daughter, Virginia, 13, wandered back and forth between the police station and the federal building this morning seeking justice.

According to the little girl, who acted as spokesman for her father, they rented their house at 1208 South Twentieth street to Frank Tomatos. Tomatos was subsequently arrested charged with unlawful manufacture of liquor, and the house was closed by the federal authorities. When the Villallas wished to move from 3216 A street into their Twentieth street house, they signed a bond of $1,000 to be allowed to open the house. Then they discovered that the sink, water faucets and other fixtures had been stolen.

Now they seek redress for their loss. Tomatos told them to report the matter to the police. The police referred them to the federal authorities. Federal officials advised them to go back to the police. Villalla feels that the government should have taken steps to guard the property while the house was closed by their orders.

Villalla, according to authorities, was fined recently for running a still in the barn at 3216 A street.

MINERALIZED WATER ROUTS CHICKEN LICE

Tablets Dropped Into Drinking Founts Banish Vermin, Make Fowls Grow Faster and Increase Egg Yield.

Any poultry raiser can easily rid his flock of lice and mites, make chicks grow faster and increase their egg yield by simply adding minerals to the fowls' drinking water. This does away with all bother, such as dusting, greasing, dipping and spraying. The necessary minerals can now be obtained in convenient tablets, known as Paratabs. Soon after the fowls drink the mineralized water, All mice and lice leave them. The tablets also act as a tonic conditioner. The health of the fowls quickly improves, they grow faster and the egg yield frequently is doubled. Little chicks that drink freely of the water never will be bothered by mites or lice. The method is especially recommended for raisers of pure-bred stock, as there is no risk of soiling the plumage. The tablets are warranted to impart no flavor or odor to the eggs and meat. This remarkable conditioner egg tonic and lice remedy costs only a trifle and is sold under an absolute guarantee. The tablets are scientifically prepared, perfectly safe and dissolve readily in water. Any reader of this paper may try them without risk. The laboratories producing Paratabs are so confident of good results that to introduce them to every poultry raiser they offer two big $1 packages for only $1.
