Stop your knocking.

Put away your little hammer.

Successful candidates and their friends ought to be satisfied without making others feel bad by crowing over them.

The most of the candidates for county offices supported by The Herald were elected, but we have no "crowing" to do on that account. Most or all of the defeated candidates were well qualified for the offices for which they were nominated and if they had been elected would have made good officials.

The first number of the McGrew Messenger, a six-column folio newspaper (four pages, six columns to the page), was issued October 28 by A. B. Wood, publisher of the Gering Courier. McGrew is a new town on the North Platte valley branch of the Union Pacific railway. We consider the town fortunate in securing a paper published by Mr. Wood.

In the list of county candidates as published in The Herald before election an unintentional injustice was done Surveyor J. P. Hazard, but it was not the fault of the paper. We knew that Mr. Hazard had received enough votes at the primaries to entitle him to the republican and peoples' independent nominations, if he chose to accept. Before going to press that week the editor called up the county clerk's office and asked if he had filed an acceptance and was told that he had not, and of course we did not include his name in the list of candidates.

The Herald congratulates the newly elected county officers. This applies to those who defeated the candidates whom we wished to see elected as well as those who were supported by this paper. County Clerk Hargraves and Commissioner Hashman are well qualified to fill the offices to which they have been elected, and The Herald hopes to see them make a success. While supporting the opposing candidates not a word was published in this paper during the campaign reflecting in the least upon the ability or integrity of these two men. If The Herald can in any way assist them as public officials or make their official duties more pleasant, we are at their service.

The year 1911 does not seem to be a lucky year for newspaper men who were candidates for county office in northwestern Nebraska. We know of three who were candidates and they all got left. J. D. Heywood, editor of the Crawford Courier, was candidate for county clerk of Dawes county and although that county gave a large republican majority on most of the state ticket, Mr. Heywood was snowed under by a vote of a little more than two to one, the present incumbent, Charles Naylor, who was the democratic nominee, being re-elected by a vote of 974 to 485 for Mr. Heywood. In Grant county our friend, Charley Bassett, editor of the Hyannis Tribune, was the republican nominee for county judge, and although that county also is republican, Charley was defeated by the democratic nominee. In Box Butte county J. B. Kniest, foreman in The Herald office, was democratic nominee for county clerk, but in his case the political complexion of the county was against him. He ran ahead of his ticket but was defeated by a small majority.

Champ Clark and ex-Governor Folk have done a wise thing in deciding to submit their claims for the next democratic presidential nomination to the voters of their state at a primary election to be held soon. In the attempt that the special interests are making, and will continue with increasing activity to make, to control the next democratic national convention, their only hope of success is in defeating the will of a majority of the rank and file of the party; and a multiplicity of progressive candidates for the nomination will help those who are working for the nomination of a reactionary candidate. Especially will this be the case in states like Nebraska where delegates are to be elected and a preferential vote taken at a primary to be held before the national convention. Clark and Folk are both splendid types of progressive statesmen who stand for the interests and rights of the people, as against the encroachments of the special interests, and we are glad that they have agreed upon a plan that will eliminate one of them from the race without injuring the other.

RAN AHEAD OF HIS TICKET

Our friend, Grant L. Shumway, who was candidate for county treasurer in Scotts Bluff county on the democratic ticket, was defeated but the vote was quite a compliment to him, as he ran about an hundred ahead of his ticket. His own precinct, in which the city of Scottsbluff is located, gave him a majority of 104 votes, although it went republican by more than a hundred majority on the state ticket.

FREE UNTIL JANUARY 1ST

Here is a special offer that will interest old subscribers to The Herald as well as new. Persons who subscribe for The Herald before January 1st, 1912, and pay a year's subscription, will receive the paper until January 1st, 1913, thus getting it from the time payment is made on subscription to the first of next January free. Our subscribers who are in arrears, and who pay before January 1st, 1912, and also one year in advance will be credited to January 1st, 1913, thus they will be practically getting the paper from the date of their payment on subscription until the first of the year free of charge. We prefer having subscriptions end on January 1st, so that in making this offer we are not losing anything by it, but it will make a saving worth taking advantage of for those subscribers who pay a year in advance immediately.

We wish to call attention of persons who may be interested in public sales to the fact that many notices appear in The Herald under the same headings. Hence we advise such persons to look over all of the public sale notices each week, otherwise they may glance at the heading of a new public sale notice and think that it is one they have already read. The Herald is a splendid medium through which to advertise public sales, and being generally so recognized, we have many such notices to publish.

One of the biggest land deals in Alliance for some time was the sale of R. M. Hampton's ranch to Hall & Graham for $80,000 and the stock sold with it, bringing the total to $120,000. The ranch comprises 10,000 acres of the best land in this part of the state, the Burlington road running through the property. R. M. Hampton is vice president of the First National Bank, Hall & Graham being stock brokers on a large scale.—World-Herald.

STOPPING THE PAPER

I've stopped the paper, yes I have, I didn't like to do it, But the editor he got too smart And I allow he'll rue it. I am a man as pays my debts An' I won't be insulted, So when the editor gets smart I want to be consulted.

I took his paper 'leven years An' helped it all I could, sir, But when it comes to dunnin' me, I didn't think he would, sir; But that he did; and you can bet It made me mad as thunder. Says I: "I'll quit that sheet, I will, If the cussed thing goes under."

I hunted up the measley whelp, An' for his cunnin' caper I paid them 'leven years—an' quit! Yes, sir, I've stopped the paper.

That last part's a dream. I'll bet it happened t'other way; he stopped the sheet but didn't pay.—Ex.

USUAL THING

"Been taxing your eyes lately?" asked the oculist.

"Yes," said the patient, "I looked all through a newspaper of 144 pages which came through the mail to me, bearing the words 'marked copy.'"

"No wonder your eyes smart!"

"Oh, but that isn't the worst of it. I didn't find anything marked." —Buffalo Express.
