where "Yiddish" Comes From.
The Hebrews who live in Germany speak the German language, using among themselves a peculiar dialect called "Yiddish," that term being itself a corrupt form of the German word Yudisch. Russian Hebrews also use this language, while by a curious chain of historic events Turkish Hebrews speak Spanish. Printed Yiddish shows an interesting combination of languages, the words being essentially German, but printed in Hebrew characters.—Christian Herald.

New Berry in Demand.
The loganberry, a hybrid of the blackberry and raspberry, is said to make the finest of jellies, jams and pies. Introduced a few years ago in the west, its popularity has been steadily increasing, and the demand now outruns the supply. Western Oregon and Washington are the greatest producers of the new berry.

Bishop Not Qualified.
Comments by the bishop of London (Dr. Ingram) on the falling birth-rate were quoted by counsel in a case in the Clerkenwell county court, when Judge Cluer remarked: "What has the bishop to do with it? He is not married. Example is better than precept."

To the Point.
All the world is so closely akin that not one individual may realize his high desire except all the world share it with him. Every good thought you send out is a silent power working for peace, health, love, joy, success to all humanity—including yourself.—Elizabeth Towne.

Tuberculosis.
Tuberculosis or consumption is rare in childhood; increases rapidly after the age of fifteen, and is most common between the ages of twenty-five and thirty. Those who escape it till the latter age are less and less prone to it as they advance in years.

Loose Screws.
Very often a screw hole gets so worn that the screw will not stay in. In such a case cut narrow strips of corn and fill the hole completely. Then force the screw in. This will make it as tight as if driven into an entirely new hole.

In Lunnon.
First Workman (disgusted)—These blinkin' furriners comes a 'obnobblin' wiv us in the toobs and buses and lumme, they gits to tork Henglish very nigh as good as me and you, Bill, not 'arf, they don't!—Punch.

Glove Protector.
To ward off a hole in a kid's glove where the fingernails cut through, fasten a small piece of kid of the same color to the seams on the inside of the finger and the glove will last for weeks.

House Hunting.
Prospective Tenants—"There's one great disadvantage about this house; it is damp." Landlord—"That's no disadvantage. If a fire were to break out it wouldn't burn nearly so fast."

Prevents Cracks.
A small amount of vaselin rubbed into patent leather shoes occasionally will keep them soft and prevent cracking. Footwear of this leather should be kept treed when not in use.

GOING TO THE WEDDING

By AMY GADSDEN.

"I went downtown and bought Lucy's wedding gift today," said the girl when conversation lagged a bit. "It was real fun."

"I went to school with Lucy, but she didn't ask me to her wedding or to the reception," said the young man caller. "I wish to goodness she had. Surely one's schoolmates ought to be asked if anybody is."

"The reception is going to be small," said the girl, soothingly. "The house isn't large you know."

"They've invited the whole town to the wedding—all but me."

"Well, it's too bad. I don't see, though, how you can go when you're not asked."

"If there was any way to slip me in you'd think of it, wouldn't you?" said the young man. "Couldn't I pretend to be a butler or something?"

"Butlers wouldn't be at the wedding," exclaimed the girl. "You're thinking of ushers. Somebody might drop her card of admission out of the church window to you."

"She might get caught and thrown out. Do people have to have cards to the reception, too?"

"No, you walk right in for that, but you couldn't do it without being caught. They'd know you weren't asked."

"I'd give a lot to go—to the wedding, anyhow."

"I didn't know you were so crazy over weddings."

"It isn't weddings I'm crazy over," said the young man, with a sigh. "But I bet you're going to let Sam Meadows take you."

"He hasn't asked me yet, but if he wants to take me I don't see why I shouldn't go with him and enjoy myself."

"No, I suppose not. A girl can't imagine going with Sam and not having the time of her life."

"I didn't say that."

"No, but you thought it, apparently. And here I am, crazy to go, and you won't even think up a practical way to smuggle me in."

"If you had called there recently you'd have received an invitation."

"I didn't want to call there. There was another place where I preferred to go."

"Dear me! What a popular young man."

"I didn't say a lot of places," he protested. "But you know I haven't got very much time and I'd rather be here than anywhere else."

"That's very kind of you," she said, smiling. "But you see what you've lost by it—you can't go to the wedding."

"Oh, bother!" he cried. "I don't care a thing about that wedding."

"Why you said you were crazy to go!"

"I am. But if you weren't going I'd not care at all."

"Maybe I won't go. Mother and father will be away and it may happen that Sam will take somebody else."

"That isn't likely. He's been here every evening for months."

"Please don't exaggerate."

"Well, he's been here every time I have. And now he can take you to the doings and I've got to sit back and smile like an angel and look as if I liked it."

"You won't even see us."

"No, but I know just what a good time Sam will have. There won't be a prettier girl there than you are."

"Sam'll think differently," she said with a laugh. "Sam's awfully interested in my cousin Mary, who's one of the bridesmaids. He always talks about her every minute when he calls here. You see, they had a quarrel, and he came here to get news of her. It's all right now. I was the peacemaker, by the way."

"Then you're not going!" cried the young man joyfully. "Can I come over that evening?"

"I think you're horrid," she pouted.

"I'm crazy to go to the wedding."

"And I'm crazy about you!" he blurted out. "I've been trying to tell you all the evening, I want you to marry me!"

"Well, why— it's so—"

"You know I love you," he said. "I couldn't stand it to think of your going with Sam when I wanted so to take you."

"You can go now!" she cried, securing possession of her own hands and proceeding to clap them. "One's fiance, you know, is always included!"—Chicago Daily News.

Mice Didn't Care.

Little Dorothea is one of those children whose danger signal is silence. When she is still, she is in mischief.

The other day her mother became aware of the quiet which boded trouble. She was about to look for the child when, at that moment, Dorothea came in, her face rosy with happiness and her mouth covered with crumbs.

"Where have you been, Dorothea?" asked her mother. "What are you eating?"

"Cheese," said the young lady, calmly.

"Cheese? Where did you get it, dear?"

"In the mouf-trap."

"In the mouf-trap!" exclaimed her mother, horrified.

"O, yeth!"

"But what will the mice do? They won't have any cheese."

"O, dey don't care, mamma! Dey was two mouffes in de trap, and dey didn't care a bit."

Good Test.

"Has Mrs. Biferis a sense of humor?"

"I'm afraid not. I've seen her look at Mr. Biferis a number of times without ever smiling."

Coughs Are Dangerous

Very frequently they lead to very serious results. No cough should ever be neglected. Just as soon as it occurs a remedy should be sought.

We believe that the very best treatment obtainable for coughs of any description is Rexall Cherry Bark Cough Syrup. We sell it under a positive guarantee that if it does not satisfy you and relieve your cough—your money back.

Rexall Cherry Bark Cough Syrup helps destroy the disease germs which are common causes of coughs. It helps check violent spasms of the tracheal tubes and tends to soothe the inflamed membranes and nerves, putting them in a condition of rest so that the injured tissues may have a chance to heal.

Rexall Cherry Bark Cough Syrup has a thoroughly agreeable taste and is equally good for young children or older people. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—F. E. Holsten.
