

Nebraska Stock Growers Association

(Incorporated)

HOME OFFICE, ALLIANCE, NEBRASKA

OFFICERS: R. M. Hampton, President, Alliance; A. Metzger, Vice Pres., Merriman; Chas. C. Jameson, Sec'y-Treas., Ellsworth.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: C. H. Tally, E. P. Meyers, Reuben Lisco, J. H. Bachelor, W. M. Fleishman, Robert Graham, E. M. Searle, Jr., Herman Krause, J. H. Monihan, A. R. Modisett, E. M. Eldred, O. T. Davis, Dan. E. Hill, Robert A. Cook, John H. Orr.

SCABIES QUARANTINE LIFTED

For South Dakota, New Mexico, and One County in Montana and Nebraska

The Secretary of Agriculture, under date of July 15th, has ordered released from quarantine for scabies, a contagious communicable disease of cattle, the remainder of the states of South Dakota and New Mexico. This releases from quarantine in South Dakota the counties of Lawrence, Pennington, Custer, Fall River, Washington, Shannon, Bennett, and Washabaugh. In New Mexico, the quarantine is raised from the following counties: Union, Guadalupe, Quay, Roosevelt, Chavez, Eddy, that portion of Torrance county lying east and south of the El Paso and Rock Island Railway, that portion of Lincoln county lying east and south of the El Paso and Northeastern and the El Paso & Rock Island Railways, and that portion of Otero county lying east of the El Paso and Northeastern Railway.

In the state of Montana, the county of Fergus is released from quarantine, and in the state of Nebraska the county of Thomas is released from quarantine for scabies. This means that the prohibition against shipping cattle from these previously quarantined districts into other sections is now ended.

BRINGING BACK OVERGRAZED STOCK RANGES

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The improved condition of the national forest range after regulated grazing is pointed to by experts of the department of agriculture as a demonstration that areas which have been severely damaged through overstocking by sheep and cattle can be brought back to their former carrying power through a system of sufficiently intelligent use.

A PRACTICAL INVENTION

Hay Stacker Invented by Experienced Hay Contractor Has Other Stackers All Beat

BIG DEMAND FOR NEW STACKER

Judge H. M. Bullock of Alliance is the inventor of a hay stacker that ranchmen pronounce a little the best thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has been working on his invention for several years, and now has it so perfected that he is more than willing to put it up against any other stacker in the world in a contest for supremacy. It has been thoroughly tested, and has proven just what it will do. On the theory that a dollar saved is a dollar earned, ranchmen will do well to give this machine a trial, and save time and expense in putting up their hay crop.

Otto P. Kaldal is associated with Judge Bullock in the manufacture of the stacker, which has been named the B-K Hay Stacker. The name of the firm is Bullock & Kaldal. Mr. Kaldal investigated the new invention and was fully convinced of its merits before putting money into the manufacture of it. He is a careful business man and is well known in this part of Nebraska. Ranchmen who know him will not hesitate to try the machine that he has invested in the manufacture of after careful investigation.

H. M. Bullock is an old timer in northwestern Nebraska, having resided in Sheridan and Box Butte counties twenty-nine years. While residing in Sheridan county he was elected county judge, afterwards removing to Box Butte. A few years ago he was elected police magistrate of the city of Alliance, which gave him an additional claim to the title of "Judge". The Herald is delighted at his success in his invention, because he is an old timer in this country and because he has worked hard on the invention and is deserving of success; and further because the invention will be a benefit to ranchmen who use it, upon whom the manufacturers must depend for their trade. In passing it should be mentioned here that Judge Bullock is an experienced hay man himself and understands the hay-making proposition from beginning to end. He formerly put up large amounts of hay under contract, having put up hay under contract for some of the largest ranchmen of the west.

This article is not an advertisement, it is a news item, but we wish in this connection to call special attention to the ad in this issue of The Herald of the B-K Hay Stacker.

MALINDA

June 30. Gaius Chapman was a caller at the Dean home Sunday.

The 4th passed off in this vicinity in a very sane way.

The Malinda school district 54

Lloyd's Column

A very good rule which is now being enforced at fires is the prohibiting of persons who are not firemen entering the premises or building where there is a fire. This gives the firemen greater freedom for work and prevents interference by outside parties. Alliance has seventy-five volunteer firemen and there are plenty to handle the equipment of the department. A record is kept of the firemen who report at fires.

A great many business men, when summer time comes, slow down all around on their business, and, instead of getting the business of the season that should come to them, let the other fellow hop in and get it. Many business men who are good advertisers during the other months, slow down on advertising during the summer, thereby letting their main business puller slack up. Don't do it, for it don't pay. Advertise seasonable goods and keep overhauling it at it. The big business successes of today are built on constant, continuous advertising. Not advertising done by short spurts, for that is not the kind that pays the best. The advertising that pulls, that gets the business, is the well planned, carefully written, constant advertising campaign that starts on January 1st and ends December 31st.

WANT NEW SALE RING

The success of the sale recently held at Alliance by the Alliance Horse & Mule Company, has shown the need for a new sale ring, to properly handle the sales which will be held here in the future. The following petition was signed by the business men of Alliance and presented to the Burlington officials this morning:

"We, the undersigned business men of Alliance, believe, from our observations of the local horse sales during the past two years, that Alliance is a good horse market, and that the sales will increase in size each summer.

"We petition the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company to adapt their new stock yards to the holding of the horse sales by building a sale ring, which will greatly facilitate the business."

Chase Feagins has aptly named his big red touring car "Bear Ketcher". And the boys say it is rightly named.

Although he had to go against his prognostication on one of the boxing contests on the fourth, "Doc" won wagers on both bouts. He is just naturally lucky or has great foresight when it comes to picking out the winners.

"Dear Clara," wrote the young man, "pardon me, but I am getting so forgetful. I proposed to you last night, but really forgot whether you said yes or no."

"Dear Will," she replied by note, "so glad to hear from you. I know I said 'no' to some one last night, but I had forgotten just who it was."

The Minister—"Mackintosh, why don't you come to church now?" Mackintosh—"For three reasons, sir. Firstly, I dinna like yer theology. Secondly, I dinna like yer singing, and thirdly, it was in yer kirk I first met my wife."—Musical America.

The man at the door—"Ma'am, I am the piano tuner."

The woman—"I didn't send for a piano tuner."

The man—"I know it, lady, the neighbors did."—Chicago News.

Wife (with magazine)—"It says here that a statute mile is 5280 feet, and a nautical mile 6080 feet. Now, why are they different, John?"

Hubby—"Why - er - you know, my dear, that things swell when in the water."—Boston Transcript.

Shy—What was it the choir just sang?

He—From the appearance of the congregation, I think it must have been some kind of a lullaby.—Exchange.

Striding halfway across the yard, the farmer, with gun at attention, called out:

"Here, you in the chicken house; who are you and what are you doing there?"

There was no answer, and the farmer again cried out:

"In the chicken house there! Who are you? Answer or I'll shoot."

Still there was a dead silence.

"Here, who's in there? If you don't answer I'll fire."

And from the remote corner of the darkness there came in hollow tones:

"Dar ain't nobody here 't all but jes' us chickens!"

A traveler who believed himself to be sole survivor of a shipwreck upon a cannibal island, hid for three days, in terror. Driven out by hunger, he discovered a thin wisp of smoke rising from a clump of bushes he heard a voice say: "Why in hell did you play that card?" He dropped on his knees, and, devoutly raising his hands, cried: "Thank God, they are Christians!"

Olive and Fred, aged five and three respectively, had just been seated for supper. Olive saw there was only one piece of pie and immediately she set up a wail.

"Why, Olive, what are you crying about?" asked her mother.

"Because there ain't any pie for brother," was the tearful response.

The following is taken from a paper read by Elmer Peterson, editor of the Cimarron (Kan.) Jacksonian, at a recent meeting of Kansas editors:

As a class, country editors are the most versatile people on earth. They have to cover a wide range of human activities, and do so. That is why they, as a rule, are not great financial successes, and, on the other hand, get the most fun out of life.

Specialization seems to be the inexorable price of financial success. Some country editors attain financial success by specialization in the business and others by paraphrasing, others by chasing locals, others by bearing down on the subscription list pedal, others by job printing and so it goes.

The job of the country editor is in a class by itself. There is no more similarity between the work of a country editor and that of a city newspaper worker than there is between peeling potatoes and playing a tuba. The city man is a specialist. He writes paragraphs or attends police court or operates a linotype—just one thing and nothing more.

Out in the country town his composite brother is the whole works, jumping lightly from the ink keg to the subscription book, sorting rules or collecting bills, washing rollers or writing paragraphs. He cannot be master of all trades, but he can be master of one which will bring him the necessary ghost perambulator. His position gives him an opportunity of having a lot of fun out of life, if he looks at things with a healthy viewpoint. And so he goes on, the average successful country editor, "tolling, rejoicing, sorrowing," jack of all trades and master of none.

Jack Hall, of the Crystal, says that from long observation he has decided that a dog will in time look like its owner. He says that he is quite sure of this and that in Missouri he one time saw a horse which had the same appearance as its owner. The horse had belonged to one owner for twenty-five years.

Bill Dew, of the Times, will soon make a trip to Clinton, Iowa, for a short visit with friends (or friend). We can only hope that our prediction in The Herald a few weeks ago will soon come true, and that on his return he will bring with him a Mrs. Dew.

F. O. Clayton, traveler for the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Company, with headquarters at Alliance, is in Omaha for a couple of weeks. He will return to Alliance about the first of the month.

CAL COX RETURNS

Sheriff Cal Cox returned Wednesday morning from his long auto trip with family to Phillipsburg, Kansas. They went with Messrs. Reddish, Mounts and Newberry to Kearney, from where Cal went to Franklin, Nebraska, then down to Phillipsburg, near where his wife's parents reside. They left Phillipsburg at seven o'clock Monday morning, arriving in Alliance at 10:30 Wednesday morning.

Mr. Howe, state agent for the New York Underwriters fire insurance company, and Mr. Miller, state agent for the Queen Insurance company, were in the city Tuesday.

Miss Joe Lyman

Juvenile Impersonator

Miss Julia Newcomb

Reader

AT THE

OPERA HOUSE Wednesday Eve., July 16th

The highest class attraction appearing in Alliance for many months

The Ainsworth Star-Journal said,

"The recital at the Auditorium last evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed by those present. A long and varied program of music and readings was given by Misses Lyman and Newcomb of Omaha under the auspices of the Woman's Club of this city.

"Miss Lyman's voice, a rich mezzo-soprano, delighted her hearers and she was recalled after every number.

"Miss Newcomb's reputation as an interpreter of dialect selections was fully sustained. The Scotch, Irish, negro and child dialects were all equally well given."

Under the auspices of

Alliance Woman's Suffrage Association

Admission: Adults, 35c; Children, 25c

TICKETS ON SALE AT DRUG STORES

SUMMER SALE

STARTS NEXT WEEK

We are too busy invoicing to quote prices in this paper. You will find hundreds of money-saving bargains in

Summer Goods

listed for this sale at prices that will compel you to buy. Extra clerks have been hired to wait on you. The goods will sell themselves. All prices plainly marked.

Norton's