THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1913.

That was very kind of those Wisconsin people to offer to pasture free all cattle that might be shipped there from the drought districts of this state, but they did not know that oceans of feed are going to waste in northwestern Nebraska for lack of sufficient cattle to eat it. This part of Nebraska needs more live stock rather than more feed.

FEDERAL GAME LAW

Shortens Hunting Day at Both Ends, Cuts Out Spring Shooting, Divides Country into Zones

EFFORTS MADE TO REPEAL IT

There is a good deal of misunderstanding in regard to the new game law of the United States. This is due to a great extent to a misunderstanding of the provisions of the law by some of the newspapers first trying to give information about it. Other papers relying upon those statements as being accurate, published them, thus giving greater publicity to the errors. The statements in the following extract from a dispatch from Washington, D. C., to the Nebraska State Journal under date of August 23rd are probably correct and we believe are reliable:

As the fall hunting season for geese, ducks and other transient water fowl approaches, hunters throughout the country are beginning to realize that Uncle Sam has curtailed their sport by taking the migratory birds under his protection. Already bills are being introduced to repeal the law.

After October 1, when the new federal law goes into effect, all shooting is forbidden during these hours just after sunset and before sunrise, which are the best of the day from the hunter's point of view.

According to the bureau officials, these regulations have been framed on the principle of giving the benefit of the doubt to the birds, whereas, laws previously enacted have been in the interest of the hunter.

At the same time an open season is provided, alleged to be reasonably long, and at a time of year when game birds are most abundant and at their best. It is argued that protection of the birds means in the end conserving sport for the hunter.

Many protests are being made against the prohibition of all shooting between sunset and sunrise, on the ground that it practically amounts to a closed season all the year for those whose only time for hunting is early in the morning or in the evening after work is over. Western men in congress claim that farmers are complaining that they are especially hard hit. Moreover in the fall the sun sets so early as to make the new hunting day far too short.

Possibly the most important and far reaching of the new regulations is the prohibition of all spring shooting. The reason for this is obviously the protection of the birds while enroute to their nesting grounds and while mating, and its enforcement it is believed will mean a great increase in numbers by fall. A third provision which is unpopular among the hunters is the absolute prohibition of all hunting on the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The intention of this is to provide water fowl a safe highway from their winter feeding grounds in the lower Mississippi valley to their nesting grounds in Minnesota and Dakota. It also affords an extended refuge which is easily defined and can be generally recognized.

The other regulations adopted by the department of agriculture for putting the new law into effect have to do for the most part with making uniform throughout the country the laws already existing in the various states. More than fifty separate seasons for migratory birds were provided under statutes in force in 1912. According to the experts this effort to provide special seasons for each kind of game in each locality merely made a chain of open seasons for migratory birds, and allowed their continued destruction from the beginning of the first season to the close of the last.

The Zone System

It is believed that better results will follow the adoption of the fewest possible number of zones and so regulating the season in each as to include the time when each species is the most abundant. For this reason the country has been divided into two zones, one to include the states in which the migratory birds breed, and the other the states in which they winter.

With these zones the seasons are fixed for the principal natural groups, waterfowl, rail, shore birds and woodcock. The hunting season is limited to a maximum of three or three and one-half months, and regulated and adjusted with a view to giving reasonable opportunity of securing thirty days' shooting of any species in a given place.

In zone one, which comprises states lying wholly or in part north of latitude 40 degrees and the Ohio river, few changes have been made except in diminishing spring shooting.

In zone two, comprising states south of latitude 40 degrees and west of the Ohio river, the open season for ducks is between October 1 and January 16. In zone one it is between September 1 and December 16. An exception is made in zone two of Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas, where the season is from November 1 to February 1.

A LITTLE WORD

A little word is but a sound, a sawed-off chunk of wind; we scatter little words round here to farthest Ind. They are such inexpensive things we don't economize, and so the world we live in rings with foolish words and wise. A little word just costs a breath, the shortest that you drew, yet it may wound some heart to death—some heart that's good and true. And wreck some man's renown or stain some woman's fame, and bring bright castles tumbling down into the muck of shame. Your little words, like poisoned darts, may crooked fly, or straight, and carry into loving hearts the venom dire of hate. Be not so lavish with the breath that forms the words of woe, the words that bear the chill of death and lay true friendship low. A word is but a slice of air that's fleeced by your tongue; so never let it bring despair or grief to old or young. But give to it a note of love and it will surely seem the symbol of the life above, and of an angel's dream.—Walt Mason.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Out of forty-one state legislatures in session during the season of 1913, laws dealing with tuberculosis were enacted in thirty states, while in thirty-four states consideration was given to bills dealing with the prevention of this disease. This is a summary of the legislative campaign for 1913, issued by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today.

Appropriations to the amount of over $5,000,000 have been set aside for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis by the various state legislatures in session this year. Most of this money is for the maintenance of state sanatoria. There are at the present time 29 such institutions in 31 different states. Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania each having more than one sanatorium. Delaware is the only state which has made provision for a state sanatorium for tuberculous negroes. In addition to the amounts appropriated by the various state governments, Congress will be obliged to set aside nearly $1,000,000 for the maintenance of the United States Public Health, the Army and the Navy sanatoria, and the tuberculosis hospital of the District of Columbia.

Among the notable advances in the legislative enactments of this year, are the tuberculosis registration law of Colorado; laws providing for subsidies to local hospitals in Minnesota and Wisconsin, an act providing for the establishment of county hospitals in Indiana, and the establishment of state bureaus for the prevention of tuberculosis in Ohio and California. A complete analysis of the tuberculosis legislation considered and enacted in 1913, is being prepared by The National Association.

SPORTING AFFAIRS

Edited by "DOC" COPLAND

At Hemingford last Saturday night the W. O. W. put on another one of their athletic entertainments, which was largely attended and as successful as in the past. The main event was a match between Hank Weber, light-weight champion of Wyoming, and Logan Champ of Grand Island, the latter winning in straight falls, the first in 23:30, the second in 18:40. Weber was handicapped owing to the fact that he was delayed and had to make a forty mile auto drive arriving at Hemingford after ten o'clock and going on the mat without any rest.

Marsland fans were treated to one of the best wrestling bouts, on Monday night, ever held there, the main event which caused so much interest being between Hank Weber of Wyoming, light-weight champion of his state, and Kid Florian of Whitman. Florian has wrestled in Marsland before and by his pleasing ways and his ability as a mat artist he has made himself a prime favorite with local fans. The go was a fast one, Florian having his hands full all the time, the first fall going 55 minutes flat, Florian winning, and also taking the second, in 18:20. This shows by defeating the Wyoming champion that the "Kid" has the goods. The next event of importance will be staged at Hemingford the first week in October—date is not set at present—Logan Champ and Kid Florian being matched for a return go, as Champ holds a win over Florian, defeating him July 4th.

Word received Tuesday from John King from Youngstown, Ohio, to the effect that he had been examined by "Donestetter" Reese, his trouble being misplaced tendons. Dr. Reese expects to have him in shape to go back into the game in a short time.

The Chicago White Sox have purchased pitcher "Red" Faber of the Des Moines club of the Western League.

The difference between an everyday pitcher and a pitcher who is a ball player, that is, one who can do other things in a game besides pitch, was forced home upon the fans at Somers park Tuesday. Cy Falkenberg was the pitcher while Walter Johnson was the pitcher-ball player. Had Falkenberg been able to do only one-third as well as his rival slay artist on offense, that is, produced a hit with Carish on third in the second inning, the Naps would have won the game. Johnson contributed a trifling which netted a run, a double and a bunt single which aided materially in the four runs. In the tenth inning, Falkenberg walked once and fanned twice. Johnson has run his string of straight wins up to fourteen games.

The Cross-Dundee battle dated for Labor day has been indefinitely postponed. Owing to the fatality in the recent Willard-Young fight which was held under the same management. Latest reports are to the effect that Willard is exonerated from all blame for the death of "Bull" Young.

Denver fans will see some scrap in the Burns-Charez go on tomorrow night. Charez rules favorite through his recent win over Patsy Branigan.

Do you know Teddy? You ought to. Bee Hive reopens Saturday.

Alliance Modern Woodmen Plan Big Rally and Reception

Head Consul Hon. A. R. Talbot to Be Present—Membership of All Adjoining Camps Invited to Attend

Alliance, Nebraska, 9-28-13.

The committees appointed by the local Woodmen Camp are busily engaged in making arrangements for their Big Rally and Reception to be held at the Gadsby Hall, Wednesday evening, September 10th. Arrangements are being made to hold a big Banquet after the program of the evening. Invitations have been extended to the membership of all adjoining camps; and all visiting Woodmen locally or otherwise are cordially invited to attend and take part in the festivities. A large attendance is expected. Mr. A. R. Talbot, Head Consul of the Society will be present through invitation from the Alliance camp and will address the delegations. The Head Consul will also give a Stereopticon illustrated lecture on the Woodmen Sanatorium for Tuberculosis located at Colorado Springs. This Sanatorium gives absolutely free treatment to members.

It is conceded that the Modern Woodmen of America is the largest and most popular fraternal Beneficiary Society in the United States, with a million members enrolled. The Society has paid to the widows and orphans of dead Woodmen in the aggregate $120,000,000 since date of organization. In the aggregate of $500,000 has been paid in relief payments through voluntary contributions from camps and members. No other Society can boast of this record in so short an experience. This should make every member proud of the Society to which they belong from a humanitarian or fraternal standpoint alike. The officers of the local camp expect to get properly organized for a busy time during the winter months and urge all local members to be in attendance at the meeting Sept. 10th, without fail.—Adv't 28-2482.

Sec. 12. Every Hotel, Rooming House, Apartment House and Restaurant in this state shall be properly plumbed, lighted and ventilated, and shall be conducted in every department with strict regard to health, comfort and safety of the guests. Provided, that such proper lighting shall be construed to apply to both daylight and illumination, and that such proper plumbing shall be construed to mean that all plumbing and drainage shall be constructed and planned according to approved sanitary principles, and that such proper ventilation shall be construed to mean that at least one door and one window in each sleeping room, also a transom as wide as the door, leading into the hallway. No room shall be used for a sleeping room which does not open to the outside of the building or upon light wells, air shafts or courts, and all sleeping rooms shall have at least one window and one door with a transom. In each sleeping room there must be at least one window with opening so arranged as to provide easy access to the outside of building, light wells, or courts.

Joe O'Connor, chairman of the hotel committee of Post M, has been doing his duty in a way that promises good results. He has been reporting a number of hotels in western Nebraska that have been violating the state hotel laws, with the result that they are giving some attention to the furnishing of proper accommodations.

Gus Appleburg, salesman for M. E. Smith & Company of Omaha, went to Omaha on Saturday to get his samples for the spring line. Gus says he will get his share of the business and that the next spring's goods will be the best ever.

Jack Hawes made a big western trip the last two weeks. He covered Montana and Wyoming points, doing a big record-breaking business and taking a number of interesting stage trips between points inaccessible by railroad.

Tom Poole, the John Deere representative, went to Lincoln this noon to be at the Lincoln office during the state fair next week.

Our friend Weiss, the energetic Underwood traveling salesman, has returned to his Alliance headquarters after seven weeks spent in the Black Hills territory.

Lloyd's Column

A silent partner is the fellow who makes a loud noise when the business goes wrong.

If you are a failure people tell all about what a bright fellow you are and it's a shame that laziness or booze or something holds you down.

If you are successful everybody says that you must have had a pull or that what you were doing was a cinch.

As long as a fellow has got to get in bad either way, obviously he might just as well attain success.

Ed Bishop was standing on the street the other day, talking to one of his friends, when a man came along the street, grabbed him by the shoulder and said, "Say, Mr. Bishop, when you get through there I want to talk with you a minute."

Ed turned around and said to him, "I have been taken for, nearly everywhere else in town, but this is the first time I ever knew that I look like Gene Burton." And the man fled.
