You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-size baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

CHECKERED FRONT LIVERY SOL

Harry Coursey Sells Flourishing Livery Business After Five Years in Alliance

Harry P. Coursey, the popular auctioneer and liveryman, on Monday sold the Checkered Front livery barn to Guy H. Mapp and Elmer R. Pederson of Alliance. Both men own ranches near Alliance. Possession of the barn and business was taken on Monday. They are experienced men and will continue to enjoy a good business.

Mr. Coursey engaged in the livery business here for five years, spending two years at the Palace barn and the last three at the checkered front. He will continue to reside in Alliance, crying sales and selling automobiles.

SEASON DID NOT STEAL CALF

Thomas County Man Acquitted of Charge in Cherry County. Lack of Evidence

(By Herald Correspondent.)
Valentine, Nebr., Feb. 2.—The trial of William Beason, who was accused of butchering a calf belonging to the Hamilton ranch, was held at this place today. Beason was found "not guilty" on account of lack of evidence.

The case was brought to this court by the Thomas county officials, who found after the preliminary hearing, that altho H. G. Hamilton has his farmhouse and barn in Thomas county, his house is in Cherry county.

NOT ENTHUSED OVER WEST

E. D. Marks, who returned last week from a trip thru Colorado, Utah and Idaho, does not seem to be much enthused over the country he saw. Of course he found that good crops are grown some places under irrigation, but on the whole he did not find that that country has anything on northwestern Nebraska as a place of residence or doing business.

WIDE-A-WAKE NEWS ITEMS

News from the Cane Lake Neighborhood by Herald Correspondent. Late Events

Frank McLaughlin, fourteen miles southeast of Alliance, known as Rattlesnake Mack, made a run on a high headed bronco on the evening of the 24th from C. E. Rice's to J. E. Rice's to Rush Lake. It seems that J. E. is in need of a real puncher.

C. D. Rice and wife spent Thursday evening with Alvin Leishman, returning Friday and stopping at Lee McLaughlin's for supper. Lee said he had five quarts of oysters left from the dance and he did not want them to spoil. C. D. played a big part finishing the muscles, finding a pearl in his dish, and the jolly bachelor had no claim on his find.

Mrs. Lee McLaughlin called on her daughter, Mrs. Rex Gamble, Saturday.

The jolly bachelor over-slept one day this week and on going to his trap secured some rat feed, but McLaughlin has gained clear of the getting kid spent Saturday night with C. D. Rice. He said all the people would like to know who writes the Rush Lake breezy items, says he would like to see him once for he is all right. I don't see why his daddy takes the time when he could just as well take The Herald.

The dances held in Rush Lake district would seem incomplete without the smiling face of Henry Smith. Mrs. C. D. Rice spends her winter evenings reading. She has read everything in the neighborhood, she has even red hair.

It seems that a certain kinkalder on going to milk the other evening found a small lamb, which was unclaimed by its mother, had drained off the cows nicely. He made the remark that that lamb is the smartest lamb that ever any sheep had in lambing time in 1914. He must be The Herald's Caddy.

Frank Conway has not left his Kinkalder for over three weeks. It appears that he must have sold his horse and outfit, but walking space is not all taken and shoes are cheap at the famous.

George Workman has invested in a pool hall at Ashland, Nebr., and is doing fine for a start, his income amounting to about 12 plunks of that most necessary cause each day. Good luck to Alkali Ike, we all wish him well.

Harry Smith is wearing a happy smile on his face when seen in company with a close neighbor girl. He seems to realize that the new big ranch house has room for one more.

Owing to the light snow fall Saturday evening, Louis Urge is driving a high and wide and handsome horse to a most clever sled, shooting jack rabbits.

Rabbits, rabbits, disappear in the doop.

And don't let Louis catch you asleep. The saddle horse which Mike Shay bought of Keenen received a heavy blow on the back of the dome from a two-year-old colt. The pony's carcass is not attracting the attention of the hungry coyotes on the side hill.

At Bert Trenkle's wedding his friends gave him a hearty welcome, hoping his troubles would all be little ones; well, about 12 a. m., when the night was cold a little one comes into Bert's home. Coal is not very high, but a long way to Alliance. Don't get discouraged, Bert, spring is coming.

ELKS HAVE FINE TIME

Club Rooms Crowded with Members and Visitors Friday Evening Fine Exhibition

The smoker given by the Elks at their club rooms Friday evening was a decided success from every point of view. The main feature of the entertainment was the wrestling match between O. L. Stanley and Logan Champ. They gave a wrestling exhibition lasting thirty minutes which was full of interest. After the exhibition they gave an explanation of the different holds used in wrestling which was interesting.

Following the wrestling exhibition the vaudeville team from the Crystal, DeFay & Moore, presented a classy comedy novelty musical act that brought out rounds of applause. They are artists in their line.

And last but not least came a spread of good things to eat that satisfied the most hungry. There was plenty of fine chicken, deliciously cooked, with plenty of extras. The Elks can pat themselves on the back and take it from us that they are capital entertainers.

COTTONWOOD VALLEY

"Steve" is the name of The Herald's new correspondent from Cottonwood Valley, near the county line southwest of Alliance, and we are glad to add his name to our fine list of assistant news gatherers. The paper has a nice list of subscribers in that part of the county and will be more interesting than ever to them.

Your Wife's Work is just as trying and important as your own and perhaps more tedious—but her strength is great?

Women who are nervous and fretful and easily fatigued promptly gain strength and natural energy by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals because it is essentially nourishment—not a drug that stupefies or alcohol that stimulates—there is pure, rich medical nourishment in every drop which nature appropriates to enrich the blood and rebuild the latent forces of the body.

Probably nothing is more popular with physicians for just such conditions than Scott's Emulsion.

Avoid substitutes called "wines," "extracts" or "active principles"—they are not cod liver oil.

SUIT AGAINST STOCK HOLDERS

Creditors of Defunct Railroad Men's Co-Operative Store File Suits for Claims

Suit has been filed in the district court by the creditors of the Railroad Men's Co-Operative store against 100 defendants, stockholders in the corporation, for claims amounting to $3,500. E. H. Boyd is attorney for the creditors.

The store went into the hands of a receiver on March 1, 1912, with claims of $7,000 against it. Fifty-three and three-tenths per cent. of these claims have been paid, leaving a balance of $3,500 due the creditors of the store. The creditors are McCord Brady company, the Donald company, Raymond Brothers Clarke company, Kearney Flour Mills, Hager Candy company, Swift & Company, Item Biscuit company and Forest Lumber company.

The business was originally incorporated, small blocks of stock being sold among over 100 different people. It is said, however, that the failure to file the articles of incorporation with the county clerk invalidates the articles of incorporation and causes each stockholder to become a partner. This is the reason for the suit being brought against the stockholders individually, it being claimed that each individual is liable for the entire amount of the indebtedness.

PECKENPAUGH DIED SATURDAY

J. T. Peckepaugh, better known to Alliance railroad people as "Thad," died at Sterling, Colo., Saturday from heart trouble. He removed from Alliance in May, 1912. In Alliance he was night chief dispatcher, being promoted to the position of day chief at Sterling. He came to Alliance January 1, 1912. He leaves a wife and eight year old boy.

Services will be held at Sterling, at 10:30 o'clock, Sunday morning. A special train with friends from Alliance will probably leave at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The remains will be sent to Sheridan, Wyo., for burial.

BUSINESS MEN DISPLEASED

Starting of Third Paper as Organ of Political Ring Looked Upon with Disfavor

The proposition to start a third paper in Alliance to help out the political fortunes of a few unpopular politicians is being frowned upon by the people of this city, except those who have "an ax to grind." The support of a local newspaper usually falls principally upon the business men of the town as advertisers. As there is no need whatever for another paper here, either from the standpoint of business or for the dissemination of news, a good many of the business men are protesting against placing a useless burden upon them, in order to patronize all the home papers.

Those who have been readers of The Herald for the past few years know that it has been our policy to discourage the needless multiplication of business houses in any line. While reaching out for the establishment in Alliance of lines of business not already or properly represented, we have endeavored to dissuade persons from starting any new establishments that would be detrimental to the general business interests of the city. This paper has recognized the fact that a town is not benefited by dividing up business among too large a number of establishments of the same kind. A few first-class mercantile establishments are more to the credit of a city and serve the public far better than a whole lot of small stores that because of too many of the kind can never grow into anything more than little, dinky, one-horse affairs.

It is the same way with newspapers, only worse because of the burden of support falling so largely upon other business interests. And when it is taken into consideration, as people here commonly know, that the new paper is being started for political purposes, it is not strange that honorable business men of the city are displeased with the project.

As for helping the political aspirations of the office seekers who are back of it, the only way we can see it might do that would be by promoting deceptions that have been practiced privately. Whether it can do that remains to be seen.

SAYS "MORE THAN WELL PLEASD"

Manager of the Moore Grocery Co. Satisfied with Results of Late Special Sale

In mentioning in a recent issue of The Herald the successful special sales conducted in Alliance this winter; that of the Moore Grocery Co. should have been included, as it was one of the principal sales of the month. In speaking of this sale Manager Lee Moore remarked that he was "more than well pleased." And right here we wish to call attention to the combination that made the sale a success:

It was well advertised thru The Herald and by means of well printed hand bills; the advertising was backed up by goods of good quality and low prices; customers received courteous treatment and prompt service. If those merchants who complain about "trade being quiet" will try the same combination, The Herald will guarantee that they will be "more than well pleased."

Why Not Have a Bell Telephone on Either Floor?

A telephone down-stairs and an extension up-stairs—that's home convenience.

An extension up-stairs would save many stair climbs during the day and disagreeable trips down-stairs late at night.

With an extension you could call or be called from either floor at any time.

RETURNS FROM LONG TRIP

Senior Member of Firm of Feagins & Son Covered Wide Territory in South

James Feagins, senior member of the firm of Feagins & Son, dealers in live stock, returned Thursday noon from an extended southern trip. He was accompanied on most of the trip by the well known stockman, J. Taylor, and wife of Whitman.

Mr. Feagins sold Mr. Taylor 1,000 head of cattle at Laredo, Texas, on the Mexican border. They will be delivered here in May.

They visited Denver, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Laredo, Hebronville and other Texas points. At San Antonio they met R. M. Hampton of Alliance and spent some time with him. At San Antonio they also visited the old missions which were erected about 1712.

"The country is green and in fine shape in southern Texas," said Mr. Feagins. "The cattle are in good shape. We enjoyed our trip greatly."
