HUERTA OVERTHROWN BY GENERAL BLANQUET

Mexican despot victim of same treatment given Maderio—Huerta may be executed by mutinous soldiers—foreigners held at Cordoba and Gauralajara released by order of Blanquet

WILSON WILL DEAL WITH LEADERS

(International News Service)

Mexico City, April 29.—It is reported on good authority that President Huerta has broken with General Blanquet and that an army revolt which will result in the overthrow of Huerta is imminent. It is reported that Huerta's lieutenants are securing trains for his use in case he decides to flee the country. There is an ominous calm here today. There are no demonstrations on the streets and the soldiers are sullen. There are rumors of revolt on every hand.

Two hundred and forty-six Americans left for the coast at ten o'clock last night. The cars were crowded with Americans. At midnight a warning was issued to Americans that it was their last chance to get away. On account of the fact that the railroad is torn up the destination of the trains is Coatzacoalcas instead of Vera Cruz.

Washington, April 29.—A high naval officer, close to the administration, reports that the president will never recognize Huerta but that he wants peace. If mediation fails Wilson will demand that Huerta, Carranza, Villa, Zapata and other Mexican leaders all be treated on the same plane. Of course Huerta will refuse, then Wilson plans to ignore Huerta and deal with the others as true representatives of the Mexican people and will ask these leaders to remove Huerta, using the American forces to aid them if necessary. The Navy department plans to keep the present civil government in effect at Vera Cruz for six months at least. Similar governments will be established in other cities captured by the American forces.

Consul Canada at Vera Cruz reports that General Blanquet at Mexico City has ordered all persons held by Mexican troops at Cordoba and Guajalajara be released and that they be sent to Vera Cruz. Blanquet is also willing to comply with all requests for the release of foreigners.

Bulletin, 4 p. m.

Vera Cruz.—A detachment of blue jackets left this afternoon aboard a train carrying supplies to repair the railroad from this city to Mexico City. They will try and obtain the co-operation of the federals in the work.

Washington.—The South American envoys have asked this government and Huerta for an armistice as the next step in mediation negotiations. It is understood that President Wilson is willing, provided assurance is given by Huerta that there will be no civil uprisings against the Americans in Mexico while the armistice is in force.

POLITICAL REPORTER ON DAILY

Fifth Article Written by the Ex-Reporter for The Herald—Many Points in the Game

The times have changed since the old days, when the political reporter used to invite the politician into the saloon to have "one on him," and then pump him. Nowadays, if it happens at all, it is generally the other way.

At the capitol a "pull man" (political reporter) for a large city daily is known as a staff correspondent.

America's greatest "pull man" is a "special correspondent". (that is, he writes news for various papers, in different cities) of course his headquarters are in Washington where he gets a yearly income of $10,000.

Before all important events such as the passing of some big bill by the house, etc., the "pull man" writes his "copy" in advance, one if the bill should pass, and one if it failed to do so, this is known as "forecasting." Sometimes he wires his "copy" to his paper in advance leaving blank spaces to be filled in after the event has taken place, thus to save time.

He is usually a man of wide experience in the newspaper game who has been connected with his paper for several years.

He must know every congressman, senator and bureau chief in the capitol, besides being able to size them up and know how to learn their feelings about certain policies and bills, in other words, he must be a born interviewer.

I might as well state here that there are certain "rules" and "by-laws" made by the clubs and the association, which the reporter must live up to. If he does break them, he will find himself an outcast among his kind, and no paper will employ him, as he will look at his news in a wrong light, that is, he will write news which will antagonize what all the other papers in the country are printing.

187 MINERS DYING AT BURNING MINE

All hope given up for saving lives of men who were entombed by gas explosion Tuesday night—Flames and smoke pouring from shafts in great volumes.

RESCUERS UNABLE TO ASSIST THEM

(International News Service)

Eccles, West Virginia, April 29.—187 miners are still entombed in mines No. 5 and 6 of the New River Colliers Company and all hope for their safety have been given up. The explosion occurred Tuesday evening. Two government mine rescue cars are on the scene and their forces are using every effort to penetrate the shafts, from which great clouds of fire and smoke are belching. There were a number of explosions during the night, indicating that gas pockets were being ignited by the flames.

Eleven bodies have so far been recovered. Many who escaped after the first explosion will die from their injuries. Antonio Rojas, one of those rescued, said that the miners were working as usual when suddenly there was a deafening roar and a wall of flames swept thru the shaft. All instinctively threw themselves on the floor of the shaft. The noise seemed to burst their ears and the gas filled their lungs. Flames burned all around them. Rojas fainted and came to himself after being rescued.

Crowds of agonized women huddled about the shafts all night, hoping for news of husbands, sons and fathers.

Bulletin, 4 p. m.

Denver.—The entrance of federal troops into the strike zone caused a cessation of hostilities. The only battle going on this afternoon was at the Forbes mine, where eight were reported killed. It is feared that battles will break out again tonight.

New York City.—Upton Sinclair, the novelist, led an immense parade of "mourning pickets" before the Standard Oil Company building this afternoon, as a protest against the killing of the strikers in Colorado coal fields. They were arrested but later released. A great crowd gathered.
