Mr. Earl Mallery, of the Mallery Grocery Company---president of the Commercial Club, has had the proprietor of The Standard Grocery ARRESTED for selling Schillings Finest Natural Leaf Japan Tea for forty cents per pound. What do you think of this?

We believe that you believe there exists a "COMBINE" here to keep prices up, and we believe this method is taken to force us to leave Alliance. Well, we are going to stay as long as the good people of this country wish us to sell groceries at the right prices. It has sifted down to the question of---whether the Standard will continue with YOUR LIBERAL PATRONAGE to keep prices down or whether you want to pay more for your groceries after a while.

Your credit is good for 30 days if you are "good" and will pay

No matter where you trade, make them meet our prices.

LESSON FOR JUNE 11

SOWING AND REAPING (TEMPERANCE LESSON.)

LESSON TEXT--Galatians 4.
GOLDEN TEXT--God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap--Gal. 6:7.

We turn aside today to consider the second temperance lesson for the year. Paul's letter to the churches of Galatia strongly contrasts law and grace. Its key verse is ch. 2:16, and its most prominent word is "law," many claim verse one of Chapter 3 as its golden verse. This final chapter is a most practical one and rich in suggestion regarding our social relations. Let each member come prepared to give a temperance application or to ask a temperance question. I. "Bear Ye One Another's Burdens" (vv. 1-5). If a man trespass, be surprised in a sin, be caught in the very act, or surprised into committing a sin, "ye which are spiritual" (literally, guided and governed by the spirit; ch. 5:16-25) are to restore such a one. This is to be done, not by cutting off or casting aside the erring one, but as a dislocated limb is restored to its place, so we are to "restore" that one to his place as a believer; each believing being a member of the body of Christ (I Cor. 12:13, 14, 27); one who falls into sin is a dislocated limb or member, and the stronger ones are to restore him to his proper place. This must be done, however, not with any sense of our own infallibility, but in meekness, gentleness and with great tenderness. (See II Tim. 2:24-26). Paul's reason for this, "lest thou also be tempted" should lay low the pride any of us who have not fallen might feel (v. 1; Math. 7:3-5; Jas. 2:13). Instead of exclaiming, "I could never have done any such act," we ought rather to say, "But for the grace of God I might have done even worse than that." (I Cor. 10:13). The burdens (v. 2) or weights which we are to bear are not the unnecessary details of the Mosaic law (Math. 23:4; Acts 15:10) but rather they are the temptations, weaknesses and failures of others. The master "came not to be ministered unto but to minister" and was "tempted in all points," "touched with a feeling of our infirmities" and in our thus sharing with each other we but follow in his steps (Ch. 5:4; John 13:34, 15:12; Romans 15:3). This is the "law of Christ," not onerous, not a grievous burden, not necessarily an obligation, but a "law" because he, our "file leader," fully and perfectly exemplifies it (Phil. 2:5-8). It is chiefly self-control and spiritual pride (v. 3) which stands in the way of gentle forbearance in dealing with our erring brothers. Such pride does not usually deceive others (Jas. 1:22-24) and he who is so controlled, "deceiveth himself."

II. "Whatsoever a Man Soweth" vv. 6-8. While each must so bear his burden, yet those who are taught are to help those who teach to bear their burdens by contributing "in all good things" (Rom. 15:27; I Cor. 9:11-14). Paul sounds a solemn warning to those who refuse thus to help forward the work of righteousness: those who fail to support others and think that their selfishness will accrue to their advantage (v. 7). The natural world has many illustrations of this immutable law. Men may mock (sneer at) this law, but find eventually that there is no escape from its operation. This law has many applications. The one in the context is, first, a physical one (v. 8), a most familiar one to us all. The same is true spiritually, and has been repeated by him and throughout the history of the Christian church. (I Cor. 9:5-6; Prov. 11:24). In all of our actions, physical, mental, moral, social and spiritual we reap what we sow; like in kind, sown sparingly we reap sparingly, abundantly, and we reap in abundance.

III. "We Shall Reap, If We Sow" vv. 9-12. Paul now proceeds to make the practical application. If we act under the leadership of the Spirit (See ch. 5:16-25) we avoid carnal mindedness, and we are sowing to the Spirit and of the Spirit (who is life John 6:63; II Cor. 3:6), we shall reap "life eternal," i. e., life which is endless in duration and divine in its essence. There must be, however, persistence. We must not withhold the good seed nor refrain from sowing it if we are to reap the reward suggested in verses nine and ten. If we do so withhold, or should we sow ought but the "good seed," we will surely reap the awful harvest suggested in verses 7 and 8. Temporal weariness or discouragement will not excuse us for any negligence. Nor are we to be impatient, for "in due season," in God's time (I Tim. 6:14, 15) we shall reap; not perhaps immediately but the issue is certain.

Some fail to reap because of laxity; others continue cultivation too long; still others, by overlooking their "opportunity" to do good (v. 10) and hence having not sown, they cannot reap.

Paul suggests (v. 12) that the sowing of which he speaks is not for any outward show nor for conformity to the edicts and regulations of men in order to avoid persecution. (v. 13 R. V.).
