Locating Things
I left her at the break of day,
Within the open door,
The sunlight on her locks of gray,
Her shadow on the floor.
—Terre Haute Tribune.

The grass, of course, was on the lawn
And meat came after grace—
Aye, everything that perfect dawn
Was in its proper place.
—Buffalo Evening News.

Clearly, he left her—say no more;
The sun was in the sky—
He left her at the open door,
And does not tell us why.
—Bixby in State Journal.

Perhaps the break of day showed him
That she was fat and he was slim—
And memory punched him in the ribs
So back he went to wife and kids.

"Our banking system should be reformed," remarked the old fogey.
"That's right," agreed the grouch.
"There should be some way to prevent checks from coming back marked 'No Funds'."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?"
"Yes, your honor. He caught me suddenly by the coat-collar and threatened to truncheon me unless I accompanied him quietly to the station."
"You were peacefully attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind?"
"None whatever, sir."
"It seems very strange. What is your business?"
"I'm a burglar."—Tit-Bits.

A wild-eyed, disheveled-looking woman burst into the local police station. "My husband has been threatening to drown himself for some time," she cried, hysterically; "and he's been missing now for two days. I want you to have the canal dragged." "Anything peculiar about him by which he can be recognized, supposing we find the body?" inquired the inspector. The woman hesitated, and seemed at a loss for a minute or two. Then a look of relief slowly overcame her face. "Why, yes," she exclaimed at last; "he's deaf!"

During a social evening a woman sang for the guests. One of the guests turned to a meek-looking little man sitting at his side and said: "How awful! Who can she be?" "That," replied the man addressed, "is my wife." "Oh, I b-b-beg your pardon!" stuttered the other. "She's really a—I know she'd sing beautifully if she made a better selection of her music. Who do you suppose wrote that song?" "I am the author of that song!" replied the meek-looking little man.

A priest one Sunday was showing off his class and proceeded to ask one little boy in the presence of the archbishop: "What is matrimony?"
The little boy's eyes bulged out at the suddenness with which the question was put, and then he said mechanically: "Matrimony is a state of punishment to which some souls are condemned to suffer for a while before they are considered good enough to go to heaven."
"Tut, tut," said the priest. "That is the definition of purgatory."
"Let him alone," said the archbishop. "He may be right—what do you and I know about it, anyway?"—Everybody's.

"Ma husband's very poorly, ma'am. He's got dat exclamatory rheumatism." "You mean inflammatory, Martha. Exclamatory is from exclam, which means to cry out."
"Yes, ma'am, dat's what it is. He hollers if anyone goes near him."—Boston Transcript.

"Isn't it funny how an intelligent man can be superstitious?" remarked Smith.
"It is," replied Brown. "Why, I regard Friday as my lucky day and thirteen as my lucky number. There's nothing superstitious about me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

First urchin—I'd rather be Mr. Hughes than Mr. Wilson.
Second urchin—Why?
First—Wouldn't have so much face ter wash.—Boston Transcript.

Crawford—I suppose Rockefeller, as usual, was the largest contributor to charity the past year.
Crabshaw—It looks so, the way gasoline is going up.—Life.

Novel Use for Peat
Some interesting uses are being made of peat in the United States. It is manufactured into a fertilizer and employed as a fertilizer filler. It is also used for making paper, stock food and mud baths.

In Germany and Austria peat baths have become well-established institutions within the last few years, and recently such baths have been tried in some of the sanitariums of the Middle West with excellent results in certain cases.

As a food for live stock, however, peat seems to have found its most curious use, inasmuch as the kind of peat used is thousands of years old, and, though it is still vegetable in character, it is only a step removed from a low-grade coal.

As a stock food it is used in a mixture containing molasses. Results have been reported by veterinarians as satisfactory, the peat acting as a tonic and corrective.

The kind used in the black, well-humified, or rotted kind. It is prepared in virtually the same manner as that intended for use as a fertilizer.

About 57,000 tons of peat was "mined" in the United States last year, with a value of approximately $367,000. It is not generally realized that the peat deposits of this country are among the most extensive in the world.

Address: School of Lip Language, Kansas City Missouri.

Copies Complete Article
The Daily Drovers Journal-Stockman, the leading newspaper of its kind in Nebraska, published at South Omaha, in its issue of July 24th, printed the complete article published in The Alliance Herald on July 20, telling of the farmers' picnic and excursion in Box Butte county on July 18. The article occupied more than a column in the Journal-Stockman, and gave Box Butte county some well deserved advertising.

SQUEEZING BLOOD OUT OF A TURNIP

A Lot of People Apparently Think It Can Be Done

"You can't squeeze blood out of a turnip." This is absolutely true, but a lot of people evidently don't believe it.

You can't expect nervous, run-down men and women to be cheery, normal beings. They don't get one-half out of life that they deserve. But a lot of people expect it of them.

In every community there are a legion of these men and women. Not really sick, perhaps, but affected with a nervous, debilitated condition so that they imagine countless things are wrong with them. They have frequent headaches, are sluggish in mind and in body and they haven't enough real energy to make them self-reliant in even the little things of life. They haven't enough rich, red blood to nourish their bodies.

Their vital organs are congested. They need something to speed up their assimilation to a normal state, something to bring back old vitality, self-reliance and a cheery view of life.

They need something that contains the right nerve food, tonic, invigorator and appetizer which will awaken their sleeping energies.

Tanlac is designed especially to meet these conditions. For the relief of stomach, kidney and liver ailments and catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes it is believed to be without an equal. It fortifies one to better encounter fatigue, exposure and the daily grind of life.

Tanlac has won the greatest success ever scored by a medicine. It could not have done so without superlative merit. As the proof of the pudding is in the eating, so is the proof of Tanlac in the taking.

Tanlac now may be obtained in Alliance at the Thiele drug store, where it is being personally introduced and explained.

Keep Hogs Cool
During the hot months of summer, hogs suffer from lack of shade and are often lost on account of the heat. Where there is no natural shade, the College of Agriculture says it should be provided by sheds which may be movable or permanent. These can be had with but little expense by a pole and straw roof supported by posts. This will allow the free circulation of air, and if the water supply is near will enable the hogs to pass the heated period safely.

We will furnish the money to build homes in Alliance. We inspect the property ourselves and furnish money quickly at a low rate of interest. Nebraska Land Company, Alliance, Nebr.
