HERALD READERS HELPED

MAKE CHRISTMAS COMPLETE
No doubt Herald readers will be glad to hear the result of the work accomplished by the committee in charge of the charitable work for the worthy poor. Through the kindness of the local papers the facts were widely published and the public responded in their usual generous manner. Many were the bundles of good warm clothing sent to headquarters, and five families consisting of about forty persons were thus fitted with warm clothing. Besides these there were fruit and vegetables and an abundant supply of toys and small gifts to delight the hearts of the children. Those in charge of the work desire to express their thanks both to The Herald and to those of its readers who helped in making these people happier and more comfortable by their kindness.

THE COMMITTEE.

"PEEP SIGHTS" TELLS OF WOMAN'S DRESS
Peep Sights remarks as follows: "A woman from Denver hung an expensive dress on a nail in her room and went to bed in one of the local rooming houses. She stated that when she came back both sleeves were cut from her dress. Yet she had but one room." Perhaps she borrowed THE key.
