BATTERY CHARGE AND DISCHARGE
"While being charged or discharged a battery gradually undergoes a chemical change," says Charles F. Schafer, 114 East 3rd St., Alliance, of the USL Battery and Service Station. "Without going deeply into the minute chemical detail, let us say that during the charge the battery vitals change progressively from one chemical state to another. During this transition the temperature of the battery rises, the electrolyte bubbles and throws off hydrogen and oxygen gas, and the specific gravity increases."
"After you have completed the charge and opened the circuit the battery will retain its secondary state almost indefinitely under a sort of tension—that is, it is trying to regain its original state and will start to do so at the first opportunity. So, when you close the circuit, with your starting or lighting button, the battery vitals will start a progressive chemical change back to their first state and in so doing will deliver electrical energy."
"Electrolyte is a mixture of water and acid. Acid is the heavier. During charge the acid progressively disunites from the plates and enters into the electrolyte making the latter grow heavier. During discharge the acid combines progressively with the plates, leaving behind the water and thus making the electrolyte lighter and lighter. The progress from one value of specific gravity to another is in direct proportion to the degree to which charge or discharge has been carried. The battery builder makes his plates of definite composition and uses electrolyte of definite specific gravity so that thereafter unless the user upsets the plot by carelessly transferring electrolyte from one cell to another or by turning apothecary and introducing excess acid or other material, the specific gravity at any moment is the one definite index to the state of charge of the battery.

"Car owners who are interested in the real inner workings of their storage battery are advised to get, free of charge, the interestingly instructive booklet 'Black Box of Mystery Explained,' which is mailed upon request by the U. S. Light and Heat Corporation, of Niagara Falls, N. Y."

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water
Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.
Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.
If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddied complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.
Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.
Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

PUT FISH IN DAM LAKE
Several hundred young bass were turned loose in the Kilpatrick dam lake twenty miles west of Alliance Saturday evening by F. E. Holsten, an enthusiastic local sportsman and angler. Mr. Holsten, accompanied by George Edick and Lloyd Thomas, made the trip out to the lake in The Herald's Crow-Elkhart auto immediately after the arrival of the fish on 44. The fish were secured by Mr. Thomas from the state fishery at Valentine.
A supply of bass were also received in the same shipment for Krause Brothers and turned loose by Herman Krause the same evening in the large lake on their ranch northeast of Alliance. Herman Krause made a trip to town by auto for the baby fish and liberated them in their new home the same evening.
It is difficult to ship fish safely during the hot weather. Lloyd expects to secure another larger shipment for these lakes this fall. Mr. Holsten is taking much interest in seeing the Kilpatrick lake well stocked for the benefit of local fishermen.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR
Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can Tell.
You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.
Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.
This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.
This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

POTATO GROWERS NEED NOT FEAR FOOD CONTROL
E. Percy Miller, of Albert Miller & Company, who have large potato storage cellars at Alliance, Hemingford and Marsland, recently spent several days at Washington, D. C., where he called at Herbert C. Hoover's office, in order that he might obtain first hand the attitude of that office toward the matter of food control, which is so much before the public at this time, and which is naturally of vital interest to everyone connected with the fruit and produce deal.

Mr. Miller stated that he was well pleased with his findings as he found those connected with Mr. Hoover's office to have a fairly good working knowledge of what is required in the marketing of perishable farm products and that they did not maintain some of the unreasonable ideal with which they had been credited. Without question, if it becomes necessary to regulate the distribution of perishable farm products, the food commissioner's office will obtain the services of parties who are thoroughly familiar with food problems. In order that they might have the best possible knowledge of conditions which the trade have to meet, they are getting expressions of opinions now from leading members of the trade, and Mr. Miller has been requested to write Chairman Hoover in detail, giving that office a complete outline as to how the commercial potato business is handled.

NORRIS BLAMES FOOD SPECULATORS
U. S. Senator from Nebraska Writes Alliance Man That He Hopes Relief Is in Sight

An Alliance man recently wrote to U. S. Senator G. W. Norris regarding the high cost of the necessities of life. He received the following reply from the senator the first of this week:
"I have your letter relative to the present high cost of necessities and I agree with you that there is just cause for complaint. Prices are too high and unless something is done to reduce them a most serious condition will develop.
"I have hopes that the pending Food Administration bill will be so framed and enacted as to furnish the relief needed. While there has been an abnormal demand upon the food supply of the United States, because of conditions in Europe, such demand has not been the only factor in bringing about present high prices. The food speculator is the man who may be properly charged in my judgment with the crime in the matter."
"I have given every available moment to a study of the food problem and am convinced that we must promptly take action to encourage production, totally stop speculation, and guard against waste in the distribution of all necessities. I believe the pending bill can be made to accomplish the desired result if it is properly administered after it becomes a law. I can not help but feel, however, that the government has not done all that it could to curb the activities of the food speculator. If the Sherman Anti-trust law had been fully enforced by administration officials at least some of the food pirates might have been brought to time and present prices for necessities might have been within reason.
"The food problem mis one in which I am deeply interested and I will do all within my power to secure needed legislation with as little delay as is necessary. When the laws are enacted, however, they are worthless unless enforced by the Executive Department of the government. Consequently, the success of the Food Administration plan will depend not only upon the provisions of the measure as it becomes a law, but upon the administration of the provisions of the measure as it becomes a law, but upon the administration of the provisions contained in the law. The bill is now being considered by the Senate, and was passed by the House of Representatives Saturday of last week."

MALONEY SUSPENDED BY OMAHA COUNCIL
Defendant in Chadron Case to Be Tried in Alliance Called Superior a "Dirty Rat"

Chief of Detectives Steve Maloney of the Omaha police force, who is one of the defendants in the now well-known Chadron-Omaha attempt to blackmail case, which is to be tried in Alliance, starting October 15, was found guilty by the Omaha city commissioners of the charge of having called his superior officer, Commissioner A. C. Kugel, a "dirty rat." The Omaha council, on motion of Mayor Dahlman, held the charges sustained and ordered suspension without pay for ninety days.
A second count in the information was of falsely accusing Kugel of conspiring with Detective Sutton of Omaha to offer false testimony against Maloney. The vote stood three to two in favor of the resolution.
The trial was featured by an apology by Maloney, who admitted that in the heat of the hearing he lost his temper and made a statement that he should not have uttered.
