Kansas City-A decided recovery from the weakness of the previous week was evident in the potato market of last week, and prices on all varities were higher. Buying showed larger proportions than the trade anticipated, and a slight shortage was felt here the first of the week. The fluctuation seems to be entirely a local matter with the characteristics of a reaction from the weakness of the last two previous weeks. For more German potash imports until after than six weeks the supply of potatoes cellent effect on the Nebraska indus-try, which will be able to stand on its own feet in competition with other oother points of the country. Many sources of production in the United complaints have been made by the States at all times. The Nebraska industry is a permanent one and the garding low prices here compared millions of dollars invested during with other points. Now the accumula past months and now being invested tion has been worked off, and a slight will bring good returns during the reaction felt. Although buying has been more liberal than expected, the demand has not shown any unusual proportions for this period of the year. The sale of potatoes is usually
