LUSK A COMPETITOR FOR OIL REFINERY

Small Oil Town on the Northwestern After the Oil Refinery Proposed for Alliance

The Alliance Herald on December 19th announced that the Illinois Pipe Line Company, operating in the Lance Creek field of Wyoming, was favorably considering the starting of an oil pipe line towards Omaha and that Alliance might be the site of a new refinery to be erected to care for oil for this field.

Work on the new pipe line commenced on January 15th from the Lance Creek field which is north of Lusk. The pipe line will extend first the twenty-six miles to Lusk, which is endeavoring to convince the company that it is the logical site for a new refinery. The first section of the new pipe line to be built will be twenty-six miles in length, extending to the railroad at Lusk, where the oil will be loaded in tank cars and shipped to Casper for refining until the company extends the line towards Omaha, via Alliance, until a refinery is erected at Alliance, or until a refinery is erected at Lusk, which is not probable.

The line will consist of six-inch pipe, which will afford a capacity of at least 15,000 barrels a day for the field.

The company has arranged for the purchase of a 27-acre tract on the Jake mill ranch, one mile north of the Ohio No. 1 well on sec. 36-36n 65w, where it will erect its pumping station. At this point reservoirs will be constructed to gather the crude from all portions of the field. It has also acquired 38 acres immediately west of Lusk for its loading racks and tank farm. Right of way is now being secured. Thirteen miles of the line will be laid from the Lusk end and the remaining 13 miles will be laid from the field terminal.

Eight cars of six-inch pipe have arrived at Lusk and it will take altogether about 50 cars of pipe, weighing 5,000,000 pounds, to complete the line. A telephone line is now being constructed along the route.

The report throughout the potash district that the large Merriman reduction plant had been destroyed by fire has proved to have been unfounded. An oil explosion did some damage to a part of the plant but not enough to shut it down or prevent production.

We can live but once. Why not enjoy the chance to go where we please, when we please! The auto and good roads make all distances short.

Morale—a New Word.

Napoleon once remarked that morale is to other factors in war as three to one. Morale is a new word to our speech, and I do not know that anyone has yet fully defined it, but there are certain factors which must enter into its composition. And one of these factors is the turning of men's minds away from the trenches to other thoughts and occupations. Without a change of mental atmosphere morbidity comes and homesickness and the feeling of being "fed up" on the war dulls the fine edge of enthusiasm.—Bruce Barton in Red Cross Magazine.
