Fireman Brost, well known member of the Alliance fire department, who has returned to Alliance from a sojourn at Antioch, advises that the visitors to the city on April 30th need have no fear of lack of "eats" or a place to sleep. Brost says that he will install a hamburger stand to feed the hungry and that he will run his two jitneys between Alliance and Antioch and that those who are unable to find a place to sleep in the former can probably do so now in the latter.

L. E. Schwabe of the Chandler-Hupmobile Agency of Alliance and Chadron was over the fore part of the week on business. Mr. Schwabe reports business good and the supply of cars far below the demand.

G. M. Burns, Alliance real estate dealer, is going after business in the way that brings results. The Herald's job department has turned out for him during the past week a large amount of attractive printed matter which is being mailed by the G. M. Burns Real Estate Exchange far and wide. Mr. Burns is a firm believer in the value of good printed matter for advertising the real estate business.

J. C. McCorkle of the Nebraska Land Company is making up one of the finest sets of agricultural pictures of Box Butte county ever seen in the county. The pictures are beautifully colored and are creating much interest.

The committee of the city council in charge of the cemetery advised the council Wednesday evening that henceforth burials will not be permitted in cemetery lots until the lots have been paid for in full. Considerable trouble has been reported from the past practice of allowing lots to be purchased and used before full payment was made for them.

City ordinance No. 221, the cemetery ordinance, created much interest and some excitement at the council meeting Wednesday evening when the question of "perpetual care" for cemetery lots was brought up, it being reported that the purchasers of some lots in the cemetery figured the wording of the ordinance and the deed issued thereunder to mean that the lots would be fully cared for without future expense. The ordinance states that "all lots shall be sold with perpetual care" but the city officials interpret this to mean that the driveways and curbing shall be kept in shape—not that the lots themselves shall each receive personal attention. City attorney Metz stated that the only way that perpetual care could be secured from the city would be by setting aside a fund, the interest from which would be used to care for the lot. The city officers could be made trustees for the proper handling of the funds needed for that purpose.
