

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

John C. McCulloch, aged forty-four, formerly a ranchman of Ellsworth, died in Alliance Saturday morning of rheumatism. Funeral services were held from the Catholic church Monday morning and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. Mr. McCulloch leaves a wife.

Mrs. Roelle, an old resident of Alliance, died at a Denver hospital on Tuesday afternoon, and the remains were brought to Alliance for burial, arriving Thursday morning. The body is at the Glen Miller undertaking parlors. Mrs. Roelle had lived in Alliance for a number of years and was well known throughout the city. Her husband is now in the hospital because of injuries resulting from an automobile accident three or four months ago. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

—N. E. Bunting, a representative of the Deering works in Chicago, who has been in Alliance for the past three days, left Tuesday for Denver.

—Ralph Cox this week purchased of George Duncan the town property on Cheyenne and Sixth streets, consisting of a hangar and lot, the consideration being $6,250. Mr. Cox secures a very desirable property.

—R. M. Hampton this week received a letter from Fred Betzold, a former resident of this city who was well known and well liked here for a good many years before he removed to California. Mr. Betzold says that he has purchased a home in Los Angeles, and that he has an acre of bearing fruit trees, which yield a pretty heavy crop. He writes that he is a trifle diffident about climbing a step ladder, and hints that Mr. Hampton is welcome to show up at any time and help pick fruit, although, if he continues to entertain the usual number of Box Butte county visitors, there soon won't be any fruit left, and those who like fruit had better plan to make their visits before the supply is exhausted.

—J. T. Watson of Mitchell, Neb., who is better known as "Pete" Watson throughout this part of the country, arrived in Alliance last Thursday evening. He came to Alliance to take his wife, who underwent an operation in the local hospital three weeks ago, back to Mitchell, and the two of them left the city Friday afternoon. Mrs. Watson had made a good recovery and was in fine spirits, so Mr. Watson said when he dropped into The Herald office to leave a renewal subscription. Pete Watson came to Box Butte county some thirty-five years ago, and has been in this territory ever since. He knew Alliance when the city was in its swaddling clothes, and in earlier days used to be known not only as a wolf hunter, but as a wolf killer. So proficient was he with his rifle that the cattlemen hired him to keep down the wolf crop, and for a number of years this constituted his chief occupation. Watson is a fine figure of a man, and a stranger guessing his age would put it several notches below the real mark. He is an expert horseman, and has been in constant demand for a number of years as marshal of the day on public occasions. Wild west shows, celebrations and public entertainments of that sort find that Watson, seated on his saddle horse, is a big attraction. He says that he don't have as many riding horses these days as he used to, and he misses the big bunch of staghorns that he used to take with him on his wolf hunting expeditions. In the days when he spent the time looking for wolves, there were a good many stretches out in this country where a man could ride twenty-five miles without seeing a house, but that was some time ago. Mr. Watson has achieved publicly in a number of the big dailies, both eastern and western, as well as a number of magazines. He doesn't chew tobacco and has to date never been under arrest, but he has some bad habits and is in such a state of health that he has plenty of time to accumulate more if he ever feels in the mood. The Herald boys had a mighty pleasant visit with him and trust he will look us up again the next time he is in our neck of the woods.

 —In the last thirty days, E. T. Kibble & Co. have sold 2,440 acres of Box Butte county land. This means that there will be at least six new residents in the county. It won't be long before the better farms will be commanding high prices.

HIGHER PRICES FOR BOX BUTTE LAND

Two months ago C. W. Wright of Trumbull purchased the 320-acre farm, one mile east of town, of E. T. Kibble. Monday of this week the same agent sold the farm to John Carr of Beaver Crossing for $94 per acre, an advance of $16.50 per acre, which makes a tidy profit. Mr. Carr expects to establish his home in Alliance.

JUST AS ADVERTISED

As announced when this sale was at first advertised, I have been and am continuing to dispose of my splendid stock of merchandise at cost. I HAVE KEPT FAITH WITH THE PUBLIC AND THEY KEPT FAITH WITH ME. I have done exactly as I said I would in the instance of every sale. I am glad I plunged so heavily upon the markets two years ago for several reasons. It has enabled me to have goods upon my shelves at this time that other merchants are unable to duplicate on the markets today. They can't get it for any price.

As previously stated there are two reasons why I was forced to dispose of my stock of merchandise at cost: The fact that I must vacate this building and in consideration of my own health. I feel that I must get out of this line of business, having been engaged in it since I was tall enough to see over a counter, and I desire to engage in some outside line, following an extended vacation.

There is an additional pleasure to be found, however, in permitting my old friends and customers to take advantage of an opportunity such as I have presented. It makes my heart swell with joy to see my friends and patrons come to my store to know that I am saving them many hundreds of dollars on merchandise every day. Who deserves this saving more than they?
