PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

One of the fundamental things employed in the religious institute by Doctor Venner was the necessity of the co-operation of the home with the church life. He said surveys have revealed that the leaders in the church today are men and women who went to church with their parents as children. This was the positive influence. Doctor Venner was strong for the old family pew. Take your children to church. You are responsible to God for your children. The habit of church going is invaluable in character formation. Encourage your children to go to church, yourself setting the example in regular attendance. Regular instruction in righteousness, the expounding of the gospel, the memorizing of the grand old hymns, constitutes a steady influence for all the year. Let parents see that being in the church service with their children is an unselfish Christian service for their children, as well as being good for them. Plan to send your children to a Christian college. Begin saving for their education now. Pray for your household and bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Religious instruction begins in the home. As a pastor I am almost afraid to ask some boys and girls to unite with the church. They attend very indifferently and why have them join something they know nothing about. Who is to blame? The old family pew is ideal, father, mother and the boys and girls sitting together. Children get much from the attitudes of parents toward worship. Doctor Venner says, "We need a new crop of parents." Think on these things. We begin the study of "Christian Americanization, a Task for the Churches" Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Young people, men and women, we can make this a very inspiring hour. Come! First Presbyterian church, corner Box Butte avenue at Seventh street. A. J. KEARNS, Pastor.

One Minute Store Talk

"No wonder you people draw trade from all over the west. Why wouldn't a man come here to buy apparel, where you show practically all the famous lines of fine clothing, and in a range of styles that makes your showing a national style exhibit—an establishment far removed from ordinary clothing stores?" said a western customer in attendance upon the 20% discount offering at HARPER'S.
