RECEPTION PLANNED

Council No. 975, K. of C., is planning a reception and dance to be given shortly after Easter, provided the new K. of C. quarters over the Fashion Shop are ready for occupancy by that time. Committees on arrangements have been appointed, and further particulars will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Gavia and daughter, Hortense, returned from Council Bluffs this morning, where they have been attending the James Moore Hickson healing mission of recent fame there.

Friends of the family and of little Hortense will be delighted to hear that her condition has been marvelously improved, that she was enabled to walk several feet, without assistance and to kneel at the altar—activities impossible for her before. Her parents are happily confident that Hortense will eventually be cured of her ailment, and are full of gratitude and joy for the divine assistance that has come to them through Mr. Hickson.

One Minute Store Talk

"Your store is different, decidedly so, because as a rule, where value reigns style is missing, and where style rules value is usually missing—combining both STYLE and VALUE is the proof of the master merchant—you prove your leadership," commented an observing customer.
