Items That Interested Box Butte County Folks Before the Railroad Came Through

Kearney wants water works.
Fremont will pave its streets.
Tobias is anxious to bond itself for a cheese factory and another railroad line.
Bogus note swindlers are beating farmers in the neighborhood of Table Rock.
A reduction of $10,000 of the railroad debt of Cumling county took place last week.
Four Chinamen have been received into the membership of the St. Paul M. E. church at Lincoln.
The Elk creek "phantom" who was struck in the stomach with a brick, has gone out of the ghost business.
Several idle young gentlemen were arrested and heavily fined one day last week at Odell for throwing stones at a passing train.
Three doctors worked three hours on the neck of Mrs. Ella Brown in Fremont the other day and successfully removed a number of distressing tumors.

The west Nebraska Methodist conference will build a university at the new town of Bartley. Two thousand acres of land have been donated for that purpose.
Nebraska was twenty years old as a state March 1. When the state was organized there were but twenty-two organized counties; now there are seventy-three.
Jacob Koover, an old man of seventy years residing about seven miles southwest of Tecumseh, had his left leg broken last week while aiding in putting a ring in a bull's nose.
The expert sent to Cedar county to examine the coal holes there reports that the vein discovered there will not pay to mine, and recommended that the reward of $4,000 offered by the state be not paid.
The prohibitionists of Adams county are making extensive preparations for a grand rally and mass meeting to be held in Hastings on Saturday, July 3. It is prophesied to make it the greatest political demonstration ever held in the state.
An Auburn justice opened a new road to the pockets of saloon keepers last week. A man who had been fined for drunkenness sued the saloon keeper for the amount of the fine and costs. The official dispenser of law held the claim to be a just one and gave judgment accordingly.

A Congdon farmer wants a wife, but not bad enough to tie up with a "slim." She must weigh 250, must be red-headed and six feet in height. Freckles and warts he thinks are beauty spots, and a hankering for onions and atheism will be considered favorable additions in the premium girl.
Theodore Heasley, an Edgar stock man, failed some weeks ago, settled huge piles of debts at 50 cents on the dollar, and pocketed a snug fortune. He continued to live and put on style among his swindled neighbors until their patience gave out. At the solemn midnight hour of Thursday night a delegation of masked male citizens called on Heasley and invited him to leave. The summons was obeyed without ceremony.
An interesting story that hails from kangarooville says there is living in that burg a most remarkable woman. She was born thirty-two years ago and was well formed, with the exception of her tongue, which was slit in two at the center, making what appeared to be two tongues. She has since experienced no difficulty in speaking, but on the contrary, her pronunciation is clear and distinct. The mystery of this seems to lie in the fact that her tongue, or tongues, never tire, as she uses one part of the tongue for a while and then allows it to rest while she uses the other. Her conversational powers are wonderful, as she can talk incessantly for any length of time.

LUMBER AND LUMBER

There is a vast difference in Lumber. One kind will cut to advantage on a job and thus save you a great deal more than some other you may have been figuring. There are many kinds that would be entirely wrong—and generally there is only one RIGHT kind.

Again QUALITY OF LUMBER varies considerably. We are careful in buying lumber to secure the best grade possible for a certain specified class of work.

In view of these facts, will it not be advisable to call at our office and go over these questions with us. Perhaps we may be able to offer some suggestions that will represent just so many dollars to you. Let us try.

PERSHING WILL ACCEPT NOMINATION IF TENDERED

WASHINGTON, April 14, 1920.—(Special.)—John J. Pershing definitely announced here tonight that he would accept the republican nomination if his people called upon him to do so. He stated that which he was not actively seeking the nomination he appreciated the effort his friends were making for him throughout the country and especially in his home state. In his address, he completely established the fact that if his home state of Nebraska instructed for him next Tuesday he will accept the nomination.

The announcement was made at a reception tendered Pershing by several hundred members of the Nebraska association, in response to an inquiry as to whether or not he would accept the nomination provided his home state instructed for him April 20. "Speaking of the great honor with which you have been kind enough to connect my name," Pershing said, "it seems fitting that I should say to you, my friends, that my whole life has been devoted to the service of our country, and while in no sense seeking the presidency, I feel that no patriotic American should decline to serve in that high position if called upon to do so by his people."

Further expressing his appreciation of the honor being done him by Nebraska, Pershing said: "The home ties that have bound me to Nebraska since 1886, when my parents took up their residence in Lincoln, have grown with every succeeding year and such meetings as this intensify my longing to spend more time with my family and people out there at home."

Speaking on current issues of particular importance to Nebraska, Pershing declared: "Abhorring militarism or class aristocracy of any sort, the people of Nebraska have devoted themselves to the pursuits of peace. The farmers must not in the future be surrounded by hampering restrictions, onerous regulations or adverse market conditions. The foundation of progress and prosperity in our state has always been its agriculture interests."
