Who is there that does not despise debt? The Good Book says, "Owe no man anything but to love one another." What is the greatest debt you owe? Is it the mortgage on your home or on your land? The minister will preach next Lord's Day morning using the following subject: "Our Greatest Debt." It is our desire to make the services brief and helpful during the warm weather. The Bible school and C. E. prayer meetings will find a place for you. These are always open for you and welcome you to all sessions. In the evening we join in the Union services at the roof garden. Mr. Gould will preach the sermon. His subject is "Mormonism, the Islam of America." No mid-week meetings this week on account of the Chautauqua. Come to the church with a message and a welcome.
STEPHEN J. EPLER, Minister.

ST. MATHEW'S EPISCOPAL.

Just at present Worship among Christians is at a very low ebb. Careful statistics show that fully two thirds of our church members do not take the trouble to attempt to worship with regularity.

Too many desire to be Christians in secret, while others resort to miserable subterfuges to hide their indolence or timidity. A terse and apposite rejoinder of such persons was made by the late Theodore Roosevelt, in reply to a man who gave the usual threadbare excuse for Sunday's outing, that "he could worship God as well in the fields as in the Church." "Yes," snapped Mr. Roosevelt, "but no one will suspect you of it."

There is the whole thing in a nutshell. Merely to be good in private, if such a thing were possible, does not measure up to the Christian standard. We must add to such goodness public testimony, evidence before men of our discipleship and loyalty to God, and one important way of doing this is by regular Public Worship.

Nothing short of absolutely regular and constant participation in public worship will fulfill the duty of a Christian. Nothing short of that will render appropriate honor to God in the sight of men.

Vacuum Bottles for Summer Outings

The lukewarm lemonade and cool coffee of the summer outings are a thing of the past. Now, your lemonade is ice cold and sparkling—your coffee as steaming hot and fragrant as it comes from the percolator.

To have things hot that should be hot, and cold that should be cold, that puts the zest in eating—and that's what vacuum bottles do for your picnic lunches.
