PEGGY HYLAND GETS POINTS FROM SLEUTHS

Six men of the detective force of San Francisco were detailed to receive Peggy Hyland when she went there for several scenes in her detective satire, "The Web of Chance," the William Fox production which will be shown at the Imperial theatre on Friday, July 9. "I am going to San Francisco in a few days to complete my picture, "The Web of Chance," a detective story," wrote Miss Hyland to the chief of police before she left the Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal. "I am going to make some fun over a woman detective in the story—just harmless fun, which won't hurt the feelings of anybody. Won't you help me? I would like several good detectives to consult with, because I believe I should know something about the business I am going to satirize." Miss Hyland also had consulted with Los Angeles detectives. As a result, she injected into the picture some comedy detective work which will make old sleuths who see it think she has had considerable experience in the business of sleuthing.
