ALLIANCE DONATES GAME TO ANSLEY

From the spectators point of view, the game between Ansley and Alliance, played Sunday on the local grounds, was the best in recent years. McNulty, who started in the box for Alliance, was not up to his usual form. In the seventh Fenning was sent in to relieve him.

Umpire Harling, who has the reputation of being the best in this part of the state, gave several doubtful decisions against the home team.

Following is the record:

CALLS CARNIVAL THE FLY IN THE OINTMENT

Perhaps Seward has never staged a more successful event than the harvest festival and baseball tournament of last week. The weather was fine, the program was the best ever, and the crowd was both large and appreciative, says the Seward Independent-Democrat.

Now the fly in the ointment—it should have been swatted before it assuaged up the sweet-smelling ointment—appeared before the program began. Its name does not matter, it would have been as odiferous under any other name. The ferris wheel, the smallest married people in captivity, and like attractions were harmless enough. But this carnival company went several degrees farther into commercial vice than has any other which has come to Seward, at least in recent years. No less than eight of the stands were devoted to phases of that harmless (?) game, roulette. The chances were about twelve to one in favor of the man who ran the game, and in the minds of some there is a lurking suspicion that through an electric device, the wheel may have been controlled by the operator. But that is it may, while an occasional person won a kewpie or a much-to-be desired basket, hundreds of the unwary placed their money on the numbers and saw the game keeper sweep it off the board with perfect indifference. It was gambling pure and simple, with in the meaning of the law.

BUY YOUR COAL NOW IS RAILROAD'S ADVICE

The Chicago headquarters of the Burlington railroad has sent out letters to all agents on its lines calling attention to the seriousness of the freight car shortage and urging that people secure their winter's supply of coal without delay in order to forestall a serious shortage this winter.

The letters point out that the movement of the grain crops and the shipment of live stock for the next 90 days make it impossible to assign more cars for coal shipments. It urges dealers particularly to accept their shipments for light territory in open box cars, rather than depend on enclosed cars as a means of insuring quicker delivery.

The letters conclude with the following statement: "We hope you can order all on all concerned to have coal ordered and shipped out without further delay to avoid a serious shortage during the winter months."

DOES CONSUMER SEE THE PRICE?

On August 19th a Scottsbluff county shipper on the Omaha markets received $32 for four calves, or $8 a piece, the average weight being 200 pounds and the price paid being 4c per pound. On the same day the price of dressed veal, paid by Scottsbluff dealers was from 15c to 16c per pound, not counting the freight. Thus between the producer and the retailer there was a difference of 12c per pound, and between the producer and the consumer the 12c, the freight and the added price the retailer was obliged to tack on in order to maintain his own business and exist, says the Scottsbluff Star-Herald.

According to an account of the sales of Jacob Grof of Morrill, on a shipment of 25 head made on the above date, he received 3 1-4c per pound. On the above date dressed beef was sold to the dealers in Scottsbluff at 16c per pound in addition to the freight. A difference of 12 3-4c per pound between the producer and the dealer to say nothing of the consumer.

It certainly could not be reasonably held that the same beef from 3 1-4c per pound was paid the producer was sold at the 16c rate, but even making allowance between the canners and the prime, it rather staggers the reason to imagine the necessity of the profit thus taken by the packers, who, according to their own admission—"do not fix the price but who allow the public to do that by the demand for meat."

Any resident of Scottsbluff or any other city who desired the producer to receive 3 1-4c per pound for beef, please stand up. Any consumer of Scottsbluff who is in favor of the dealer being forced to pay 16c per pound will also please make himself known. In the absence of such testimony, it will be concluded that the Big Five have prevailed.

A perusal of the sales record, in addition to the prices quoted above show that the Morrill man received 6 1-2s as the highest price for a yearling steer, which weighed 640 pounds, seven heifers brought 6c, others 5c and the calves and cows are quoted above. The entire amount received for the 25 head was $666.87 from which was deducted freight, feed, commission, etc., of $119.44, making the net return on the shipment $547.43 on a bunch of cattle that had consumed over $1,000 worth of feed.

CORN IS SAFE, SAYS BURLINGTON REPORT

The big Nebraska corn crop is safe, according to the Burlington's weekly crop bulletin, issued on Monday. With the comment that "the time is past when the crop can be entirely spoiled," this bulletin gives the averages as 100 per cent for the eastern and southwestern districts, and 98 per cent each for the central and southeastern districts. The expert adds that these estimates are highly conservative.

Threshing of wheat continues toward an early end, and the average for most of the acreage of the state is 22.7 bushels per acre, against 22 bushels estimated a week ago. The wheat is of the finest quality.

Fall plowing is well under way, and the soil generally in good condition. In the Omaha district this plowing is nearly completed.
