Bible Class Annual Banquet.

On Tuesday evening of this week about ninety men and women of the Methodist church met in the basement of the church at seven thirty and enjoyed a splendid fed in the way of a real banquet supper. The supper was all served before the toasts were given. The supper consisted of plenty of chicken pie and all the trimmings that go with it and then finishing up with some good fruit salad and the finest cake ever baked.

Rev. A. J. May acted as toastmaster and gave a short review of the organization of the Bible class in August last with twelve members and now registering a total member of sixty to date. He then gave a word of welcome to the guests of the occasion. G. M. Jenkins responded with appropriate words.

W. M. Corey, president of the class, gave a toast to the new members of the class, in which he gave them all a glad word of welcome.

Prof. Robert Embree gave a toast on the "Local Opportunities" and mentioned some important chances for the class and the entire Sunday school.

Fred Levitt spoke well on "How to Keep Me and Use Me." Mrs. W. M. Corey told why she was glad to serve on any committee (but the serving committee).

Mrs. Nellie Gillen gave some good reasons "Why Join Us."

"Our Class from a New Member's Standpoint," was nicely handled by Mr. Ciek, one of the new members.

Foster Whitsel spoke on "Our Ought to Be's," and gave three splendid reasons why we should be an ought to be.

Alex Muirhead spoke encouragingly on "Next Year the Best Yet," and gave some splendid outlines for the work.

Mrs. Fred Levitt gave a toast to "Our Colors," in well chosen words.

Solos were rendered by Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Levitt and Paul Reeves and were all enjoyed.

Lots of fun prevailed throughout and after the program was over many stayed and enjoyed some games.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Somebody slipped a cog last Tuesday, and announced the special dinner of Alliance post as coming at 6:30 Friday. The date wasn't given, and they didn't say next Friday, and by this narrow margin the life of the culprit was saved. Army etiquette demands that so long as there is any loophole, however small, it may be used. The post will hold its special meeting just one week from tonight, at the Fern Garden, with the usual program and a few special topics up for discussion. The regular April meeting will be held on the second Thursday in April,—The 14th—at which time the veterans of the civil and the Spanish American wars will be guests of the post. Doc. B. G. Bauman will see to it that a double quartette has some special musical numbers, but if the gang doesn't like them, it will promptly drown 'em out.

Swindlers are seeking to extort $5 from ex-service men in return for obtaining for them articles of uniform to which they are entitled from the government, according to information received by the American Legion. The adjutant general has appealed to the Legion to aid in frustrating the plans of the bunco men. The government according to the adjutant general, is required by law to provide the veterans of the World War certain articles of clothing and equipment, if they were not issued on discharge. Eligible ex-service men should get in touch with the nearest quartermaster depot post of the American Legion or write direct to the quartermaster general of the army, Washington, D. C. There is no necessity of paying a cent to obtain the missing articles.

A summer camp for the Nebraska American legion is to be established at Seward, according to an invitation extended by the Seward post through the Mid-West Veteran. Army tents and cots will be secured and a "company street" established at the Seward Amusement park, where swimming, dancing and games can be indulged in by the visiting Legionnaires. The indo is to bring along your week-end and a good supply of good nature." A number of "American Legion days" will be put on during the summer. The commercial club and other civic organizations are co-operating with the local post in promoting the project.

More than one hundred high government officials and representatives of veteran organizations were brought together by the National Press Club Post of the American Legion in a conference to discuss measures for the relief of disabled ex-service men. The purpose of this meeting was to "find the buck" which the government bureaus have been passing back and forth for many months in handling hospitalization, vocational training and compensation claims of disabled men. The merger of the bureaus dealing with the affairs of veterans of the World War, a leading measure of the Legion, was advocated by practically all of the speakers.

The United States flag, which covers the casket of each soldier returned from France for burial in his native land, may be kept by his parents or relatives or turned over to any post of the American Legion, according to a ruling made by the Graves Registration Service, which has so organized the transportation of the bodies from the ship to the home relatives that every honor will be paid to the dead and the proper deference exercised toward the wishes of the family. Because the government provides a flag, which covers each casket, the Graves Registration Service officials have informed the Nebraska Legion headquarters that the purchase of such a flag by Legion posts is an unnecessary expense.

Resolutions calling upon Indianapolis city officials to prevent the appearance there of Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, have been adopted by the Marion county council of the American legion. As a result the board of public works returned the fee paid by O'Callaghan's representative for the use of the local convention hall and Mayor Jewett is considering denying the Cork mayor permission to speak at any place in the city. A representative of O'Callaghan admitted to the legion council members that the mayor, who arrived in America as a stowaway and who was ordered deported, was a political refugee and that his expenses are being paid by "the republican government of Ireland". Prevented from holding meetings in Philadelphia and Boston by the activities of the legion members and city officials, it was said that O'Callaghan desired to make a test case in this city, the seat of the legion's national headquarters. One of the most active agents in discouraging the appearance of the lord mayor was an Irish member of the board of works who declared that Irish organizations are not in favor of the meetings.
