

One Week to File For Citizen Camp

The commanding general of the 7th corps area, Fort Crook, Neb., has announced that July 10 will be the last day that applications will be considered for admission to the citizens military training camps to be held at Camp Pike, Ark., and at Fort Snelling, Minn., August 1 to August 31.

This decision has been made necessary by the fact that those who attend these camps will desire to make their plans for the summer and in order that inoculation against typhoid may be completed. The total number of trainees authorized by congress will be approximately 1250 for this corps area.

For each applicant who is designated an alternate, if possible, will be selected. Both principal and alternate will be notified by letter of the action taken in their cases.

EASTERN LAND BUYERS WILL SOON BE WITH US

The eastern farmers and land buyers will be with us in a short time looking for farms, and it will be well for those having farm land to sell, to list it for sale at an early date.

"The Next War" Theme of Earl Jones, Speaker at Lions Club Luncheon

Earl G. Jones of Alliance was the speaker at the noon luncheon of the Lions club at the Alliance hotel Fern Room Thursday noon. He had chosen as his subject, "The Next War," and gave a talk that was highly interesting and showed much thought and care in preparation.

"Cubs, last week I read a book entitled, 'The Next War,' just off the press and written by Will Irwin, the noted American war correspondent during the world war. Dr. Frank Crane says that this is the greatest book of the time and that it should be read by every American citizen, man and woman.

"I have in mind a move or less isolated Arizona with the unhappy memories of the great war already fading away and being something of its failures with us in our pursuits of peace, it would sound like the ravings of a glumist to talk of another world war but I'm only speaking to you, in substance, the words of a man who is so far from being an alarmist as day or night. Will Irwin is not an alarmist, and when he tells us the weapons are already being forged and plans laid secretly for another Armageddon, that it is almost certain to come, unless the leading nations of the world speedily join in working against it, we can rely pretty much on what he says.

As we all know, there is now a great trade war going on—not only among the nations of Europe, but of the whole world—a war even fiercer more dangerous, than the one which preceded the world war. The nations emerged from the peace table at Versailles more nationalistic than ever more jealous than ever, of each other and the bloodless warfare that is now going on among them for trade advantages throughout the world is based not only on trade jealousies, but on the accumulated racial hatred of generations. Europe today is a hotbed of strife.

"Here are a few of the things Mr. Irwin has to say about the tactics of the next war: He says that the fiercest battles of the last world war will be classed as mere skirmishes compared with the titanic struggles that will take place in the next war. He tells us that scientists have already invented a gas fifty-five times more deadly and destructive than any the Germans used in the last war—a gas so powerful that a mere capsule of it is sufficient to literally wipe out all life—animal and vegetable—over a space of several acres of ground. He tells us that powerful X-ray machines will be used with lethal rays so readily that they will wither up and kill any living object upon which they are turned; he says there will be fleets of pilotless airplanes controlled and directed by wireless, carrying bomb containing a ton or more of this deadly gas, to be dropped not only on armies but on cities even 1,000 miles behind the battleline—and in this connection he says that the civilian populations will not be spared, but that they will be regarded as legitimate prey and will be made a special object of attack.

"There will be no rules of warfare—except to kill by wholesale instead of retail and by every conceivable method. He says there will be fleets of submarines, each boat as large as the largest battleship now afloat and armed with heavy naval artillery as big as battleships to sweep over the well as torpedoes, and army tanks as big as battleships to sweep over the battlefields like juggernauts. He says that scientists—and America is not excluded—are already studying how to use deadly disease germs for the wholesale destruction of armies and cities, and that these, by the countless billions, will be dropped from specially constructed apparatus on civilian populations and armies, wiping out whole communities in a few hours. He says that high explosive shells, loaded with Lewisite—a chemical invention—also by an American—will be far more destructive than any used in the last war, and that civilization will literally crumble to ruins and nations, supposedly civilized, will revert to savagery.

"Some of our leaders in congress have recently said that the greatest question now before the world is the question of disarmament. Leaders in world thought have pointed this out as the only way to avert war, and it seems reasonable. A world disarmament program that is sound, not merely for one nation to disarm.

State Department Explains Intent of the New Headlight Law

Nebraska's new lens law which was passed by the 1921 session of the legislature has for its primary object, the elimination of the glaring headlight.

In complying with the law, and in order to realize the primary object of the law, the state department of public works has taken into consideration two main points. These are:

1. The light must be properly controlled. 2. The light must be sufficient for safe driving and to illuminate objects which are at least 200 feet ahead of the car.

The glare of the headlight cannot be eliminated by dimmers, and these are neither required nor recommended. Focusing alone will correct this.

What is focusing? It must not be confused with tilting. Focusing a bulb is placing it in the correct position in the reflector, the headlight will not give out the proper amount of light nor will the rays go in the proper direction.

The all important requirements, before a legal lens has been placed on the car, is the focusing or adjustment of the bulb.

A car driven 20 miles per hour, the average speed rate in the open country, will cover 200 feet in 4 1/2 seconds. The driving light, therefore, to protect the driver, must be strong enough to sufficiently illuminate objects at least 200 feet ahead. The lenses thus far approved by the department of public works meet these requirements, but no lens which has been approved will be legal unless the bulb is properly focused and the headlight properly tilted.

The department of public works has approved to date, the following lenses: Raydors, Orwood, Meebeth, Liberty, Patterson, McKee, Shaler, Violet Ray, National, Gausch & Lomb, Primolite 'B', Ford Green Visor headlamp, Star Ray and Glareless.

Out in Society

"The super-slacker of the United States," as he describes himself is being sought by federal authorities aided by members of the American Legion throughout the northwest. He has written to Governor Hart, of Washington, requesting that his name be placed at the top of the slacker list. He wrote that he was P. E. Saylor of Genesee, Idaho, and although he successfully dodged the draft by moving to another city and assuming another name, he has enjoyed all the glories of a returned A. E. F. hero through the purchase of a soldier's discharge and several war medals. "And you ought to hear me tell the tale of all the parties I was in," he writes.

Miss Dorothy Hunt delightfully entertained at a farewell party in honor of Miss Mildred Osborne, who left for Key base at Scottsbluff Saturday. The evening was spent in various amusements. A delightful lunch was served. The members of the P. E. F. club present were: Misses Mildred Pate, Phyllis Thompson, Vivian Gebert, Miriam Harris, Lilla Graham, Dorothy Hunt and Marshall Drake.

Mrs. W. B. Barnett will give a luncheon at 1:30 p. m. Thursday in honor of Mrs. Shaw, of Sierra Madre, Calif., who is visiting with Mrs. F. E. Nelson.

Junior Chautauqua A Happy Week for the Children

The interest in the Junior Chautauqua is increasing every year. It has become one of the most popular and most valuable departments of the Chautauqua. The Standard has planned the biggest time ever for the Junior folks this year. New stories, new games, big parades, hikes, picnics, field meet and many other good times for the kiddies. The Junior lady is coming to help you have a lot of fun. Plan right now to come every day. It's all free. Bring your pal and see if we can't be the record crowd this year. Prizes for both the boys and girls in the field meet.

In "Too Much Business" there is mystery, comedy and love, all united into an exciting game of business where the creed of a cult attempts to run business on the unsound doctrine of its belief. Clever dramatic situations with climaxes and anti-climaxes keep the audience laughing, wondering and startled, and it is not until the very last line of the play that the plot of the play is unfolded. Clare Vaughan Wales will personally direct the Company. She is recognized as one of the leading actors and play directors. With a cast of New York and Chicago actors which she has carefully selected, they present a performance that is finished, artistic, entertaining and inspiring.
