

Special Police to Handle Wobblies Is Under Discussion

Use of state police at railroad terminals to handle the I. W. W. menace on freight trains is under discussion at Lincoln by state officers.

Governor McKelvie was out of the city and other officials declined to talk for publication.

According to word received there the I. W. W. are establishing a reign of terror for all other hoboes and refuse to let any excepting their own members ride on freight trains.

At the same time the organization members are reported to be using their mob power in "bluffing" freight train crews into giving them exclusive use of one freight car on each train. The members were reported to be traveling in droves of 20 to 30 to insure safe passage from train crews and at the same time to force independent hoboes to walk.

The worst menace of these tactics from reports received from railroad officials is the fact that closing of car shops and other industries had thrown hundreds of men out of work who have been driven to the harvest fields and who, it is feared, will return to their homes I. W. W's.

Alliance Team Is Trimmed by Chadron in the Return Game

The Chadron baseball team took the measure of the Alliance nine in the return game at the fair grounds last Sunday, the score being 7 to 4. Alliance trimmed the Chadron boys a week ago by a comfortable margin, and the fans expected a second victory, but luck was against the hom boys. Chadron got only two earned runs out of the seven, the rest of their scores being due to unfortunate hobbles on the part of the Alliance gang.

Chadron had a good team, however, and their Indian battery was a pippin. Alliance couldn't seem to get off on the right foot, the players admitting that their jinx was on the job.

Two good games are scheduled for the next two Sundays, however, and the Alliance team hopes to retrieve its rabbit's foot in time to make a clearing. Next Sunday they play Bayard. The Bayard bunch hasn't lost a game and their manager, Doc Lewellen hopes to clean up Alliance along with the rest of the year's victims, but the home team hopes that the Doc's aggression will find they are up against a stone wall, without a ladder.

Sunday, July 31, Manager Bill Ezell has scheduled a game with the fast Sterling, Col. team, a bunch of semipro. The Sterling rooters say this bunch is better than the Sterling Midwest league team. They are a bunch of all-stars, and the supporters say they would win four out of five games played with the league team.

Alliance fans are assured these days that when they come out to the ball park they'll see baseball played. Bill Ezell is getting some fast visiting teams here, and the home boys are making a good showing. Last Sunday was an off-day performance. All that is needed to develop a whirlwind team in Alliance is a little support, and once the fans get the idea in their noddles that the Alliance team is a fast aggregation, they'll give plenty of support. Good rooting is the essential for winning baseball games.

Word reached Alliance yesterday that the Omaha-Alliance oil syndicate has had another bit of luck, a new oil well coming in on their sage property Wednesday last. When the well was shot the oil flowed over the top of the derrick, a hundred feet or more. Alliance members of the syndicate are Jim and Chase Feagins, Earl Mallery, Dr. C. E. Slagle and others.

CHURCHES

BAPTIST CHURCH

The Sunday School attendance fell off a little this week.

The B. Y. P. U. however are picking up in numbers and interest.

This is as it should be. One young man rode ten miles in a buggy to get to a Sunday school, this is the religion that will impress the world. Yet people live less than ten blocks from the various schools who have not energy enough to go that distance.

While we have a nice number of young people in the service there are parents who will someday mourn the fact that their children are losing interest in religion, simply because instead of encouraging them they do the other by example if not by precept.

The Union Meeting last Sunday at the Presbyterian church was the saddest commentary the writer has ever seen in his ministerial life. More people no doubt were at the morning service than at the combined service in the evening.

If that is the way Alliance churches do in the summer this writer will at the end of July suggest that this farce stop and go back to the individual services again.

Either the preachers have pushed the evening services onto the people against their will, or the churches are making these union meetings an excuse to hike off on Sunday evening in either case it smacks of sham and borders on hypocrisy.

Let us quit playing at religion.
