

WAS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD

Cedar Rapids Man Wouldn't Take Any Amount of Money For the Good Tanlac Did Him

"Tanlac has been worth its weight in gold to me and I wouldn't take any amount of money for my present good health," said Otto B. Christer, of 213 First Ave., East Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

"I suffered from a severe case of stomach trouble for eight years and kept getting worse until I thought I was going to have to give up altogether. Everything I ate seemed to lie in my stomach undigested, causing a heavy feeling of depression, and I suffered dreadfully from heartburn and sharp, shooting pains all through my stomach. I would bloat up with sour gas that pressed against my heart, making it palpitate terribly, and my heart would be shut off till I felt like I was drawing my last breath. My sleep was broken and I would often have to get up out of bed and walk the floor to try to quiet my nerves.

"I started improving on my very first bottle of Tanlac and now am feeling fine in every way. I can eat just anything my appetite calls for without feeling a sign of indigestion, my sleep is sound and refreshing and I never had more strength and energy in all my life than I have now. Tanlac has certainly made life worth living, and I am thankful for its putting me in such a splendid condition."

THE PARSON'S CORNER

By Rev. B. J. Minort, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Alliance

Alliance Churches in Summer.

Now don't get mad; or better still, get mad now at the beginning, before you read this article; or still better, don't read it, for you will get mad if you are a church member.

As the writer sat in the union service last Sunday, a service in which four churches took part, whose total membership no doubt exceeds a thousand members, he couldn't help thinking and asking the question: "What is the matter with the churches?" He came to certain conclusions that he will give you in this article for whatever they are worth.

First, he was tempted to believe that the ministers made a blunder in recommending to their people the union meetings. Either they have forced these meetings upon their people, or the churches are failing their pastors. Or perhaps the churches are making these so-called union meetings an occasion to hike off to some forsaken place and lounge around, or indulge in some sinful pleasure.

Some of the very people who are responsible for this failure of the union meetings would be insulted if they heard a non-church member poking fun at the church.

Yet, my friends, it is a blind man indeed that cannot see that something radically wrong exists in the churches taking part in these so-called union meetings.

venture to say that either of the churches in Alliance had more people in its individual morning service than the combined service that same evening. The writer preached to as large if not larger number of people out in a grove Sunday afternoon, sixteen miles away. He had almost as many people at the service in little old Angola last Friday. What is the matter?

Have you a summer religious schedule, and a winter religious schedule? Do you attend church in the winter because there is no place else to go? If it not treating the God who gives you life and home and all else worth having, in a shameful way? The speaker of the last meeting gave us a fine sermon, but I could not but feel that it was breath waste. The very people that really need such a message were absent. Nowhere in the Bible do we find a summer schedule and a winter schedule. He speaks of preaching the word in season and out of season. The preached or layman that sees a real need for a let-down in the summer in religious work would do the parson a favor by showing it to him. Religion is needed as much in the summer if not more than in the winter.

I don't know how other preachers feel about it, but I feel that for four preachers to sit on the platform in a service to represent over a thousand members, with but one hundred in the congregation is but rank sham, bordering on hypocrisy, and that we are being made fools of by our churches. These are strong words, but the disease demands strong medicine. I am not opposed to union meetings as such when the people supposed to be united support such meetings; but what I am kicking about is making these union meetings an avuncle and occasion to slight our duty to God—dishonoring rather than honoring God. Far better is it to be frank and honest and say we do not want preaching during the summer and we will close up the churches for the summer.

At least that would speak out an honest heart, even though in the wrong. Speaking frankly, I believe that the best thing the four churches can do if the services are not better supported by the end of the month is to go back to our individual services and do what we can in our individual capacity. For so far we have given the lie to the maxim, "In union there is strength."

I know I have made you mad. Now listen—just cool off by writing an answer showing the writer is wrong and we will give you our space next week.

New Law Expected to Cause Big Rush to the License Booth

Women under the age of twenty-one years, who are contemplating matrimony, would do well to get under the wire before July 28, otherwise no license will be issued by the county judge without the written consent of the parent of the young woman or the verbal consent given to the officer who is called upon to grant such permits.

The last legislature enacted a statute which provides that women do not become of legal age until they are twenty-one years old, thus placing them in the same position as men in this respect. Heretofore the legal age for women in Nebraska has been eighteen years, after attaining which they might do all things which a female of the species could lawfully do at any time. This will all be changed, however, after July 28, when the new law becomes effective.

The statute covering the issuance of marriage licenses, provides that where either party is a minor that party must have the consent of the parent or legal guardian before the county judge may issue a marriage license. Women, therefore, must have such consent if they are not twenty-one.

In the past large numbers of licenses have been granted for the marriage of girls under twenty-one years of age, but the number granted for boys below that age has about equaled that for girls under eighteen. Attaches of the county judge's office anticipate a big rush of young couples within the next two weeks.

It is also expected that the new law will have an important effect upon estate matters. Under the provisions of many will legateses are to come into their inheritances upon becoming of age. In the past females have had three years the advantage of males in this respect, but the new statute takes away this discrimination. In some states legal age of the sexes has been the same in the past and young women residing in Nebraska have been enabled to come into their inheritances three years earlier than would have been the case had they lived in the state where the party making the will resided. Guardianships for females will continue until the ward is twenty-one years instead of eighteen as in the past.

Notwithstanding the fact that women have been given the franchise and legal age has been made the same with them as with men, they may not serve as jurors in Nebraska. This is because the statute defining the qualifications of jurors say that they must be "male" citizens of certain age, together with other conditions. Some future legislature may eliminate the word "male", which would put the sexes on an equality in practically all matters relating to citizenship and public affairs.
