

Lloyd Thomas returned Sunday night from a week's trip to Lander, Wyoming, by auto. He reports much interest in Wyoming homestead lands and he and Herbert J. States of Lander, with whom he is working, are enjoying a good business in locating homesteaders. While at Lander Lloyd took a short trip up into the Rockies to a famous fishing lake and brought back with him the "hide, head and tail" of a rainbow trout which weighed five pounds and was twenty-four inches in length. He says that although a person can catch plenty of trout in the mountain streams near Lander at this time of the year the "big fellows" will be biting better in September, when the insects become more scarce. The trip back from Lander was made in record time, the party leaving Lander at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and arriving in Alliance Sunday night, 322 miles being made on Sunday.

Rev. Andrew O. Dodge, at present rector in charge of the Episcopal church at Arapahoe, Nebraska, will take charge of St. Matthews church at Alliance early in September. The people here hoped Mr. Dodge might be here in time to hold service the first Sunday in September, but he is at present on a camping trip in charge of the Boy Scouts of Arapahoe and cannot reach Alliance until the second week in September. Rev. Dodge, before coming to Nebraska some two years ago had considerable experience in Boy Scouts work in Massachusetts. M. E. CHURCH CORNER-STONE LAID SUNDAY

"Those saints will raise their voices in psalms of praise to the Most High, when they witness the world-wide spread of Christ's gospel through the devoted, self-sacrificing, and zealous labors of the church's noble missionaries, to the benighted peoples of every country and clime, not alone from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand but from the Arctic circle to Africa's darkest jungle. And now, my friends, I wish to pay a deserved tribute to the noble women of this congregation, who by their own toil and earnest efforts, have contributed the sum of $3,000 to the building of this church, which was of material assistance in a time of need and discouragement. This splendid effort, should give woman a larger place in the councils of the church than assigned her by old Saint Paul, though none knew better than he that she was last at the cross, and first at the Savior's sepulchre. And now in conclusion I have a suggestion to make, and an innovation to offer, and that is this: When this magnificent structure is completed, when foundation, cornerstone, its streamlining walls, its chapter crowned Corinthian columns, its Gothic windows reflecting the rays of the rising sun, when pillar, plinth and pilaster have all been completed, co-ordinated, and combined into one grand harmonious whole, beautiful as an artist's dream; when, on the day of dedication, the altar has been erected and consecrated, when the swelling tones of the great pipe organ give volume to the great melodious anthems of thanksgiving which wing their way through the ambient air to the great white throne on high, then high over all I want to see Old Glory, the flag of the only nation on earth that has ever made religious freedom the cornerstone of its government, and the only country in the reconstructed world of today, that guarantees to every man the right to worship according to the dictates of his own conscience, and floating in azure sky over and above the national emblem, I want to see, stamped with its cross of cerulean blue, the snow-white banner of the church, the only banner that can ever surmount or transcend the stars and stripes, the one standing for Patriotism; the love of home and country, the other representing religion, the love of God and humanity."
