The Poultry Crop in Nebraska is Above the Normal

The State Bureau of Markets reports that a survey of the poultry situation in the state and reports of shippers recently sent to the Produce Packer indicate that more poultry was raised in Nebraska this year than last and the outlook for fall and winter production is unusually good. Reports from 17 principal shipping points in the state indicate weekly shipments of from 550 to 600 coops of poultry and from 450 to 500 cases of eggs from these points alone. David City shippers estimate that 120 coops of poultry and 50 cases of eggs will be shipped from that point weekly during the fall months. Poultry men at Lexington estimate weekly shipments of 100 coops of poultry and from 60 to 75 cases of eggs. Estimates weekly shipments from most of the other points range from 20 to 30 coops of poultry and from 25 to 30 cases of eggs. Turkeys are reported not very plentiful in most localities. Cozad shippers expect about 10 coops weekly during the shipping season and Norfolk dealers expect to buy 2 carloads of turkeys during the turkey season. Although turkeys occupy the center of attention at certain times during the year, the chicken crop is of much more importance, both to producers and to the produce trade, than any other kind of poultry. Chickens and eggs are bought and sold every day during the year and there is always a good demand for them. The income which a farmer receives from a good flock of producing hens is of no small consideration these days.

The October 1st Spud Estimate is Above September Figures

The Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates forecasts the total production of potatoes in the United States, based on conditions October 1, at 345,844,000 bushels. This is an increase of 22,844,000 bushels over the September 1 estimate of 323,000,000 bushels. The final estimate for the United States last year was 428,368,000 bushels, while the five-year average for the years 1916-1920 inclusive is 385,000,000 bushels.

The states showing important gains over last month's report are Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin, Maine being the most important with a gain of 8,000,000 bushels over the September estimate and 10,000,000 bushels over last year's crop. Several western states show slight losses.

Farm Machinery and Live Stock Bring Good Prices at Sale

A. A. Moll, who has been farming the A. H. Bacon place, five miles west and one mile north of Hemingford, had a closing out sale Monday in which he closed out his entire farming equipment. The sale drew a good attendance and good prices were paid, with evidence of strong demand for farming equipment and live stock. The farming machinery brought excellent prices.

Hay stacker, $41; disc seeder $19.50; gang plow, $67.50; hay sweep, $24; double work harness, $10.50 to $50; wagons, $55 to $86; 200 bushels of oats at 21c per bushel, $84; 300 bushels of millet at 20 to 50c per bushel.

Chickens averaged 50c apiece. Horses did not sell high but within certain limits there was very brisk bidding, often six or seven bidders for each animal. Two suckling mule colts brought $41 each; work mares and geldings brought from $26 to $62.50 each; one excellent four-year-old Holstein cow sold for $101; two fine Durham milk cows brought $61 and $63 each; another $61; another $62; an eight-year-old dry cow, very large, brought $46; five extra quality spring calves brought $20.50 each, ten head of shoats brought $7.10 each; two large cows, $24.50 each; sows with three to five pigs each brought $23.50 to $27; alfalfa hay on the ground, 7 ft. to the ton, brought $4, $4.50, $5 and $6 per ton.

K. L. Pierce was clerk, and Col. S. A. Grimes, auctioneer. Mr. Moll is moving with his family to central Missouri. He has produced a very large crop this year, receiving for his winter wheat $1.02 per bushel, f.o.b. Girard and for his Durum wheat, 94 and 97c per bushel. He is in no way dissatisfied with the country but it moving to Missouri for business reasons.

In The MOVIES

Shirley Mason, in "The Lamp-lighter, is the attraction at the Imperial this evening. Miss Mason is cast for the part of Gertie, a little girl separated from her mother through the agency of a stern grandparent—who refuses to recognize his daughter's marriage. The child is cruelly buffeted by fate in the form of a dissipated old woman until, through the friendly interposition of a lovable old man who follows the business of lamp-lighting, she is eventually restored to her mother and father and, with the sweetheart of her early troubled days, finds the happiness so long denied her.

The Saturday bill includes Thomas Meighan, that handsome devil, in a Jack London photoplay, "The Frontier of the Stars." Two comedies, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, "Spiking the Spooks," and "The Big Mystery," complete a big bill.

Sunday comes the second assortment of vaudeville offerings, including Haley and Trebor in a bright and amusing act entitled "Work." Plenty of snappy patter and catchy songs throughout the act. Jack Polk, an eccentric comedian of winning personality is the second number. Jack is still poking along, furnishing a cyclone of laughter. The Postos present a snappy comedy novelty, eccentric acrobatic dancing, hand balancing, contortion and ring manipulation. Bryers and Bryers have a very pleasing act with lots of pep, clever dancing and harmony on the banjo.

The Sunday photoplay is Elaine Hamerstein in "The Daughter Pays," in which the problem of a young girl marrying an old man is treated in a new and original manner.

"Short Skirts," with Gladys Walton in the leading role and the skirts, is scheduled for Monday. The story dwells upon a little girl who wants to appear older than she is and who plays with fire for the thrill. She nearly wrecks a good man's chance to be elected mayor, blights her mother's happiness and makes a mess of her life until the hero steps in, administers a mental spanking and straightens her out for a flying trip down the boulevard of common sense—but with more thrills than she could possibly have felt on the dangerous bramble-path.

THEY AGREED.

Visitor, in early morning, after week-end, to chauffeur—"Don't let me miss my train."
Chauffeur—"No danger, sir. The mistress said if I did, it'd cost me my job."—London Opinion.

JUST MADE OVER.

After Mr. Brown had raked his yard he took the accumulated rubbish into the street to burn. A number of neighbors' children came flocking about the bonfire, among them a little girl whom Mr. Brown did not remember having seen before. Wishing, with his usual kindness, to make the stranger feel at ease, he beamed upon her and said heartily:
"Hello! Isn't this a new face?"
A deep red suffused her freckles. "No," she stammered, "it ain't new. It's just been washed."—Harper's Magazine.

The music writers can score a hit by devising a scheme to put a protective tariff on the racket produced by a very earnest young man learning to play the saxophone.
