Synopsis of the Inter-State Commerce Bill.

The Inter-State commerce bill, as agreed upon by both houses of Congress in its first section applies the provisions of that act to any common carrier engaged in the transportation of passengers wholly by railroad, or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used, under common control, management, or arrangement through more than one State or Territory, or from and place in the United States to adjacent foreign country. It defines the term "railroad" to include all bridges and ferries used or operated by any railroad. All charges made for any service rendered in the transportation of passengers or property, shall be reasonable and just; and every unjust and unreasonable charge for such service is prohibited and declared to be unlawful.

Sec. 2. makes it unlawful for any common carrier subject to the provision of this act, to charge, demand, collect or receive, directly or indirectly, from any person or persons, a greater or less compensation for any service rendered in the transportation of passengers or property than it charges, demands, collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions.

Sec. 3. makes it unlawful for any common carrier, subject to provisions of this act, to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation, or locality, or any particular description or traffic. Every common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, shall according to their respective powers, afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines, and for the receiving, forwarding, and delivering of passengers and property to and from their several lines and those connected therewith, and shall not discriminate in their rates and charges between such connecting lines.

Sections 4 and 5 (the long and short haul and pooling sections) are as follows: Sec. 4. That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provision of this act, to charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of passengers or of like kind of property, under substantial similar circumstances and conditions, for a shorter than for a longer distance, over the same line, in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance; but this shall not be construed as authorizing any common carrier, within the terms of this act, to charge and receive as great compensation for a shorter and for a longer distance.

Provided, however, that upon application to the commission appointed under the provisions of this act, such common carrier may, in special cases, after investigation by the commission, be authorized to charge less for longer than for shorter distances for the transportation of passengers or property; and the commission may from time to time prescribe the extent to which such designated common carriers may be relieved from the operation of this section of this act.

Sec. 5. That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provisions of this act, to enter into any contract, agreement or combination which may in any way discriminate in favor of any other common carrier or carriers for the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads or to divide between them the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads, or any portion thereof, and in any case of an agreement for the pooling of freights as aforesaid each day of its contents shall be deemed a separate offense.

Sec. 6. requires that after ninety days from the passage of the act every common carrier, subject to its provisions shall have printed, and keep for public inspection, schedules showing rates, fare, and charges, and in addition to requiring the railroads to give publicity at all of the depots on their several lines, it gives authority to the commission, where it is proper and necessary, to require them to give publicity to their rates to other places beyond the lines of their several railroads. It also provides that the rates, fares, and charges shall not be raised except after ten days of public notice, but that they may be reduced without previous public notice, the notice, however, shall be simultaneous with the reduction itself.

Section 7. makes it unlawful for any common carrier to enter into any combination or agreement to prevent the carriage of freights from being continued from the place of shipment to the place of destination.

Section 8. declares that any common carrier violating the provisions of the act shall be liable to the person or persons injured thereby, for the full amount of damages sustained, in consequence of any such violation, together with a reasonable counsel or attorney's fee.

The ninth section provides that persons claiming to have been damaged by the action of common carriers may proceed for recovery of their damages, either in the United States courts or before the commission herein provided for; but not before both tribunals.

The tenth section makes it a penal offense to violate any of the provisions of this act and puts the maximum of the fine which may be imposed at the sum of $5,000.

The eleven following sections contain the commission features of the bill. They provide for a commission to consist of five persons whose term of office shall be for six years, except for the first appointments, which are to be for two, three, four, five and six years. The members of this commission are to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Their principal office shall be in Washington, but they may hold sessions in other places than Washington, and a single member of the commission may take testimony anywhere as may be directed by the commission.

These commissioners have salaries of $7,500 each. The commission has the power to appoint a secretary, with an annual salary of $3,500, and has authority to employ and fix the compensation of such other employes as it may find necessary to the proper performance of its duties, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

Section 22. provides that nothing contained in this act shall abridge the remedies now existing by common law or by statute.

Section 23. appropriates $100,000 for the purposes of this act, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888.

Section 24 provides that the provisions of sections 11 and 18 of this act, relating to the appointment and organization of the commission herein provided for, shall take effect immediately and the remaining provisions of this act shall take effect sixty days after its passage.

Paddock's Career.

Algernon Sidney Paddock, who has been a conspicuous figure in Nebraska politics for the last twenty-five years, is a native of New York. He came to Nebraska in 1837 and pre-empted a farm at Fort Calhoun. Though educated for the law, he did not practice after coming to this territory, but directed his energies to the development of that part of the state in which he had cast his lot. He was one of the organizers of the republican party in this territory in 1857 and in 1858, and for several years later was an editorial writer for the Omaha Republican. He was a delegate to each of the national conventions that nominated Lincoln. In 1881 he was appointed secretary of the territory and for some time was acting governor. He took an active part in organizing the First Nebraska regiment. He bonded the territorial debt and raised the value of the bonds from thirty cents to par. When the state was organized he declined the nomination for governor, which was then given to Butler. Mr. Paddock was a candidate for United States senator, but was defeated by Thayer, and subsequently nominated for congress, but defeated by Taffa. President Johnson nominated him for governor of Wyoming, but he declined this honor. Twelve years ago he was elected United States Senator, and served with marked ability. He was a candidate for re-election six years ago, but was defeated by Van Wyck. Soon after President Arthur appointed him a member of the Utah commission, of which he was one of the most fearless and influential members, and was tendered the chairmanship when Ramsay vacated it. He resigned his place in the commission to enter this canvass for the senate. For several years past he has been managing his investments so judiciously as to accumulate handsome property—for an average Nebraska Senator—and has erected one of the finest blocks in Omaha, besides securing valuable lands in various quarters. Throughout his long political career he has been a stalwart republican, somewhat conservative, but always loyal to his party.

In 1855 when we saw at a Wyoming fair a lordly savage strutting along, followed by a diminutive squaw with a forty-pound papoose on her back, we hated him; and when we saw him stop at a fruit stand, buy a single apple and walk off eating it, never so much as offering the poor little squaw a bite, we would have given a year's subscription to this paper for the privilege of killing him with a common-place club. And then, when a little later, we came across a poor little farmer's wife, tired to death, with a couple of cross children on her hands; looking the embodiment of hard luck; and still a little later, when we saw her liege lord enjoying the races and paroling the bar, we wondered if, after all, the untutored savage is so very much wiser than the proud Caucasian. It does seem hard for some men to realize that a family is a joint stock concern, and that while enjoying the assets they are also responsible for the liabilities.—Curtis Record.

We learn through the Arnold Tribune of the misfortune of Mr. Charles Fenton in losing fourteen cattle last week near C. W. Hughes place. The whole herd sought shelter under the bank near the creek during the high wind that prevailed last Thursday night, and some of the weaker ones were crowded into the creek and there being quicksand at that point, were unable to get out.

JOB WORK A SPECIALTY. Satisfactory Execution. Reasonable Rates.

Sam Six-Killer, Cottonwood, Jan. 28, 1887.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: Your paper of two weeks ago contained an account of the murder of Capt. Sam Six Shooter in the Indian Territory. I was quite well acquainted with the gentleman. His name was not Six Shooter, but Six Killer. He was a very quiet, inoffensive man, about 5 feet, 11 inches, weighed 200 pounds and well proportioned, being I think the strongest man in that country. I once saw him lift a bale of cotton weighing 440 pounds into a wagon and be seemed to do it with ease. He was chief of police of the Cherokee Nation and was not inclined to be quarrelsome; was quite intelligent and had a good education. He knew no fear, yet never pushed himself into needless danger. He was one-fourth white and did not possess features or build of an Indian. His death is no doubt greatly regretted by the whites as well as his own tribe. Many white men could be better spared than Sam Six Killer. B. F. BAKER.

The saloon-license law in Missouri, amended last winter, has resulted in a gratifying increase of revenue. The St. Louis Republican states that the increase of the tax from a minimum of $550 to a maximum of $1,200 has swelled the revenue from $147,000, to $1,812,000 in that city, while in the same four years during which this threefold increase has taken place the number of saloons has been reduced 621, or one-fifth. So gratifying have the results been, indeed, that the papers are urging upon the legislature the recommendation in the governor's message that the sale of spirits be limited to the licensed saloonkeepers. This would shut out the grocers, who now sell liquor by the gallon, without a license, and who sell a large proportion of whole quantity consumed. The Republican urges that it is advisable to limit the sale of spirits and beer to the regularly licensed saloon-keepers and to increase the minimum to $700.

If your bones ache. If your head aches. If you have no appetite. If you have no ambition, one bottle of Begg's Blood Purifier and Blood Maker will relieve any and all of the above complaints. Sold and warranted by A. F. Streitz.

Dr. Hamilton Griffin, well known as the step-father of Miss Mary Anderson, the actress, is in New York. "I have just come from Colorado," said he to an acquaintance who asked him the stereotyped question, "I have been there all the fall picking up health and strength on my ranch. I am only in New York for a few days, as I sail on Saturday for England. I see by the papers that Miss Anderson has leased the Lyceum Theatre in London. She wrote to me about it some time ago, and I had hoped she would defer action until my arrival in London. It is a risky matter this leasing theatres, and always needs careful consideration."

Mrs. Brown and daughter, from Chicago, registered at the Blakesley House Tuesday. Mrs. Brown was so unfortunate as to loose her purse somewhere near Clinton, Iowa, containing her ticket and a sufficient amount of money to meet her expenses along the way, but being a soldier's widow, and a member of the Ladies Relief Corps, her expenses have been met by the G. A. R. so far. The post at this place responded in the shape of a ticket to Sidney for the lady and her daughter. They left Tuesday night.—Ogallala News.

Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup Will relieve that cough almost instantly and make expectation easy. Acts simultaneously on the bowels, kidneys and liver, thereby relieving the lungs of that soreness and pain and also stopping that tickling sensation in the throat by removing the cause. One trial of it will convince any one that it has no equal on earth for coughs and cold. A. F. Streitz has secured the sale of it and will guarantee every bottle to give satisfaction.

A peculiar incident happened on Fourth Avenue on Friday last. A number of prairie chickens were flying over town, when some of them apparently became bewildered and dropped to the ground, striking the fronts of the buildings in their fall, and one at least flying into a store door and against the wall. After the birds alighted they were easily caught and appeared to be dazed.—Broken Bow Leader.

W. O. Rogers, the young man who was recently shot by Ben Yost near Kimball, died last week. His brother, E. W. Rogers, of Belgrade, Maine, arrived a day or so before his death and took the remains east with him for interment. The post mortem examination held by Drs. Markley and Field demonstrated their diagnosis of the case at the time of their consultation to have been correct.—Sidney Democrat.
