THE WHISTLING WIND.

Whene'er I hear the whistling wind, Whene'er I see the drifting snow, What anxious thought disturbs my mind. So poor the sweetest lass I know! How can she bide the bitter storm? The winter, cold and bleak, endure? She tells me that her wrap is warm-For she is proud as she is poor.

I think of her whene'er I see Another robed in richest furs. There's not another face to me So fair, so good and kind as hers, And when I sit beside my fire I wish her there, for her dear sake, And, troubled with its vain desire, It seems as if my heart would break.

God teach her 'tis the high and low, "Tis not the rich and poor, mate ill, That she may not refuse me, so That I may have my perfect will. God bless her, keep her evermore! And patient let me hope to see Time bridging all the diff'rence o'er She fancies 'twixt herself and me. -Ralph H. Shaw in New York Ledger.

LOSS OF THE PRESIDENT.

Strange Story of the Scuttling of a Great Steamship by Pirates.

What a strange story is that communicated by the Duke of Newcastle to The Globe concerning the loss of the President! He says that a trustworthy informant in the United States assured him that a sailor, dying in an American port, had confessed to having formed one of the crew of a pirate vessel which captured the great steamship. "Every soul on board was made to walk the plank, and the ship was scuttled." The story seems incredible, yet it may be true, and the possibility of it gives one quite a shock. It is 50 years ago and more since the President disappeared from human sight, without, I believe, leaving a trace. The loss of no other vessel-for it was the first of the great passenger ships to go-has caused so great an excitement. How those at home clung to hope, some of them for years-for the notion of the crew being wrecked on some out of the way island

And now is more curious and interesting than one comes this terrible story, which, it is relating to his friend, Colonel Wilk, fortunate, was not conceived of when who had been decorated by the emperor | it would have had the power to make

It is not to be forgotten, however, that more than one story has been recently written upon this subject-the capture and scuttling of a passenger steamer-and it seems more likely that they have suggested the idea being adapted to the loss of the President than that a solitary pirate should have revealed such a long kept secret of the
