MURDER ON THE RESERVATION. Omahas Threaten to Rise Up and Wage

War Upon the Winnebagoes, PENDER, Neb., July 15 .- This county is all aroused over the prospect of a Bloody Work of a Drunken Chicago tribal war between the Omahas and Winnebagoes on account of the rash act of two of the Winnebago Indian policemen, Frank Ewing and Black Elk.

These two went to the Omaha reser vation, and the result of this visit off the territory of the Winnebagoes is that they are both in the county jail here to answer the charge of murdering George Parker, son of Fire Chief, the last great chief of the Omahas The crime occurred near the Omahas' celebration grounds, and it was only a miracle that saved the two policemen from being barned at the stake by the 500 Omahas who were near at hand. Black Eik did not shoot, but stood by. Ewing now claims the shooting was accidental, but other reports that he made assertions that he just wanted to kill an Omaha. The Indians at camp were mostly drunk and searched everywhere for the murderers, but friends got them out of the way.

It was some time before the drunken Omahas could realize what had been done, but then they were clamorous for vengeance. The tribes have never been friendly, and this act has inflamed the Omahas terribly.
