Saturday our citizens were startled by the news of the sudden death of Henry Smallwood, who lived some four miles south of town. For some time past he had been living alone upon the old homestead. Some time about noon his sister, Mrs. Henry Wilkinson, went in to see how he was getting along. She found him seated in a chair dead. From indications he appeared to have expired but a short time previously, as a neighbor passing in the morning noticed the door open and heard him coughing. Death was caused by some dropsical form of heart trouble. The deceased was a man about thirty-five years of age, was an old resident of the county and had a large number of relatives in this locality. For several years he had been engaged in brick-making and farming. Funeral services were held Sunday.

Lincoln county is putting in her supply of hard coal for the season. The probabilities are that it will be largely utilized in warming republican officials for the greater part of next winter, instead of populists. Not that they will need heat more than their opponents, but will be in a position to more readily receive it.

Judge Ray is more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is nothing new under the sun. Some time ago he constructed a penholder for himself upon the principle of "see that lump," and it proving so highly satisfactory to himself and others who tried it, he concluded he had discovered a boon for penmen. Accordingly he sent a sample to an eastern pencil manufacturing firm, who informed him that they had been manufacturing it for fifteen years.

Our Jim not Married. About two weeks ago the local reporter of this paper stated on what appeared to be good authority that Mr. James Willson had gone to Illinois and that when he returned there; would be a Mrs. Willson to share his lot. But he returned single and The Hub feels that it is its duty to make such amends as lie in its power. A friend of Mr. Willson asks The Hub to make this explanation, and to add that the young lady backed out at the last moment because she heard that the wind blows the curl out of a woman's frizzes as soon as she strikes Nebraska. This explanation will, we hope, do justice both to Mr. Willson and The Hub.—Kearney Hub.

Profess in Celery Culture. ED. TRIBUNE.—It is a noticeable fact that many towns or locations attain a profitable and beneficial reputation from the growing or raising of some special class of fruits or vegetables. Grand Valley, Colorado, is rapidly coming to the front as a producer of fruits that excel and rival the best of the California production, both in flavor and excellence. Rocky Ford, Colorado, excels the world in the size and superiority of the melons grown in that vicinity. Kalamazoo, Michigan, raises and exports immense quantities of celery.

In the raising and growing of this vegetable there is a field and market open for some energetic

DATED SEPT. 27th.

THE POPULIST RATIFICATION MEETING.

In spite of the fact that most of those present as delegates to the populist convention last Saturday were compelled to wear heavy overcoats and required the janitor to maintain an extra good fire in order to present any evidence of warmth and enthusiasm, some of the most sanguine, whose hopes are doomed to be blasted, attempted in the evening to hold a meeting for the purpose of ratifying the labors of the day.

About 8 o'clock the deposed ringmaster, Burritt, called to order an assemblage consisting of about 100 individuals—one-half of whom were "pops" and the remainder interested spectators who were desirous of seeing the animals perform. J. W. Alexander, who is rather too intelligent looking, and too good a man to be among such a gang of political plotters, was called upon to preside over the meeting.

Some of Buchanan's claquers were the first to call their little demi-god to the floor in order that he might first go through his paces. Quick to respond to the first sign of an invitation he rapidly advanced to the front, and began a self-laudatory review of his administration, wherein he a couple of times persisted in stating that $16,000 and $17,000 make a total of $23,000. If this is the method of addition he uses in computing the $4,000 interest he alleges to have turned back into the treasury, it is wonderful that he does not claim it to be several hundred dollars more. For an expert accountant (?) to make such a mathematical blunder is inexcusable. The burden of his song was so familiar to his hearers, and just what was expected, that it did not attract much attention. Another statement he made was that the country already had too many laws—whether he meant particularly the depository law he did not state—which did not exactly coincide with Thunder Furiously Gantt's after remarks.

that the principles of this Douglas county acquiescence were well-nigh immortal. Yet he, too, like the sly speaker preceding him, let us hope inadvertently neglected to mention the fact that Samuel Maxwell, the head of the populist ticket in Nebraska, makes no concealment of his contempt for the so-called Omaha platform. Thus again do you see an example of the placing in nomination, in the hopes of winning a few wandering votes, a man who adores naught for the principles, if any there be, at stake. This is no better reform than the methods practiced by both of the villainous old parties. The Col. favored influencing court rulings by popular clamorings, but neglected to narrate France's experience in this direction.

Charley Kilmer was next called upon and said that he learned he had been selected as a member of the republican county central committee; and right here is a good place to say that he did not exhibit a very strong disinclination to serve in that capacity. To the disinterested listener he left the impression that he was not entirely satisfied with the work of the convention. No others being anxious to tell of their troubles the meeting adjourned.

—Doctor Aley, of Lincoln will again be in North Platte at the Hotel Neville, Monday, October 14, where he may be consulted by all in need of his services. He stays one day only.
