No point of his speech was lost upon the assembly, but that which provoked the most enthusiastic uproar was the statement that he had presided over the convention which nominated the last Republican president, and was now addressing that which was to name the next president. The delegates rose and waived their hands, flags and handkerchiefs with a prolonged cheer when Mr. Thurston finished. As the demonstration ceased a letter was read from Henry Fort, chairman of the committee on credentials, announcing that the committee would be unable to report before noon. Thereupon Governor Bushnell of Ohio moved that the convention take a recess until 2 o'clock. The motion was carried with a roar and at 11:28 Chairman Thurston declared the convention in recess. The band played "Yankee Doodle" as the crowd found their way out of the hall.

Many changes have been made in the seats of delegates in the convention hall. The officers of the convention have arranged the seats in alphabetical order according to states, some of the delegates maintain their places and especially those near the top of the list, but beginning with Maryland the several changes are numerous. Maine remains as before, exactly in front of the speaker's stand, Massachusetts takes seats immediately behind them, and then follows Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Nevada, New Jersey, crowding the New York delegation far back to the middle section. Oregon is behind New York, also North Dakota. Beginning with the third section, North Carolina occupies the first, and all but four seats of the second, which are allotted to Ohio, and will probably be occupied by the big four from that state, Foraker, Bushnell, Hanna and Grosvevor. Pennsylvania occupies the seats directly behind Ohio, and have not been changed but one row back. Yesterday the Ohio delegation occupied the front row of the third section.

: St. Louis, June 18.—The third and probably last day of the convention began at 10:30, when in response to the gavel's rap, the delegates arose for prayer. The officiating minister was Dr. John R. Scott of Jacksonville, Fla., the second colored pastor who has conducted the devotional prelude. Although Dr. Scott's voice was a strong one, so great was the confusion of entering delegates and spectators it could minister's lips that he was praying. Then the first opportunity for the delegates to use their voices, fresh after a night's rest, was afforded when Chairman Thurston, without any preliminaries, plunged into business by announcing that the first thing on the program for your consideration. The first sentence of the platform pledging the party to sound money, started a great uproar among the delegates on the floor, but the galleries did not participate until unalterable opposition to the free coinage of silver was of aggregated capital and corporated read. Democracy and Populism was given a good natured cheer and the motion which Senator Foraker made to adopt the platform was also cheered.

Set the Westerners Wild. One of the crucial moments of the convention was at hand. The chairman announced that he would recognize "the mover of a substitute for the majority report, the gentleman from Colorado, Mr. Teller." The name of Teller set the westerners wild. In little scattering squads the handfuls of delegations who had been sitting under the banners of Colorado, of Idaho, of Utah, of Nevada, California and Montana, and some of those from Tennessee and other western and southern states, were on their feet waving hats, flags, umbrellas, faus, handkerchiefs, and shrieking like madmen. The fire spread to the gal-

Then there fell over the house a deep, profound calm, for history was to be made, the political allegiance of half a dozen states hung on the moment and the whole assembly recognized it. The people listened to a man while the clerk proceeded to read the substitute platform, as follows:

We, the undersigned members of the committee on resolution; being unable to agree with that portion of the majority report which treats of the subjects of coinfollowing paragraph as a substitu e there-

The Republican party favors the use of both gold and silver as equal standard money, and pledges its power to secure the free, un'estricted and independent coinage of gold and silver at our mints at the ratio of 16 parts of silver to 1 of gold.

Teller a Striking Figure. Senator Teller, as he stood on the Republican party against the adoption of a gold standard policy, was a striking figure. Tall and gaunt, he wore the old fashioned frock coat of the old time statesman. His face is deep furrowed with lines of thought, and no one who beheld him doubted his honesty of purpose.

long service in the party visibly affected him. As he realized the step he was about to take he drew himself together for a final appeal and declared in an earnestness that impressed all who heard him, that in his opinion the morality, the religion and the salvation of the country were at stake. He spoke as follows:

Senator Teller's Speech. GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: "] will not attempt to inflict upon you a be told only from the movement of the discussion of the great financial question which is dividing the people, not my conscience demands that I shall do, only of this country, but of the whole I shall leave this question for your conworld. The few moments alloted to me by the convention will not permit me to more than state briefly our objections to the financial plank proposed cal man, and recognize the condition are by the action of the committee. This plank, presented to the whole Senator Foraker crowded to the front | committee, and by it rejected. Loyalty tion is alone my excuse now for the words that I shall say to you. In con nection with this subject in a public capacity, I have dealt with it for 20 years. I represent a state that produces silver, but I want to say to you here and now that my advocacy of the proposition is not in the slightest degree influenced or controlled by that fact. [Applause and a voice, "Good."]

"I contend for it because I believe that there can be no sound financial system in any country or in any world that does not recognize this principle. I contended for it in 1873 when it was ruthlessly stricken from our statutes and since then there has been a continned depreciation of all the products of human labor and human energy. I contend for it because in this year of | 533 votes. 1896 the American people are in greater distress than they ever were in their history. I contend for it because this is, in my judgment, the great incubus that has struck down enterprise and destroyed progress in this favored land of ours. I contend for it because I believe the progress of my country is Maine, Maryland and Massachusetts dependent upon it. I contend for it because I believe the civilization of the world is to be determined by the rightful or wrongful solution of this financial question. I am tolerant of those who differ with me. I act from my judgment and enlightenment as best I have been able by my study and my years of thought. In my judgment the American people in the whole line of their history have never been called upon to settle a question of greater importance than this.

"I have said enough to show you that I think this is not a question of policy, but a question of principle. It is not a mere nothing, but one on which hangs the happiness, the prosperity, the morality, and the independence of American labor and American producers. [Applause.]

"Confronted for the first time in this party of ours by a financial system that would, in my judgment, destroy all the great interests in this land, we are called upon to give this principle in our platform our adherence.

Had No Unkind Words. "Mr. President, I do not desire to say ankind things and I will touch only a moment upon why I object to this prosingle standard.
