NEWS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY.

The Iddings Proceedings.

Last Wednesday evening Mrs. C. F. Iddings and J. J. Halligan returned with Mr. Iddings from Ohio. For a considerable time lately, Mr. Iddings has been in Colorado. When he left North Platte he went to a sanitarium at Boulder and remained there about ten months. From there he was taken to Colorado Springs where he remained for about six months. During the time he was in Colorado, he was under the immediate charge of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Iddings, whom Mrs. Iddings had placed in charge of him, Mrs. Iddings paying all the expenses.

For some time Mrs. Iddings had requested that Mr. Iddings be brought home, as he did not seem to be particularly benefited by the treatment in Colorado. Miss Elizabeth Iddings, under one pretext or another, deferred bringing him home until Mrs. Iddings instructed her peremptorily to bring Mr. Iddings home and sent a nurse to Denver to meet Mr. Iddings on his way home. When these peremptory instructions were received by Miss Elizabeth Iddings, instead of bringing him to his home, she placed him on the train and without the knowledge of Mrs. Iddings, took him to Warren, Ohio. As soon as arrangements could be made, Mrs. Iddings and Mr. Halligan went to Warren to bring Mr. Iddings home.

When Mrs. Iddings arrived in Warren, Miss Elizabeth Iddings refused to surrender possession of Mr. Iddings, called in the Chief of Police and an officer and ordered Mrs. Iddings and Mr. Halligan out of the house. She refused at that time, to give up Mr. Iddings or to allow his wife to have anything to do with him. After some investigation, Mrs. Iddings and Mr. Halligan went to Cleveland, about forty miles distant from Warren and sued out a writ of habeas corpus, under which the sheriff of Cuyahoga County took Mr. Iddings from Warren and brought him to Cleveland, where on Friday, the 7th, the trial was had in the Common Pleas Court and a judgment rendered, taking Mr. Iddings from the custody of his brothers and sister and delivering him into the custody of his wife.

After these proceedings, Mrs. Iddings and Mr. Halligan proceeded to bring Mr. Iddings home, stopping at Chicago and Omaha to rest. Mr. Iddings, condition is much the same as when he left here to go to Colorado.

Land Sells High.

Wm Kittenbrink has sold his 160 acre farm in Peckham precinct to Elmer Peckham for a consideration of eleven thousand dollars, or a fraction less than seventy-five dollars per acre. From this it will be seen that unrigged land in Lincoln county is soaring pretty high in price.

Cottonwood and Vicinity.

Miss Emily E. Clark resumed school last Monday morning.

Carfield & Rosse shelled corn for Hutchison, Rosse, Jackson and Somers this week.

Many potatoes have been frozen during this cold wintry weather.

C. O. Hutchinson and A. F. Burke enjoy graphophone music these long winter evenings.

H. C. Hartman is not particular whose shoes he puts on in the morning when he arises.

C. E. Oldfather has been almost off his feet lately with a crippled back. My sympathies go with you, we are in the same boat.

B. G. Soule is hauling down his hay from Cottonwood canyon.

The mumps have been loitering around in our community and claiming some victims.

On Tuesday evening a few of the young people in our immediate vicinity called at Arnold's and had a taffy pulling.

Fred Ericsson has been buying corn of the farmers near Fort McPherson cemetery.

On building a fire to warm the church in Maxwell, Rev. A. M. Horan experienced quite a blow out. The gas burst open the stove doors, blew down the stove pipe and filled the room with an awful gas smoke.

J. H. Adams will have a sale on Monday, January 18th.

Mrs. Campbell, of Maxwell, has been attacked with another siege of sickness. The merchants of Maxwell will start on a cash basis on February 14th. We believe this is the better plan. Pay as you go; if you can't pay don't go.

Sun's Rays Burns Curtains.

A rather peculiar loss occurred at the W. V. Hoagland residence this week. Mrs. Hoagland placed seven window curtains near a window in which stood a fish globe. The rays of the sun reflected from the globe to the curtains and so charred them that they were all valueless.

"The Time, Place and the Girl."

The Denver News of January 10th says: "The Time the Place and the Girl" has visited Denver several times, but never was appreciation of the tenuous comedy more strongly shown than yesterday afternoon at the Tabor Grand. The stars are capable, the rendition of the two leading parts being especially pleasing; the chorus girls are pretty, and their voices, as well as those of the male members of the chorus, are far above those of the average musical comedy.

The usual crowd house greeted the play. Standing room tickets were sold and chairs were placed in the orchestra pit and in some of the aisles. The audience was loud in its appreciation of the work of Robert Pitkin, as Johnny Hicks the straight gambler; and Elizabeth Goodall, head nurse at the "Care."

The main theme of the plot surrounds the gambler and the nurse. To get his friend, a rich man's son, on easy street with his sweetheart, Margaret, Happy Johnny Hicks, tells that he "beat up" the brother of the nurse in a brawl. Because he is a man, the rich man's son tells the nurse that he was the one who did it, and despite this, wins Margaret, and Hicks wins the nurse.

The scene is a sanitarium, where a quarantine for smallpox throws all the lovers together. They cannot help seeing each other and do the hospital work together when the help leaves after the first warning of smallpox.
