

Buy Diamonds Here

If you buy Diamonds here you are assured of getting full value for your money. Diamonds have a market value that is always on the rise—they never drop in price—so there is never any such thing as a bargain Diamond. Of course there is a difference in the way some Jewelers buy diamonds—we for instance buy direct of the importer and cutter, thus saving you a middleman's profit. Off color diamonds are not sold by us at any price. We have a new importation awaiting your selection.

Do your diamonds need resetting? We do this work in our own shop.

Long Cherished Plans of Baptists About to be Realized.

Far back into last winter plans were laid by the Baptist church for special meetings early this year. Chaplain E. W. White, D. D., of Jackson, Mich., who could not come last year, promised to give some time in Sept. This man, a member of the Interdenominational Association of Evangelists, and one of the strong men among the Baptists, will be here to begin Tuesday, Sept. 20th. At the present time he is in his first engagement of the season at Golden, Colorado, and will come directly from there to this city. A big meeting is reported in progress at Golden, with several conversions to date and the prospects of a wide spread revival.

The Baptists of this city are hopeful of a great meeting. The interest and attendance has been maintained through the heated term this season much better than in any previous summer, and they seem in a spirit and mode to realize their long cherished hope.

More concerning the record and work of this evangelist may be expected in these columns later.

School Time Near.

A tired brain makes a tired body. Eyestrain produces brain fog. Properly fitted glasses relieves brain fog. Dixon, the Optician fits glasses properly.

Every scholar ought to have a fountain pen. We show a big line. We call your attention especially to our $1.00 pen. Solid gold nib—its a dandy in every way. Dixon, the Jeweler.

Our New Minister.

Plays that don't live are those that are made up usually of pure fancy, imaginative figments that impress even the most careless that their stories have been pieced together mechanically. The characters in plays of this class don't seem real to an audience, nor do their speeches seem natural. Watching a machine-made play is like listening to a phonograph with a moving picture attachment. The performance is distracting, but not convincing. Plays that live on the other hand may be said to have people of real flesh and blood for their personages and stories of strange interest and sure conviction for their basis. "The Old Homestead" is a play of the latter class. "Our New Minister," the newest play by the same authors, is another real play of the same sort that promises to live as long as its illustrious predecessor. At the Keith theatre Saturday evening September 10th.
