Death of Mrs. Chas. Adamson,

Mrs. Charles Adamson died at the nome of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dave Scott about nine o'cleck this morning. Death was due to typhoid fever after an illness of about a week or ten days. At the inquest it developed that the man's name was Abe Hostetter, and that he was enroute from California to Tremont, Ohio, In his pocket was found a ticket for passage between those points, but he insisted before being killed on buying another ticket from Sutherland to Omaha, although the agent told him another ticket was not necessary. He had gotten off train No. 2 or No. 8 Sunday and had wandered around the country during the afternoon and evening and had spent the night in the depot. His actions were such as to lead those who saw him to believe that he had walked in front of the train as a method of selfdestruction.

A. B. Yates, who assisted Coroner Longley at the inquest wired a party at Fremont, Ohio, whose address was found on an envelope in the dead man's pocket, and received a reply requesting that the remains be shipped to that place. Mr. Yates came to North Platte last evening to make arrangaments for properly caring for the body and shipp-

"The Flower of the Ranch"

Picturesque and colorful are the Ranch," the successful musical comedy which comes to the Keith next Saturday everfing.

The foothills of the Rockies in Cali Mrs. Thos. J. Ryan was hostess at a very enjoyable affair last evening when very enjoyable affair last evening when vironment. There are Indians, Mexicans, cowpunchers, ranchman and little "Flower," an attractive specimen the rooms were very prettily decorated of budding womanhood beloved by everyin green and white and numerous green one. Jack Farnam, the hero of the plausible and spirited story, is a manly young rancher whose property an un-principled sheriff seeks to secure with the aid of a Mexican bad man. Little "Flower," whose affection is undis-guised, is instrumental in thwarting the designs of the plotters, of course. The comedy element is constant and keen. Skivers, a smart and scrappy chore boy, with a penchant for timely rhyme and whose nimble feet execute divers centric dances, romps gaily through the three acts with Flower; while Timber-line Ike and Little Mac, an Irish sergeant at the military post, contribute their share of the fun.

"The Flower of the Ranch" is not a "shoot-up opera," for there is but one shot during the action of the play, and that is "off-stage." It is good, clean, wholesome entertainment of decidedly novel character, and ought to duplicate in this city its great success of last season in the large cities of the east. The cast of principals this season is with two exceptions the same as last.
