Local Paragraphs.

Mrs. Van Dyke left today for Cozad to spend two weeks or more. Harry Fleishman returned this morning from a short stay in Omaha. Robert Harvey, of Lincoln, state engineer, is spending the day in town. Misses Evelyn Sandall and Cosmie Miller will leave Saturday for Gothenburg. C. P. Campbell, former principal of the local schools, spent yesterday in town. Mrs. Porterfield of Hershey is spending a few days in town having dental work done. Mr. and Mrs. Andy Yost left Saturday for Chicago to visit Mrs. Charles Dill for two weeks. Miss Gertrude Herrod, of Columbus, who spent the past three weeks with friends, left this morning. Clarence T. Murphy of Curtis and Minnie Donner of Kearney, were married yesterday by County Judge Grant. Herbert Luckey, of Sutherland, who is well known in this city, was operated on in Chicago for appendicitis yesterday. The enrollment in the high school yesterday was one hundred and ninety two, ninety of whom are freshmen. The ward schools are also crowded. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stuart and daughter Eleanor, of Washington, D. C., will arrive tomorrow to visit the former's sister, Mrs. A. F. Streit. John Thomas, of Dickens, was in town yesterday getting endorsements for appointment as postmaster at Dickens, vice Cecil Tuell, resigned. Last Friday was the opening day of the prairie chicken season and daily since then the hunters have been abroad in the fields. The chickens are reported scarce and so far none of the nimrods have so far as we have learned, brought in the maximum number allowed by law. John C. Galloway, former manager of the local Postal Telegraph office, was arrested the last of the week by Sheriff Dunkell for embezzlement while in charge of the Grand Island office. He was charged with taking about one hundred dollars of the company's funds and the trial was to be held in Grand Island. Recently Mr. Galloway has had charge of the office at Chappell and admits the shortage. Mrs. C. B. Rodgers, of Moorefield, died at her home at that place Aug. 31st, of dropsy of the heart. The funeral was held Sept. 1st at the M. E. church. Mrs. Rogers, who was seventy-two years of age, was one of the old settlers having resided in Lincoln county since 1830. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, three daughters and four sons, beside a large number of neighbors and friends. Mrs. Rogers was a faithful member of the M. E. church. Her love and devotion was spent on those of her own household; a kind and loving wife and mother, ever considerate of the wants and needs of others. She was the mother of M. C. Rodgers the harness man of this city.

Myrtle and Vicinity.

Miss Ada Brown, of Osceola, Neb., is visiting old time friends. Charlie Gambrel purchased a new piano recently. Missionary Turner, accompanied by Rev. Mrs. Kimberly, gave a magic lantern show and lecture on Sunday school work at the Gambrel school house last Wednesday evening. A Hastings dispatch dated yesterday says: Bartlett Richards, wealthy ranchman, sent to the Adams county jail to serve a one-year sentence for fencing public land, died in a sanitarium here at 6:45 this morning, following a surgical operation, the second he had submitted to since being imprisoned. The first was at Rochester, Minn., for which he was temporarily released. He returned here about five weeks ago. The second operation was performed here Saturday night.

A Real Patriot.

"Let's see," said the lawyer who had met an out of town acquaintance on a street car, according to the New Orleans Picayune, "doesn't your town soon hold an election?" "It does." "And I suppose you take a lively interest in it?" "Well, not too lively—not as lively as I used to." "Interest falling off, eh? Didn't you run for mayor two or three years ago?" "I have run for mayor of my town seven successive times, sir." "And been—been—?" "Been defeated every time, sir." "Then you probably won't run again?" "That's uncertain. I am going to run around and find if I am really the man they want. If I am, then I'll run. If not, then I will let the man they do want."

An Even Thing.

"Well, not too lively—not as lively as I used to." "Interest falling off, eh? Didn't you run for mayor two or three years ago?" "I have run for mayor of my town seven successive times, sir." "And been—been—?" "Been defeated every time, sir." "Then you probably won't run again?" "That's uncertain. I am going to run around and find if I am really the man they want. If I am, then I'll run. If not, then I will let the man they do want."

Immortality.

"Speaking of immortality, what's the matter with the hen?" "Go on." "Her son never sets."—New York Times.

Consolation.

Knickner—My wife is always praising the men she rejected for me. Bocker—Never mind; she will praise you to her second husband.—New York Sun.

Sure It Was His Wife. Three o'clock was the very earliest the man could get up to the store, so his wife asked him to meet her then. "I don't know in what department I shall be at that time," she said, "but just before 3 I will telephone to the clerk at the information bureau near the main entrance, and if you will just step over and ask him he will tell you where I am." At two minutes past 3 the man sought information as to the whereabouts of his wife. "I have a message," said the clerk, "from a woman who said her husband would inquire for her about 3 o'clock. Maybe it is for you." She said to tell you that she has gone to Blank's store, over on Ninth avenue, to make her shopping because the clerk in this store are ignorant, the place is ill ventilated and she couldn't find anything she wanted here, and how and never has been able to find anything here and this is positively the last time she will ever try to find anything here. Of course that might have been your wife? "Oh, yes," said the man; "that was her all right."—New York Sun.

Cochineal Insects. Before many years cochineal dyestuffs will have become a thing of history only, like the Tyrian purple of antiquity. That is the conclusion of M. Leon Diguet, who has been studying the state of the cochineal industry in Mexico. The first specimens of cochineal were taken to Europe by the Spanish adventurers in the sixteenth century. The Indians had cultivated the coccus cacti, from which the color is derived in pre-Columbian times, and after the Spanish conquest the industry developed rapidly. The city of Oaxaca was the center of the cochineal country in the days of Humboldt, but only a few plantations of the nopal cactus, on which the insects are fed, now remain. The female insects only are used to form a dye, and they are gathered by brushing the branches of the nopal as soon as they begin to lay their eggs. They are then desiccated in ovens or killed with boiling water.

Duel With Horsewhips. A novel but brutal form of duel between two carters took place at Inja, Hungary. Being both in love with the daughter of the farmer who employed them, they decided to fight for her with their heavy horsewhips, the girl agreeing to act as umpire and accept the winner. In order to insure that there should be no running away, they first fastened themselves to two posts in the ground. The girl gave the signal to begin, and the two men, who were stripped to the waist, began to belabor each other with such fury that long bleeding welts soon covered their faces, arms and bodies. Unable to bear the horrible sight, the girl ran away for help. When she came back with some of the neighbors they found the two men lying on the ground covered with blood and exhausted. The duel was declared a draw.

A Luscious Morsel. A speaker at a literary dinner in New York said: "He who writes for posterity can only expect the approval of posterity. To his own generation his work will be as unpalatable as German carp, and you know the recipe for cooking German carp?" "No? Well, then, this is it: "Catch a German carp in a stagnant and muddy stream. Clean it immediately and hang it in the sun three days to dry. After it is thoroughly dried nail it to a spruce board and cover it with a paste of salt and mud. Let it stand two days longer. Now bake it forty-eight hours. Remove the nails, scrape off the salt and mud paste carefully and then eat the board—never eat the carp."

Why the Head of a Lion. A custom there is in most parts of Europe to adorn aqueducts, spouts and cisterns with lions' heads, which, though no illandable ornament, is of an Egyptian genealogy, who practiced the same under a symbolical illusion. For because the sun being in Leo, the flood of Nilus was at the full and water became conveyed into every part, they made the spouts of their aqueducts through the head of a lion. —Sir Thomas Browne, "Vulgar Errors."

Eskimo Beliefs. Eskimos believe that earth and air are filled with spirits. The one drags man into the earth by the feet, from which they never emerge, the other strikes them dead, leaving no mark. They often stop and listen and say that Tuna of the wind is passing by, imagining that the air is full of voices.

Did His Best. The Clergyman—Do you mean to say that your wife goes to church every Sunday without you? Husband—Well, it isn't my fault. I can't persuade her to stay at home.—Stray Stories.

An Even Thing. Mistress—Hridget, how long would you stay with me if I couldn't pay you? Maid—As long as you'd keep me if I couldn't cook, mum.—Harper's Bazar.

Immortality. "Speaking of immortality, what's the matter with the hen?" "Go on." "Her son never sets."—New York Times.

Consolation. Knicker—My wife is always praising the men she rejected for me. Bocker—Never mind; she will praise you to her second husband.—New York Sun.

A Prophecy

By CAROL H. PIERCE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When the civil war was coming on Enoch Armsby, a Connecticut Yankee, who had taken it into his head to run a plantation on the Mississippi river some twenty miles south of Vicksburg, found himself a northern man with southern interests. Despite the differences between him and his neighbors they didn't drive him out. His son, Zeke, who had lived in the south longer than in the north, enlisted in the Confederate army, and this disposed the southerners more than ever to let the father alone. Enoch Armsby told his southern friends that there were reasons why the north would prevail. "I guess," he said, "nothin' can stand against the south for fightin', but it isn't fightin' that's goin' to win. The northern people are full of resources. When they come down here you'll find that they will convert a ferryboat into a man-of-war, build bridges with cotton bales, and when they capture one o' your railroads they'll git out a time table and run it nearer the schedule than you fellows can do it in time of peace."

"I reckon one southerner can whip five Yankees," would be the reply. "S'posin' they do, s'posin' they kill three out o' the five Yankees and make prisoners of the other two, the two they don't kill will invent some way o' gittin' out o' jail and go on fightin'." They will be joined by three more Yankees and be as strong as ever. That'll go right on."

The Federal forces slowly made their way down the river and in time the great event of the war in that region, the siege of Vicksburg, began. Zeke Armsby participated in the fight that took place in the rear of that city, was captured and confined with a lot of Confederate prisoners of war in a manufactory of undertakers' supplies. When the news reached his father the neighbors said: "Mr. Armsby, reckon yer son 'll have a chance to show that Yankee ingenuity yo' been braggin' about now. Reckon he'll find a way fo' gettin' out." "I guess Zeke 'll git out if any one can."

"How's he goin' to do it? That factory is on a point o' land steekin' out into the river. There's a high wall on one side and water on the other. The Yanks hain't such fools as to give their prisoners boats, are they?" "I guess not," the father admitted. "Well, we'll see what Yankee ingenuity 'll do. There's several hundred southerners in that building, and if one northerner invents a way to git out we'll give up the point about the superiority of yo' people."

One morning one of Mr. Armsby's neighbors stood on the bank looking up the river, shading his eyes with his hands. Another person saw him, and having nothing to do, walked slowly out to see what the first was looking at. Another and another joined the party, and finally Armsby himself appeared. "Somep'n queer?" asked one of the party. "Powerful queer. I'd reckon it was driftwood, only fo' somep'n shinin' on it. That—did yo' see the flash?" Every one saw it and wondered. The driftwood or whatever it was came rapidly nearer, for the current of the Mississippi is by no means slow, and as the thing approached many were the comments made upon it. Some said it was a log that had been squared, some that it was an oblong box, while others noticed that it was smaller at each end than in the middle. As it rolled something, either glass or metal, occasionally caught the rays of the sun and sent out a flash. "By gum, it's a coffin!" exclaimed one of the watchers. "A coffin?" exclaimed the others. "What can a coffin be doin' sailin' down the river?" "It is a coffin, who?" While these remarks were being made the coffin—for such it was—was approaching the bank on which the party was standing. "There must be a co'pse in it," remarked one, "or it would roll over."

"That thing that reflects the light is the plate." The coffin dented by, and as it did so the upper part of the lid was lifted off by the said co'pse, and a pale face rose and looked at the party with frightening effect. "By Jink," exclaimed Armsby, "it's my boy Zeke!" "Reckon," said several others. "Dad," cried the young man, "come out in a boat and git me. I haven't got no oars." Armsby ran downstream to where a boat was tied, rowed out to the coffin and towed it ashore. Then Zeke told them that in the undertaker's supply manufactory (his prison) he had discovered a pile of coffins. He had launched himself in one of them before daylight. "Feller citizens," spoke up one of the party, "we'll never conque' rich people as that as long as God Almighty lives." A conference was held, and it was decided that the people of the county be recommended to have nothing to do with the war. They felt assured that a people who would use coffins for boats instead of burying corpses would be found invincible. Enoch Armsby simply said, "I told yo' so," and when the Confederacy collapsed became the most influential planter in those parts.

Miss Herman Kaessman, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., the school teacher who formed a $175,000 company at a Rochester tea party to buy and operate a Kansas oil refinery, is bankrupt. She filed a petition at Fort Scott yesterday giving her liabilities at $107,000 and her assets at $200. Miss Kaessman was the first woman in the world to operate an oil company.

A palatial gambling house, patronized exclusively by women in the higher walks of life and operated by a woman, has been in operation in Minneapolis for weeks. The police say the rooms contain two dozen tables. The place was handsomely furnished and luncheon was served. It was in Nicollette avenue the chief commercial street of the city. Every afternoon a string of automobiles lined up in front. Following complaints of husbands that their wives were losing money there, the woman operator of the establishment was summoned to police headquarters. She was allowed her freedom on her promise to suspend operations.

THEY ALL DEMAND IT.

North Platte, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Receives It

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve but do not cure. Here is evidence to prove that Doan's Kidney Pills cure, and the cure is lasting: Mrs. Christina Pickett, 318 East B. St., North Platte, Neb., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from McDonnell & Graves' Drug Store, for kidney trouble and have found them to be just the remedy I needed for backache and other kidney disorders. Whenever I am suffering from these troubles, I appeal to Doan's Kidney Pills and their use gives me relief. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results." For Sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no order.
