Strikers Hold Meeting.

Three or four hundred men and a number of ladies attended a meeting held under the auspices of the striking Union Pacific employes Saturday evening at the Lloyd opera house. Walter Kocken presided, and following a selection rendered by a quartette composed of Messrs. Cressler, Clinton, Munger and Boyd, the chairman introduced Mayor Patterson, who made a short address, complimenting the men for the orderly manner in which they had so far conducted the strike, and laying stress upon the good citizenship of the men.

Walter Ames, of Boston, one of the vice-presidents of the machinists' international union, was then introduced, and gave an interesting address, receiving the strict attention of the audience for about three-quarters of an hour. Mr. Ames is a ready talker, has a good voice and presented some good points. He reviewed the formation of combinations of trade and formation of trusts, citing these as a justification of the federation of the shop crafts; inferring that it was an instance of diamond cut diamond. The meat trust placed the selling value on its product; the working man's sole product, his labor, was regulated not by himself but by the corporation. This, he argued was wrong; the laborer should place the value on his labor.

The speaker decried the "Bertillon system" employed by corporations, otherwise known as the personal record of each man. This to the men is particularly objectionable.

He spoke at some length on the campaign for shorter hours; formerly machinists worked ten hours, but through the efforts of the union a nine-hour day was secured for 185,000 men—now the campaign is being waged for an eight hour day.

In closing Mr. Ames urged the men to be orderly in their conduct, and keep away from the premises of the company. He made the statement that it was the history of strikes that for every striker, the company or corporation hired twenty-five strike-breakers; as there are 30,000 men involved in the present strike, the interested companies would need hire 750,000 men. To obtain these is impossible, hence the company must lose out. He regretted that it was necessary to call the strike, and hoped for a speedy settlement of the difficulty.

Given Life Sentence.

Louis Jensen, who brutally murdered Stephen Frazier in the canyons south of Maxwell on the 24th day of September, was arraigned before Judge Grimes Friday evening. The charge, that of murder in the first degree, was read to Jensen, to which he pleaded guilty and the Judge told him what the punishment would be—either hanging or life imprisonment; that there were some technicalities in the charge of which he, Jensen, might take advantage, but without the least show of feeling, Jensen said he was ready to meet the verdict, and when Judge Grimes pronounced the life sentence there was not a twitching of a muscle, no change in countenance; no evidence of regret or remorse. Jensen displayed the nature of a man who might be guilty of killing a rat instead of taking the life of a fellow man; the crime seemed to be regarded as of no consequence. As to the saneness of Jensen there is no doubt; he is simply a degenerate—a man without conscience, feeling or heart. Such men are a menace to any community in which they live—they place no value on human life; behind the bars should be their home for their natural life.

Jensen was taken to the penitentiary Friday night.

The Products of a Homestead.

Among the men who took Kinkaid homesteads of 640 acres in Lincoln county, is Julius Mogensen, who lives in the north part of Rosedale precinct. Mr. Mogensen made final proof on his land, and that he made no mistake in "staying" with the land is evidenced by his crop this year. From a neighbor, who does not exaggerate, it is learned that Mr. Mogensen has eighteen acres of potatoes which are yielding an average of 135 bushels to the acre; he has 150 acres of corn that will average fifty bushels to the acre, and he has twenty-two stacks of good hay, all the product of his homestead, and leaving him 425 acres of land on which to graze his stock. Mr. Mogensen will have 2430 bushels of potatoes worth one dollar a bushel; 7500 bushels of corn worth in the neighborhood of fifty cents a bushel; which not counting his hay, makes a total of $6,180.00 worth of products. To this should be added the natural increase in number and value of his stock.

Mr. Mogensen's success is one example of many found on homesteads in Lincoln, Logan and McPherson counties.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of North Platte People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of others. The public utterance of North Platte residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement, no better proof can be had.

George W. Weinberger, 109 West 9th St., North Platte, Neb., says: "Two years ago I became afflicted with kidney trouble and suffered from agonizing pains through my back. I gradually grew worse, became stiff and lame and on account of losing my rest at night, became all run down. My kidneys themselves did not perform their functions normally. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured them at McDonell & Graves' drug store and after I had taken the contents of six boxes, I was entirely cured. Prior to using Doan's Kidney Pills, I had to lay off from work for several months, but after taking this remedy only one month, I was able to resume work."
