We must earnestly request of all who are indebted to us to make arrangements to settle their accounts, as we need the money to settle up our business. Our business relations with all of our patrons have been very pleasant and we trust we may be able to do more in the future.

Respectfully,
GILBERT & McCANDLESS.

Mrs. Dr. B. Bell-Andrews of Cordell, Oklahoma, has been visiting at Stella and on Wednesday evening came over to Nemaha and is the guest of Mrs. M. W. Knapp.

Ed E. Sanders of Spickard, Mo., arrived in Nemaha Tuesday evening on a visit to his mother and brother, Mrs. J. M. Sanders and W. W. Sanders. He started home Thursday.

John H. Dundas of the Granger still insists that he is a candidate for congress. He is sure to remain a candidate only, but then he will not be bothered with postoffice applicants.

Prof. W. H. Waggoner delivered four interesting lectures on missions at the Christian church, on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights. The lectures were illustrated with stereoptican views.

M. T. Hill has decided to go to Shubert and open a drug store. In a short time he will be kicking himself because he didn't remain in a good town. But some people only learn by experience.

Otto Blinde of Johnson was in town a few hours Thursday morning. He had been in a hospital at St. Joe and was on his way home, coming up on the morning freight. He went home on the passenger.

Dr. Gaither's health has been very poor for some time, and he is confined to his bed part of the time. He will probably take a vacation this summer and go to the mountains. It is hoped his health will soon improve.

Will Crother of Santa Barbara, California, arrived in Nemaha Monday on a visit to relatives and friends. Will is a son of Philip Crother, a former prominent citizen of Nemaha. Philip is a brother of John E. Crother.

Ed H. Knapp has become tired of paying rent and is going to build. He has selected the best neighborhood in town—across the street east of the editor's palatial residence—and expects to begin building in a few days.

Squire Sanders had his first trial as justice of the peace last Thursday afternoon, and another one Friday, so he feels that he is a full fledged 'squire now. But he wants to marry a couple the next thing. He prefers that kind of business anyway. Who will be the first?

The ladies Christian aid society will give an easter bazaar and ice cream social on Saturday night, April 22, the proceeds to pay on papering the church. We cordially invite everybody and all articles donated us for bazaar will be thankfully received. Come out and help us. Remember the date.

Pat Daugherty, an old citizen of Auburn, has been sued for $20,000 for breach of promise by Mrs. Eliza C. Smith, several times a widow. The widow has been married three or four times but evidently is not adverse to taking another life partner—if he is the right kind and has plenty of money.

Sam Isabell of St. Deroin recently built a houseboat and Wednesday of this week loaded his family in it and started down the Missouri river. He says he is going to Brazil. The boat is a very comfortable one, and they will doubtless have a fine trip if they keep well and nothing happens. He has a wife and four children.

Nemaha Chapter No. 76, Order of Eastern Star, elected the following officers at the regular meeting last Saturday night:

Shubert knows where to come for good business men, and has coaxed away several of Nemaha's enterprising merchants. First, we believe, they got our bank away from us several years ago by offering special inducements. Then H. E. Williams, Joe Harper, M. H. Taylor, and now M. T. Hill. Who will be the next?

An old family horse belonging to Judge Broady of Lincoln died on the farm northeast of Nemaha a few days ago, and the judge, who was down here, had one hoof removed and sent to Lincoln, where he will have it mounted and keep it in memory of the services of the faithful animal in past years. The horse was in the family for many years, and all thought a great deal of it.

Senator Burkett writes us that he is in receipt of notice from the postoffice department that complete rural free delivery county service in Nemaha county has been ordered established and will commence on Monday, May 15. We are informed that only three families in the county will have to go over one mile for their mail when this service is established. It is certainly a great thing for the farmers, and they appreciate it.

We wish we had a picture of the cemetery in the condition it was formerly, and then one taken last year, to show what a little intelligent care and the expenditure of a little money will do in caring for a cemetery. It would be a good object lesson. But our people certainly do not need any such reminder, as they know what a great change was made last year. If you want this condition to continue, donate liberally when the subscription paper is presented.

P. G. Swan had his first runaway Saturday. He was raking stalks and was driving four horses to the rake. Getting off for a few minutes he left the horses standing, but they did not stand very long. They ran into a barb wire fence, throwing one of the horses backward over the rake. One of the horses was scratched up some and one tug was broken but aside from this no damage was sustained, although several posts were pulled up, and the barb wire broken. Mr. Swan says he has been driving horses for fifty-three years and this is the first runaway he has ever had.

Elmer E. Allen will superintend the work of keeping the cemetery in good condition again this year — which means that it will be well attended to. But in order to keep it in good condition it will be necessary to raise money by public subscription. Last year a little over one hundred dollars was raised, and those who remember the condition the cemetery was in before Mr. Allen took charge of it and compare it with the condition last year will certainly be willing to pay liberally to keep it in good shape this year, if interested at all in the home for the dead, and all our citizens should be interested in it, whether they have any loved ones buried there or not. It will take a little more this year to keep it in condition, as the sexton will have to look after it at least a month before he commenced work last year. Mr. Allen will start a subscription paper in a few days. If interested do not wait for him to call on you. Call and see him, or send him the money.

C. R. Hacker, county clerk; D. J. A. Dirks, county treasurer; Judge J. S. McCarty, county judge; George Carrington, Jr., county superintendent; and W. A. Doolittle, county commissioner, will each have an extra year office according to the biennial election law which was passed the last term of the legislature and signed Tuesday by the governor. The terms of these county officers would have expired next January but will now expire January 1, 1907.

The purpose of the new law is to do away with an election every year and provide for an election once in every two years. This, it is figured, would be a great saving to the state. The bill caused a great deal of discussion and was voted against by Representatives Peabody and Howe from our county.—Auburn Herald.

Mr. Peabody says the Herald is mistaken, as he and Mr. Howe both voted for the biennial election law, although with doubts as to its legality.

Nearly a half century has passed since L. M. Swan first came to Nebraska to live. He was born in Illinois and came with his parents in 1852 to Sonora, which is now Watson, just across the river in Missouri. In 1856 his father took a homestead adjoining Peru on the south, and that same year came across the river and broke prairie on it. Stores were just being started at Peru at this date, but Mr. Swan tells us that even at that early time Brownville was a flourishing place. He remembers celebrating the Fourth of July in 1856 at Brownville. It was an old fashioned celebration, an ox being killed and roasted. On February 3, 1857, the Swan family took up their residence on the homestead adjoining Peru, more than forty-eight years ago. Mr. Swan came to Stella in 1882, and with the exception of three or four years at Falls City, has made his home here ever since. He is not an old man yet, Monday was his sixty-third birthday, and he likes this place so well that it is his desire to pass the remainder of his life in Stella.—Stella Press.

One of the most noteworthy newspaper celebrations ever held in the middle West was the golden jubilee of The Iowa Homestead at Des Moines, Iowa, on the 23 ult., at which time, also, the manager, Mr. James M. Pierce, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his management of this sterling old paper. The Homestead has not lived fifty years to no purpose; for it is as excellent as it is old, and exceedingly varied in its merits. Its editorials, special features and departments are the best money can buy. The extent of The Homestead plant will be seen when we state that when Manager Pierce gave a banquet to his employes and their wives, over 150 plate laid, more than one hundred being for employes. Great enthusiasm was aroused when the announcement was made that The Homestead would triple the size of its building this year. The popularity of The Homestead in Nemaha County is shown by its immense circulation among our best farmers; but The Advertiser will be glad to help along the cause of good farming by forwarding other subscriptions.
