Nemaba. Nebraska

advice is cheap because the supply is so hig and the demand so small. When a man is poor he is apt to have a fine appetite that he cannot appease. When he becomes rich, if he does, he generally discovers that while he has the wherewithal te homor his appetite, he has no appetite!

That man lives longest who is rich and has lot of poor relations waiting for him to die.

It is a fool drug store clerk that sloes nt know in which soda glass to put the "stick" when you come in with your best girl and give him all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane such as possicatarrh, uterine catarrh caused by feminine ills, sore throat, sore mostle or inflamed eyes by simply dosing the stomach.

YOU CANNOT

But you surely can cure these stubborn affections by local treatment with Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic which destroys the disease germs, checks discharges, stops pain, and heals the inflammation and soreness. Pratine represents the most successful acal treatment for feminine ills ever produced. Thousands of women testify to this fact. 50 cents at druggists. Send for Free Trial Box THE R. PAXTON CO., Beston, Mass.

No town will become a good busis center so long as its businessmen mely on a few merchants to make the effort to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones that reach out after custom. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his part to attract people to come to town to trade in helping the entire community and no town a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a larger serritory in the circles in which the town is the business center.

STC.JACH PAINS

Williams' Pink Pills Brought Relief, and Cure for Splitting Headaches as Well.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a remedy which has been before the American people for a generation, is still accomplishing wonderful results as is evidenced by the following interview with Mrs. Rachael Gardner, of Wilsey, Kans.

"It was very strange," she says, "I merer could tell what caused it and meither could anybody else. For a long wirns I had bad spells with my stomach. The pain would commence about my beart and was so deadly agonizing that I would have to scream aloud. Sometimes a would last several hours and I would hive to take laudanum to stop it. Besides this I had a headache almost consantly, day and night, that nearly crazed me, so you see I suffered a great deal. And when I think of the agony I endared it still makes me shudder.

"Doctors,' did you say? Their medizine made me sicker. I couldn't take it and I kept growing worse until a friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I did. I began to feel better and was soon wholly converted to this wonderful medicine. It did me more good than I had ever hoped for. I kept on with the pills and now I recommend them to all who suffer. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured severe cases of indigestion, bloodlessness. Saftuenza, headaches, backaches, lune bago, sciatica, neuralgia, nervousness and spinal weakness. The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drugs and cannot injure the most delicate system. At all druggists, or from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady. K.Y., postpaid on receipt of price, 50

ments per box, six boxes for $2.50. m efflicted with Thompson's Eye Water UNDER A LANDSLIDE

The victims of the recent French disaster suffered long days of agony, waiting for rescue in their living tombs. The adventure of a contributor to Science lasted but a minute, but it made up in intensity of terror what it lacked in duration of time. The writer tells his own story;

In 1888, while I was making researches in an excavation near Frankfort, Oldo, the center wall of the mound was undermined by the workmen, and I was struck by a mass of falling earth. I had just stooped to examine a small bone which had been uncovered, when earth, to the amount of several eart-loads, dropped on me. No one else was in the excavation, the men having gone to the top of the mound.

The falling mass knocked me backward, and I fell with my head and shoulders on a small heap of earth. The falling wall of earth looked black to me, and I well remember the rush of wind it brought.

At first I felt little pain, only intense pressure, which forced the buttons of my costume partly inside my flesh. My watch was pressed tight against two ribs which were broken. The skin on my forehead seemed cut, but it was the pressure of my hat, forcing the flesh between the straw. The knife in my pocket seemed burning hot. Just under the small of my back was a large clod which gave me unendurable pain, as if my spine were slowly breaking; then it stopped and I felt nothing.

Thoughts raced through my head like lightning, thoughts of the past. present and future. I remember trying in vain to move a hand or a finger. I was perfectly motionless. My chest could not be inflated, and the downward pressure had forced the air out of my lungs. I could move my chin and open and shut my mouth. I tried to keep my mouth closed to prevent its being filled, but it instinct'vely opened and the earth fell in. Then the assurance of strangling came to me, but I did not much care.

It was just sixty seconds, the surveyor said, before the men reached me, and I felt the earth move slightly. A shovel struck my scalp and cut me. It felt like red-hot iron. When my head was uncovered, the pressure of my body was so great the blood was forced to my head until my rescuers feared my veins would burst.

I observed everything, but could not move. The partial paralysis lasted several days. I have never wholly recovered from the effects of my adventure. I cannot enter a cave nor stand near a bank of earth without terrible sensa-

Getting Even.

There was a radiant smile on Mrs. Webber's face which nothing but a bargain or a new tooth in the baby's mouth ever called forth.

"I've got the best of the telegraph company for once in my life," she said, removing hat-pins with each hand. "I didn't mind the bot walk to the office and back or anything, when I'd thought how I could pay them up for making me rewrite that last telegram to my mother, just because there were eleven words and I only had a quarter with me, and it was mother's birthday, and of course I wouldn't let her pay, and so I had to leave out a 'very' that just made it seem like her own daughter." "It was a shame," said Mr. Webber,

"I sent a message to Cousin Mary Wilcox, and eight of the ten words in it were three syllables long. I wish you'd seen the operator's expression, Henry, but of course he couldn't say a word,"-Mrs. Webber elevated her round chin and gazed triumphantly at her husband,-"and I'm thinking up one to send to your sister Frances with three four-syllabled words in it!"

solemnly. "How did you get even;

Their Verdict.

It was the first case ever tried in Stony Guich, and the jury had sat for hours, arguing and disputing over it, in the bare little room at the rear of the court room. At last they straggled back to their places, and the foreman, a tall mountaineer, voiced the general

"We don't think he did it," he said slowly, "for we allow he wa'n't there but we think he would ef he'd had the chanst."-Youth's Companion.

Wherein Lay the Insult. Longbeau-He insulted me grossly. Shorthorn-What did he say?

Longbeau-He said, "I think Longbeau really gets to believing some of those yarns of his himself after he's told them a while."

Shorthorn-Why, I should say that is an insult. It's equivalent to calling you a fool.-Cleveland Leader.

Bentitude.

If hopes of future bliss come true, We'll tread a path of roses Where all the things we wish to do Are those which duty shows us. Detroit Free Press.

have to squander his money for hair

HAY FEVER

"Having used Peruna for catarrh and hay fever, I can recommend it to all who are suffering with the above diseases. I am happy to be able to say it has helped me wonderfully."

-Mayme E. Smith.

444 E. Mound St. Columbus. Ohio

HAY FEVER is endemic catarrh. It is caused by some irritating substance in the atmosphere during the late summer months. It is generally thought that the pollen of certain weeds and flowers is the Change of locality seems to be the only rational cure. The use of Peruna however, stimulates the nervous system to resist the effect of the poisonous emanations and sometimes carries the victim through the hav fover season without an attack of the disease.

A large number of people rely upon Peruna for this purpose. Those who do not find it convenient to change their location to avoid Hay Fever, would do well to give Peruna a trial. It has proven of priceless value to many people.

Adversity seldom klils, but prosperity often.

The sawdust of fine hardwood brings good prices. There are about 12 varieties of it, and each has its appropriate use. Boxwood sawdust, the most expensive of all, is used by manufacturers to burnish silver plate and jewelry. Sandalwood is used for scent bars and for the preservation of furs.

A westerner once wrote a letter to the late Mayor Prince stating that he was about to visit Boston, and asking the mayor to tell him a good place to stop at. The mayor replied: "Just before the 'at." "

New York contains a bit of Paris. a bit of Peking, a bit of Moscow, a bit of Sicily and a bit of many other places, including, according to recent revelations a bit of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Several kinds of birds can fly more than twice as fast as any living thing can run on land. No land animal can run twice as fast as many fishes and marine mammals can swim.

A goat appears to be a pretty wise animal after all. You will notice that he merely eats the cans and never touches the stuff that has been inside them.

You have seen the blooded race horse pawing the ground, tugging at the bit and chafing at the delay which keeps him from the race. You have seen the same horse, when loosened in the race, run madly for a quarter of the stretch and bolt the track! Occasionally we meet a man who frets to be at his work as does the horse in the race. He tears madly down town begins his task in a cyclone of energy, tells everybody what he is going to do-and bolts the track! All cannot win the race. but it is a foregone conclusion that the quitter never will.

90,000,000 BUSHELS

That's the WHEAT CROP Western Canada This Year

This with nearly 80,000,000 Bushels of Oats and 17,000,000 Bushels of Barley means a continuation of good times tor the farmers of Western Canada

Big Crops Free Farms

Low Taxes, Healthy Climate, good Churches and Schools, Splendid Railway Service

The Canadian Government offers 160 acres of land FREE to every settler willing and able to comply with the Homestead Regulations Advice and information may be obtained free from

. se any where you saw this advertisement.

A CHOICE SELECTION OF INTER-ESTING ITEMS.

Comments and Criticisms Based Upon the Happenings of the Day-Historia cal and News Notes.

Loves makes the partor dark and the heart light.

The older a man becomes the fewer fool friends he has.

Don't expect an umbrella mender to recover your lost umbrella.

Many a woman who doesn't know her own mind gives her husband a piece

Of making books there is no endotherwise there would be fewer race-

Speaking of women, attractive simdetons are more popular with men than intellectual bores. It's easy to name the winner of an rgument in which a man's words are pitted against a woman's tears. The man who contends that the world is growing worse always goes bout armed with a muck rake.

"What book has helped you most?" asks a Montreal paper. The check book seems to be the only answer.

There are many people who never get up early enough in the morning to discover what a beautiful world they

A writer says that not a good word can be said for the lusurance companies. Here is one. They gave away fine calendars.

As a rule, the well-fed woman who has reached the age of forty will be happier if she persuades herself that a double chin is beautiful.

Wizard Burbank is said to have evolved a stingless bee. Some day Mr. Burbank may become bold enough to try to produce a kickless mule.

Oklahoma's new star will be placed in the lower right hand corner of the blue field of the fing, but there is no use looking for it until after July 1,

A Philadelphia man and his wife have lived together for sixty years without having a dispute. In every place but Philadelphia the good die young.

The way to be a good citizen of the republic is to be a good citizen of your own community. President Roosevelt thus puts the whole question of practical patriotism in a nutshell.

____ The Declaration of Independence revised to date: When in the course of human events it becomes necessary to put a trust in jail it is the undisputed prerogative of a court to govern itself accordingly.

Secretary Wilson's "from pasture to package" is the most comprehentive definition yet given of the powers of the new meat-inspection law. It is to be hoped that the thoroughness of the inspection will be as complete as the definition.

Humor or truth or allegory, as manufactured in Texas, asserts that a hundred boys engaged in picking berries struck because their employer tried to muzzle them when they were at work. No American boy in the land of free speech can brook being muzzled. When he picks fruit he is usually allowed to eat all he wants, and soon cloys his appetite and becomes like the girl behind the candy counter, who cannot abide the taste of candy.

Bishop Potter goes in for long vacations for the clergy. He says there is a stress in the daily life of the pastor which wears him down more completely than the labors of any of his parishloners, whether men of affairs or professional men. And yet we fancy that these latter need rest and recuperation quite as much as do the clergy. The need is general and particularly urgent among those who follow intellectual pursuits. That eminent Boston lawyer who said he could do his work in ten months but not in twelve put it just about right.

An industrial journal correspondent tells of seeing three $8-a-week-young fellows, all smoking cigars, all sitting in a row in a shoe-blacking place, each getting a "shine" and all going thence to a barber shop to be shaved. Then it figures out that neither of the three things was a necessary of life. Smoking might wait on better ability to pay and each might "shine" his own shoes and shave himself. Yet their practice costs each 50 cents a week, at least, or $26 a year, which is more than 5 per cent interest on $500. True enough. This is a fair illustration of the difference between American wastefulness and the thrift any one may see in near-

TOPICS OF THE TIMES. | by every civilized country on the globe save ours alone.

> One of the sources of suggestion which inspired the recent investigation of the meat-packing houses was a novel. It is by no means the first time that fiction has had a direct and powerful influence on public affairs, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" played its part in the slavery question. The work of Dickens. no doubt, was as strong a force in the reform of judicial procedure and of schools as many an essay and parilamentary debate. Charles Reade attacked prison methods and trade-union outrages with success. The historical plays of Shakespeare and his contemporaries, the product of the national spirit of England, undoubtedly had great influence on the vigor and enterprise of English arms, in general, however, it may be said that great works of fiction do practical good by virtue of being great, and that the "novel with a purpose" too often fails of its purpose and is not a very good novel.

"If I should be asked what is the greatest thing in the world I should be inclined to say it is the saving grace of knowing one's own business and keeping to it. I have seen a good deal of life and I've rarely known it to fall -that the man who can draw the line between what concerns him and what does not is the great salvator for most of the evils the flesh is beir to. If I am ever guilty of asking a man to talk to me about himself I hope some of my friends will take the cue and put me out of harm's way." Public men are always liable to be misquoted, either by flat misrepresentation or by partial suppressions, and it is to be hoped that the foregoing alleged report of some thing that Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme Court said does him injustice, for if it is true it certainly does him no credit. Justice Harlan is not only a great lawyer and a great judge, but an eminent churchman and Christian. Mindiag your own business and letting other people's business alone is a purely worldly and selfish maxim and wholly at variance not only with Christian principles, but with humanitarianism. The very corner stone of Christianity is altruism. It teaches not only that we shall do something for the good of others, but that we shall sacrifice our own interests and live entirely to do good to other people. Christ himself set the example of living and dying for the good of others. The apostle Paul, who was probably more like him than any other man that ever lived, suffered the loss of all things and became a homeless wanderer, to the utter neglect of his own interests, in order that he might attend to the business of other people. How many millions of Christians have lived that way it is impossible to say. Have they all gone wrong? Multitudes of men who made no pretensions to religion have been so intent on the general good of humanity that they have wholly sacrificed their own business in the effort. They have perished in trying to rescue people from the water or the flames. They have been persecuted and slain for their scientific discoveries. They have experimented with poison on their own bodies and lost their lives in trying to add to the sum of medical knowledge. Every one of them deliberately turned his back on his own business and devoted himself to the business of others. To this Justice Harlan would proably say: "You have wholly misunderstood me. I only meant to condemn curious and offensive meddling in the private affairs of other people." If that was his meaning, of course every one will agree with him, but it would be a little hard to put that construction on the words imputed to him, especially when he intimates that if he should ever be fool enough to listen to the troubles of another man he hopes somebody will kill him. There was aman once who when he was asked how he made his money replied: "Onehalf of it by attending to my own bustness and the other half by letting other people's business alone," Certainly there is great worldly wisdom in such a policy, but people do not need to be stimulated to it. There is selfishness enough in the world already, and the great need is more men with public spirit, broad sympathies and self-sacrificing philanthropy.

Famous Baths.

Marie Antoinette's bath, which was prescribed by her doctor, was a compound of aromatic herbs mixed with a handful of salt. She took it cold in summer and tepid in winter.

Later on Mme. Tallien had brought every morning to her house twenty pounds of strawberries and two pounds of raspberries, which were mashed in her bath of warm milk and water. Another preparation used by the eastern women is composed of barley, rice, horrage, thyme and marjoram boiled together and then thrown into the water. Ninon de l'Enclos took a bath every night in which there were salt, sods and three pounds of honey mixed with milk, all well beaten in tepid rain water.

In polite society "scrapping" is called repartee.