

Church Howe Promoted

Hon. Church Howe, of this city, who is now serving as consul-general to Montreal, Canada, received word from Washington, D. C., the first of the week, to the effect that he had been promoted to the position of consul-general to Manchester, England, one of the largest as well as one of the most important industrial and commercial points in the world.

Before relinquishing his office at Montreal he has been granted sixty days leave of absence. From Montreal he will go to Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he will take the baths for relief of a slight touch of rheumatism, for twenty days. He will then come to this city and will visit his friends and relatives here for forty days, when he will sail to England and take charge of his post at Manchester.

The rise of Hon. Church Howe in the consular service of the country has been phenomenal.

Since entering the service, being first stationed at Palermo, Sicily, he has served successively at Sheffield, Antwerp, Belgium; Montreal, Canada, and now goes to Manchester.

In each place he made a profoundly favorable impression with the men with whom he came in contact and was made honorary as well as active member of the most exclusive social clubs of those important cities. He succeeded in establishing for his government, with the citizens and the interests he had to deal, the most cordial relations, and his work has been productive of wonderful good to the nation at large in various places in which he has served.

With a gracious personality, a magnetism of individuality, and a fine physique, he combines the shrewdest business acumen, and the facts he has dug up in relation to the commercial and industrial methods of various countries, together with the sound advice he has been able to give to the merchants, manufacturers and farmers at home, has proved invaluable to those who have availed themselves of it. He has been recognized by his government as one of its most valuable men in the consular field, and every promotion that he has been given came without his solicitation and without effort on his part, other than his loyalty to duty, and the agreeable reports that came to his government, concerning him, from abroad.

His host of friends in this city, county and state are rejoiced to hear of his promotion, but regret to learn that it will again take him across the waters.—Auburn Republican.

Brownville Remains Dry

On Tuesday another hearing of the Brownville saloon case was held in Auburn, before District Judges Kelligar and Raper. Some time ago a man by the name of Martin was granted a saloon license in Brownville by the city council of that historic town. The remonstrators, with M. S. McIninch as their attorney, appealed to the district court. The decision was rendered by Judge Raper and was rendered by Judge Raper and was against the saloon petitioners on almost every point. We are informed by some who heard this opinion that in their opinion it will be impossible at any time to get license in Brownville if the case is watched as closely as this one has been. No further attempt will be made to get a license this year.

Attorney McIninch is being warmly praised by those opposed to saloons for the able manner in which he has handled this case, and is receiving hearty congratulations.
