

Our Clubbing List for 1888. The Herald offers the following clubbing rates to its patrons for the following year:

Additional Locals on fourth page. Today is the feast of unreason. Let us forget politics and enjoy today with the majority.

The preparation for the High school entertainment goes on bravely. Court business has progressed during the week with a large attendance.

Wm. Neville lays a new walk in front of his residence, which is a move in the right direction. "Munchausen, come down!" you are fairly beaten and the Journal man is entitled to your seat.

The Rockwood block is all plastered in the plate glass windows in place, and everything in readiness for finishing work. The business office of Morrissey Bros. is now located in the Union block with W. S. Wise. The firm had their location for a good one.

Subscribers to the Herald should see our clubbing list, and in their respective select some good paper in addition to the coming year. Nebraska stands seventh in the list of corn producing states in this year of extremes, when good crops and democratic victories meet.

The only turkey donated to the Herald was a crow; consequently our Thanksgiving dinner shall be beans and cod fish as usual. It is rumored that P. B. Murphy, Miles Morgan, Wheatley Mickelwait and Jake Lohme are candidates for the vacant office of Chief of Police.

Farmers have found the present fall an exceptionally good one for gathering their corn, and thus far no bad storms on stock have visited this section. The Cedar Creek school has commenced a fourth month's term with Frank Browne as teacher, whom we know to be a good scholar and a practical man.

The case of Reinbach vs B. & M. sor damage to property by right of way on Second street, was tried, and verdict of $500 damages rendered for plaintiff. The Missouri Pacific is doing a heavy southern freight business and a good deal of Cass county grain is finding for the first time this year a St. Louis market.

Mrs. L. M. Hayes visited yesterday last in Omaha. A. W. McLaughlin was up at Omaha last Tuesday. James M. Patterson was in Omaha Tuesday of this week.

Dr. R. H. Livingston at the Omaha medical college Saturday last. Miss Lena Marshall, of Lincoln, is visiting with Mrs. D. H. Wheeler this week.

Dr. W. S. Bieby came up from Wilbur and visited this city over Sunday last. William Durlin, agent for H. E. Buckle & Co., Chicago, was in the city Monday.

R. O. Fellows of the Auburn Post called at these newspaper headquarters on Monday. Miss Edie Styles, of Lincoln, is visiting with Miss Lena Levings during Thanksgiving.

If there is one thing above another that Plattsmouth really needs, it is a new court house. Will Chambers has been visiting relatives, friends and old acquaintances in Gloucest.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wilson are expected in this city soon, enroute for New York from Denver. Michael O'Connor left Tuesday morning for Denver, where he will work the coming winter.

Cashier McLaughlin returned from Chicago Monday after a week's absence on a business tour. Will and Charlie Giger came down from Omaha last Tuesday on a visit to their parents in this city.

V. H. Dyer, state agent Davis sewing machine, circulated in the city Friday last, going north Saturday. D. H. Myron and Frank Wheeler came down to their home city to witness the opening of the opera house.

Freeding Elder Jones held services with the M. E. church last Sabbath, returning to Lincoln Monday morning. Joe McCaig, of Elmwood, visited this city for the first time since election, on Monday. He is slowly recovering.

Hon. E. Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee, was in the city Tuesday evening, the guest of Joseph A. Connor, Esq. Dr. Butler, Harry Rao, Frank Barrett, Dr. Hall and others from Weeping Water were in the city the first of the week.

J. O. McLain, Esq., an enterprising farmer and stock raiser of Glendale made the Herald a pleasant call Wednesday. Deputy Sheriff McElwain, who has been out looking for Berden, the fraud, returned Monday and he brought his men.

U. S. Marshall Bierbower and J. G. Taylor of the B. & M. attended the opening of the new opera house, this city, Tuesday evening. A. B. Reigner, of Lincoln, state agent for the State Insurance Company, of Des Moines, Iowa, called at this office Wednesday.

J. D. Hurd, manager of the advertising department of the Nebraska State Journal, made the Herald office a pleasant call on Wednesday morning. The ladies of Lincoln have secured a house and have an organization, "The Home for the Friendless," which has been before and will be the coming winter a source of much good, and a substantial remembrance of the poor.

In Plattsmouth there has never been a winter to our knowledge that poverty and want has not been among us—sometimes needlessly, at other times through misfortune which comes to some, and which they find impossible to avoid—suffering always follows, and the suffering is in most cases among children who are unable to help themselves. Winters heretofore we have taken occasion to call attention to these facts, and through personal investigation we have found them true.

Dr. Schildknecht, during the time he was county physician, did no small amount of work in this most creditable cause, but it cannot be so well provided for in any way as by close attention from all; it is the whole public who see the many cases of want, and not the few. If some central place or organization for aid were had, the public could report cases of need and merit that came to their view, and the organization could give it attention. These hints are thrown out thus early in the winter for your consideration.

Grand Opera House. The mammoth Boston double Uncle Tom's Cabin Company took Cincinnati with a rush. The parade on the street yesterday, with donkeys, bloodhounds, and some of the principal people, attracted a great deal of attention, and is another evidence that the management understand bringing the merits of the troupe before the people. They opened at the Grand last night before a crowded house. There is little of the old or stale in the play. It comes in new dress, with all the important features doubled and improved. Taken all in all, it is the best Uncle Tom Company that has visited Cincinnati.

The donkeys and the bloodhounds are novel and attractive additions. The piece is put on in the best of style. The transformation scene is a grand spectacle. The company is strong in all the leading parts. The two Popsys and Eva won the praise of the audience. The lawyers and other people are all good in their characters. The jubilee singers are among the best which have visited Cincinnati. The audience showed its appreciation by frequent applause and a fair use of handkerchiefs in the more touching scenes.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Presbyterian social at Mr. Marshall's last Friday evening was largely attended, and a pleasant time enjoyed by those present. The Episcopal social held the evening before at Mr. James Pettus was pronounced one of the jolliest gatherings of the season.

The ladies of Lincoln give a Thanksgiving dinner to the poor and needy in that city, which is a move that the ladies of this city should follow. Court will not adjourn over Thanksgiving, but the jurors, judges, etc., will have their turkey taken to them.

Min-Burleigh in Othello Friday evening. Peter Mumm is putting in a new counter in his corner room preparatory to moving. Tuesday was a genuine sharp frosty day and the first good evidence that winter was upon us.

The gas was lit in the new opera house for the first time, on Monday evening and all worked first-class. S. C. Mayer has put in place a very handsome red and gold sign over the entrance to their new store room. W. J. Warrick has had four thousand bills printed of late for general distribution. He believes in printer's ink.

Major Wheeler made a peace offer of himself in good order the other evening during the disturbance on Main street. David Miller, tax collector for Plattsmouth city and precinct, is making the rounds these days calling on delinquents. A literary club, a lyceum or some similar organization would make pleasant social evenings this winter if once inaugurated.

Business in the city brightens up as the holiday season approaches and lively times for the next thirty days may be expected. Night yardmaster Place sustained a squeezing between two coaches the other evening, but fortunately no serious damage was done.

The present season is under Venora's prediction to be a very cold one, and consequently people will buy coal and enjoy a warm, open winter. John L. Burleigh appears as Othello and Geo. C. Miln as Iago in the rendition of Othello by the Min-Burleigh Co., at the Opera House Friday evening.

The T. A. M. club have made elaborate preparations for their invitation ball on Thursday evening, and a number of guests from Omaha, Lincoln and Glenwood will be present. The criminal calendar was taken up Tuesday morning. The case of State vs John Polin, under indictment for murder in the 1st degree, was taken up first, and the day occupied in securing a jury.

There is a constant demand for Cass county real estate and the Herald has answered two such inquiries the present week. The real estate market may be dull but it is from the fact that very little land is in the market. The grand jury adjourned last Friday night, and as predicted did some good work. If the inmates of different houses of ill-fame in this city had not fled there would have been some indictments found against them that would have closed them up in short order.

John McKeever, the first proprietor of the Perkins House, who made hosts of friends in this city, and who as mine host was an entire success with the traveling public, has been back to Plattsmouth the last week, and thinks it is the best town of the west and if he finds a chance he will stay with us.

THE HERALD acknowledges the receipt of complimentary for the T. A. M. Thanksgiving ball, which was directed to the care of the Postmaster, given if in its arrangements, cannot fail of being a success, and one of the brilliant events of the season.

EDITOR HERALD:—Will you please mention the fact that we are in need of a sidewalk on Fifth street between Vine and Main streets. Perhaps the powers that be" will look to the matter, at once. TEMPA.

Dr. Fishblatt, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in our columns, receives great praise from the press of Omaha, and is undoubtedly all that is claimed for him. A birthday party will be given by Miss Lena Levings on next Tuesday evening to the young people in the city who have been given cards of invitation.

A number in the audience at "Massachusetts" did not fail to recognize Mr. Guberson, who has appeared in this city heretofore with the Kendalls. T. A. M. neckties and kid gloves in evening shades at the Opera House Clothing Store. Joseph Ford has consolidated his two barber shops, bringing the one opposite the court house up under Carruth's, where he will hold forth hereafter. He has with himself three of the best barbers in the state. Call and see him.
