Mortar Spotted Skin.

Covered with Scales, Awful Spectacle. Cured in five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary cure your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body but thought nothing of it until 8 o'clock later on, when I began to look like a piece of mortar spotted with red, and which came off in layers accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales being formed underneath, were scratched off again. I then did I consulted all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After trying up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES and purchased them of my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scales gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one until I had been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. I know of a great many who have taken the CUTICURA and cured their heads and bodies. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby's.

MR. WILSON'S TWO COLUMNS.

A Frightful Railroad Accident, and a Showy Form Brings the News. "Mr. Wilson, how soon can you get ready to start for H—, Illinois?" "In an hour, sir."

This conversation took place in the office of The New York Chronicle one morning as the men on the staff came to receive their assignments. If the city editor had asked Wilson how soon he could get ready to start for Alaska he would have received precisely the same reply.

Edward Wilson hurried off to his rooms, and hastily packing a few necessities in a valise reported back at the office in exactly an hour.

"He was a paragon of a reporter," you will say. "this Wilson." But he was merely an ordinary city staff reporter, who, like thousands of others on the big dailies of America, stand ready at an hour's notice to start for any part of the world.

"This Illinois story will bring two columns, even if I'm recalled immediately," he mused, as he rattled up to the Grand Central station in a hansom: "two columns will bring my bank account up to $100, and $100 will bring the wife and little one to New York." Wilson thought with delight how happy they would be in his comfortable little Lexington avenue flat. It was a pleasant little day dream.

In fifteen minutes the Buffalo express, bearing the newspaper man to his destination, rushed snorting out of the Harlem tunnel like another earth bound Thor rejoicing at his freedom. Past the end of Manhattan Island, past Riverdale, Yonkers and all the lovely northern suburbs of the city, along the rolling Hudson, past the muddy Mohawk, then as night fell screaming past the little hamlets sleeping under the hills of central New York, and on, on, on, to the great lakes.

There was nothing in the car to interest Wilson, and as the sun sank behind the ripening wheat fields he dozed fitfully, and waking would sleep again, waking and sleeping by fitful starts and wondering what it was that kept him in a vague but all the more fearful terror. Finally he slept, and it was while he dreamed that a terrible accident happened. The trestle bridge over a swollen creek, weakened by the rush of waters, had given way under the advancing train and 900 people were hurled into the creek.

Three or four men hurriedly furnishing late "copy." A dozing office boy waking every few minutes to glance at the clock and long for 2 o'clock and freedom. The night desks littered with proof slips and "held over copy." No sound but the operator ticking "good night" to his far off brothers and an occasional shout of "Copy!" from the desk.

A tall figure in a caped overcoat and traveling cap enters the room, and silently walking up to the night desk lays some "copy" before the editor. The men in the office bending over their work do not see him pass; but the office boy, brushing his hat, yawns "Good morning, Mr. Wilson," but the form goes straight on.

"Can't use this, Mr. Wilson," says the editor, looking at the clock. "Why, it's 1:50. The paper's going to press. What is it anyway?"

"Yes, by George, we will run it," he continues excitedly. "Jim, stop the presses." Then to the operator, "Have you an accident on the New York and Buffalo yet?"

"No, sir."

"How did you get it, Wilson?" But the form had gone.

"My God! listen to this," says the sub-editor. "The accident must have occurred at 1:50 exactly. Among the dead was Edward Wilson, a reporter on The New York Morning Chronicle. What was it then that brought this 'copy' in?"

"I don't know," replied the editor in a hushed voice. "Send the story up just as it is. It runs exactly two columns." —New York Tribune.

The Utility of Uniform Divorce Laws. The cry has been for several years for United States interference in divorce legislation by means of uniform marriage laws throughout the country, the assumption being that people troop back and forth from one state to another and get divorces for causes which would not be sufficient in their own states. But all this has been effectually disposed of by the recent masterly report of the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, the United States commissioner of labor. He has shown that more than 80 per cent. of all divorces are procured in the states in which the couples were married. As regards the remaining 20 per cent. the parties, in very many instances, had immigrated to other states after marriage and become bona fide residents, with no thought of divorce. So that the number of those proved to have gone to other states for the purpose of securing divorces is probably much less than 10 per cent. of the whole. It is apparent then that uniform laws can no longer be looked upon as a panacea.—Rev. M. J. Savage in Forum.

Eagles in Massachusetts. The American eagle is still a resident of Cheshire. A fine specimen is often seen sitting on a stump in the reservoir, waiting for fish. It is probable that the family home is somewhere on the cliffs of the rocky hill west of the reservoir. So frequent are the visits of these birds to the reservoir that regular travelers on the trains watch for them, and feel a disappointment if the white head and noble form of the American bird is not seen on some stump.—Pittsfield (Mass.) Eagle.

The rolling of cold steel wire is now accomplished with ease, and instead of the wire becoming weakened by the process practical tests have demonstrated that its tensile strength is nearly doubled. In other words, the tensile strength of hot drawn steel wire is 56,480 pounds to the square inch, while that of cold rolled steel wire is 105,800 pounds.

And Then Buy A Home in South Park.

Do not be caught in the delusion of many thousands in postponing a home until they can have an expensive one. This idea is the devil's trap that catches men and women innumerable, who will never have any at all. The laborer may have, at the close of the day, to walk or ride farther than is desirable to reach it but when he gets to his destination in the eventide he will find something worthy of being called by that glorious and impassioned, and heaven descended word, "Home."

Young married man, as soon as you can buy such a place, even if you have to put on it a mortgage reaching from base to capstone. The much abused mortgage which is ruin to the reckless man, to one prudent and provident is the beginning of a competency and a fortune, for the reason he will not be satisfied until he has paid it off, and all the household are put on strictest economy until then. Deny yourself all superfluities and all luxuries until you can say: "Everything in this house is mine thank God!—every timber, every brick every foot of plumbing, every doorsill." Do not have children born in a bearding house, and do not yourself be buried from one. Have a place where your children can shout and sing and romp and not be overhauled for the racket. Have a kitchen where you can do something toward the reformation of evil cookery and the lessening of this nation of despectics. As Napoleon lost one of his great battles by an attacked of indigestion, so many men have such a daily wrestle with the food swallowed that they have no strength left for the battle of life; and though your wife may know how to play all musical instruments and rival a prima dona, she is not well educated unless she can boil an Irish potato and broil a mutton chop, since the die sometimes decides the fate of families and nations.

Have a setting room with at least one easy chair, even though you have to take turns at sitting in it, and books out of the public library, or of your own purchase for the making of your family intelligent, and checker boards and guessing matches, with an occasional blind man's bluff, which is of all games my favorite. Rouse up your homes with all styles of innocent amusement, and gather up in your children's lives a reservoir of exuberance that will pour down refreshing streams when life gets parched and the dark days come and the lights go out and the laughter is smothered into a sob.—T. De Witt Talmage.
