

PLATTSMOUTH is bound to grow.

BOIES says he will play second fiddle to no man on earth.

THE democrats are preparing to have a real circus at Chicago next week.

SIXTH street, between Pearl and Vine, is bound to be paved. Let the good work go on.

THE Boies boomers do not propose to let him take second place. He must have first place or none.

TEN thousand democrats are going to Chicago from Iowa to try and create a little enthusiasm for Boies.

MAJOR MCKINLEY'S vote against McKinley and for Harrison will become historic. New York Tribune.

THE inauguration of President Harrison next March will be worth going all the way to Washington to see.

PLATTSMOUTH was represented in the advertising man last fall and she will be represented again this summer.

THIS is great weather for the farmers and their corn. In fact it is good weather for anything but a democrat.

THE Chicago papers are advertising that there will be more funny clowns and monkeys in Chicago than ever before.

HURRAH for the Fourth of July! We are going to celebrate the glorious day right here in Plattsmouth and no mistake about it.

THE reports that come in from all over the county say that the crops are in a fine condition and that the corn yield will be as large as last year.

THE present administration has had an unusual number of difficult problems to solve, and in every instance the final result has been advantageous to this country.

THE editor of this paper was in Weeping Water yesterday and heard a number of the citizens of that town say they were coming to Plattsmouth on the Fourth.

THERE is no disguising the fact that the democratic papers are all dissatisfied with the fact that Blaine was defeated, for now they cannot release his private affairs.

THERE is no better town in the state than Plattsmouth and our citizens are beginning to find it out. All that we need is a little more advertising and she is going to have it.

THE NEW METHODS

Every hour that brings the activities of the campaign nearer lends weight to Dr. Depeck's prophetic declaration that it will be one of "new methods." The traditions of the republican party are transcendently glorious, but no party can live on the glory of the past. The true purpose of past glory is to inspire those who achieved it to new efforts.

The mission of the republican party is an eternal one. The party may perish, the mission will endure. For the party was made strong out of weakness, supply and only by devoting itself to the mission of humanity. It has freed a race from bondage, it has endowed all native American citizens of America with right and making the laws of this republic. It must endow them with the power as well as with the right, and then the first and second great purposes of the party will be fulfilled.

But new progress, we out of the best mission of the party. Race slavery, his slaves to exist, class struggle, and not be permitted to take root, no better class of laborers must be born on the soil of this nation. In the eyes of today, the material world must be lifted from its present lowly condition. Every American man, woman and child should be able to do the best that he can do for himself, according to the measure of his ability.

That this may be achieved it is necessary that education be secured for all, for an ignorant body of laborers generally is a herd, a body of laborers. It is necessary also that the pay of labor be good. For a poverty-stricken class of laborers generally is a herd, a body of laborers. The American wages may be good, it is needed to protect the American laborer from having his work placed in unprotected competition with the work of the European laborer. Hence the republican party resolves in favor of protection to American industries, and one of the "new methods" of this campaign will be education as to the "new methods" of protection.

But a law school has been placed within the reach of every American child, and after they pay for good work has been placed within the reach of every American man, another form of protection is needed. It is against trusts and combines.

Protection by legislation against trusts, should have the wage earner neither shall have to pay an unduly high price for what he buys with his wages, nor shall be prevented by gigantic combinations of capital from employing his savings in small investment. The path from the rank of employed to that of employer must be kept free from artificial obstructions.

An exposition of the humanitarian tendency of political economy under republican interpretation must be one of the "new methods" of this campaign.—The New Ocean

There is a called meeting of the W. C. T. U. Wednesday, June 22, at the residence of Mrs. S. A. Davis. Oh, I think the women of this country are engaged in a noble work. They are co-workers with those women in other parts of the globe wherever the English language is spoken, who are working in this cause, and I would say to you— God bless you, sisters in the light. You are saving now we cannot fall. Oh, struggle is our sense of right. Then Error's tripod can't stay. The struggle is now an onward march. By every word and every deed, The voice of nature and of God, Spoken not upon your side.

We have been asked the origin of the motto of the world's W. C. T. U. "For God and Home and Every Land." Great minds are apt to act in concert, but so far as we know his name was suggested by some of our Michigan white-ribboners who sought to find a motto analogous to the one we already had, and it was moved in the Minneapolis convention by Mrs. Benjamin that we suggest this as the motto of the world's W. C. T. U., which was done by vote in 1886.

This was to be the first of a series of entertainments with the two-fold object of establishing a branch of the W. C. T. U. in Eddyville, and of fighting the saloon that is trying so hard to find an entrance. Success to the undertaking!

University extension is having a mighty boom in these days and gospel extension is also getting a little under way. Sometimes we hear that the churches do not reach the people, the pastors talk to the same set the year around, while the mass passes by. There is much truth in this, and some of our more progressive pastors have adapted the plan of theatre preaching and put door seats in. The Crusade taught us the lesson that Mohammed must go to the mountain. From the saloon drinking men followed the crusader to the church, which were in those days kept open like gates of gospel grace from morn until eve. Temperance meetings are now held in every part of Christendom at all hours and in most unaccustomed places—the depot waiting room is one of the best rendezvous, the blacksmith shop, the rink in summer the band stand and the broad shore. Whatever you do not undertake, we urge you, sisters of the local unions, to establish and maintain these blessed, free-hearted, open handed gatherings for the people, "the great humanity that beats its life along the stony street."

At a temperance meeting an honest German was asked to speak and after some hesitation did so in the following exhaustive manner: "I shall tell you how it was. I put my hand on my head, there was one big pain. Then I put my hand in my pocket, and there was nothing. Now there is no more pain in my head. I put my hands in my pockets, and there is twenty pounds. So I shall stay with temperance."
