THE FLAG ON THE SCHOOL-HOUSE.

I rejoice in nothing more than in this movement recently so prominently developed of placing the starry banner above every schoolhouse, I have been charged with too sentimental an appreciation of the flag. I will not enter upon any defense, God pity the American citizen who does not love it, who does not see in it the story of our great free institutions and the hope of the home as well as of the nation, and I think, notwithstanding perhaps a little too much tendency to much about politics, but I do see note in our public schools, that it is still true that our teachers, and especially the women, are not without ver' is to raise the price of that sentiment.-President Harrison at metal by putting government Saratoga.

great, the same fondness for the merely spectacular, the same insensibility to repulsive details, the same indifference to the probable or even to the natural, the some leaning toward the grotesque, the same love of effect at whatever cost; and there is also the same impressive ness of result. Whatever other effect Webster may produce upon us, he never leaves us indifferent. We may blame, we may criticise, as much as we will; we may say that all this ghastliness is but a trick of theatrical blue-light; we shudder, and admire nevertheless. We may say that he is inclodramatic, that his tigures are magic-lantern pictures that wave and change shape with the curtain on which they are thrown; it matters not, he stirs us with an emotion deeper than any mere artifice could stir.-From "Webster," by James Russell Lowell, in Harper's Magazine for August.

The great commercial countries of the world are nearer to adopting silver and gold jointly as money metals than they have been since the use of silver was abolished by the Latin union. And it is through the agency of the republican party of rents and guardians desirous o the United States. It is through the efforts of a republican president that there is to be an international silver conference, looking to the use of both metals. It was through the legislation of a repulican congress (the Sherman law) that the total product of the American mines is now represented in the circulation of the country, each dollar of circulation being represented by a dollar's worth of silver at the value in the world's markets. The only difference a free coinage law would make would be to put some thirty cents into the pockets of the silver mine owners for every silver dollar coined. The republican party is the true friend of bi-metallism.
