A little case of petit larceny occurred at Bennett & Lewis store this morning that created a great deal of indignation for a time as the perpetrator of the bold deed was seen by several parties making way with the, goods and yet no arrests were made, al hough a n ember of our police force stood not half a block away when the thief skipped out with the stolen property. A HERALD reporter, indignant that the fair name of our city should be clouded by so fiagrant a violation of our laws and the non punishment of the offender, investigated the matter and found the property stelen was a ten pound chunk of choice dried beef and that "Dandy" Livingston, the Doctors favorite setter was the

In our notice of losses sustained by visitors to the state fair last week, we failed to note the disappearance of $20 from the pocket of our friend, Wm. Pierce, which occurred in this way:he had safely seated himself in the coach on his way home, when two or three well dressed fellows attempted to couple the bell cord, which seemed to be in a hopeless tangle. They crowded and jostled around him for a few mioutes when they got it fixed, and a half an hour afterward Mr. Pierce found he had been fixed too by the taking of $20 which he had carried in an incide breast pocket to his vest. The slick ruscals could not be found, and Mr. Pierce returned home $20 wiser as well as poorer.
