THE LEONARD MURDER.

Murray and Eastwood Released After a Suspected Man.

On the Trail.

Since yesterday morning the officers have been looking for the light haired man whom Murray claimed was with Leonard, the murdered man, when he left him at the corner of Seventh and Main streets. It was learned that the man had gone down the Beatrice road toward Minersville. This morning a News reporter met John J. Carskadon, who resides about one mile northwest of Minersville, and from him we learn that a rather suspicious looking character and about answering the description of the man wanted for the murder, took breakfast at his house yesterday morning, shortly after sunrise. He wore a dark frock coat with a tear on the left shoulder in the back; had on an old brown hat that was bleached and wore one boot and a low cut shoe which was rather narrow. He was about five foot ten inches in height, near twenty-eight years of age, light complexion and light moustache. He seemed nervous while eating his meal; broached the subject of the murder, and said the officers had caught all the murderers but one; that if the deed had been done in Texas a man would have but to get nineteen or twenty miles away from the scene of the murder and they were never bothered. Mr. Carskadon did not think anything strange of the man's actions until afterward. This same man sat dinner at Mr. Church's, about two miles below Mr. Carskadon's, and is evidently hanging around in the timber on the bluff in that vicinity. He had no money with which to pay for the meals given him.

Mr. A. Butler, who resides near Minersville informed a News reporter that one of his neighbors had told him this morning that the man had been traced to the bluff's several miles below that place, and the timber in which he is supposed to be concealed was surrounded by a large number of farmers, who expect to capture him before the day is over.

Of course, this man may not prove to be the murderer, but as he left this city under suspicious circumstances, and has acted strangely since, it is thought best to arrest him and have a thorough examination.

Seven or eight men, well mounted, left for the vicinity of Minersville this morning to assist in the search for this man, and the party is composed of some men who will follow the trail as long as there is any hope of capturing the suspected party.

CORONER'S JURY.

The coroner's jury met again this morning, and after considerable discussion, it was thought best to adjourn subject to the call of the coroner, so as to give the officers more time in which to follow up the "pointers" that they now have, and if possible to bring in some new evidence.

MURRAY AND EASTWOOD RELEASED.

After the coroner's jury had adjourned this morning, it was thought best to release Mike Murray and old man Eastwood, who had been arrested on suspicion and held as witnesses, as there had been no evidence against them sufficient to warrant their being held.

THE REWARD.

The governor has issued a reward of $200 for the capture of the murderers, and the county commissioners, through the sheriff, offer an additional reward of $300, making in all $500, which is offered for their arrest and conviction. This will no doubt stimulate a great many to work up this matter.—Neb. City News.

Firemen's Tournament.

The fire laddies are posting up their bills, and making various preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament which takes place here in Omaha, July 23d, and lasts three days. The prizes offered amount to $1,900 and are divided among the various departments of the fire service, such as the hose cart races, hook and ladder races, and engine contests, coupling matches, etc. There will also be a grand reception at which speeches are expected from Mayor Chase, ex-Mayor Boyd, Hon. J. C. Cowin and others. The workings of Omaha waterworks are to be exhibited and everything possible done to make it an interesting occasion.—Omaha Dispatch.

COLE'S CIRCUS.

The Great Show Pronounced a Grand Success at St. Joe.

It is a cold day in St. Joseph when Cole's circus and menagerie fails to draw together 20,000 people. Other showmen give their little entertainments and proclaim their wonderful attractions, but it is left to Mr. Cole to lead the procession and draw more people, and take away more money with him than all the other shows combined.

Yesterday opened dismal and gloomy. At early morn a cold, drizzling rain began to fall, and continued up to 3 p. m. But even such weather was insufficient to chill the ardor of the people to see the great show. They came from the suburb, the workshop, the counting room and the farm, literally thronging, early in the day, every street and avenue in the city, from which the grand cavalcade could be seen. They came with their sweethearts, their wives, their sisters, their cousins and their aunts. The parade was universally pronounced the grandest ever witnessed in this city, and this fact led to the anticipation that the performance would surpass anything in the history of the circus, hence the vast crowds from the city and country literally jammed the largest tent on earth to its utmost capacity at the afternoon performance and at night, so enthusiastic were those who had witnessed the day performance in its usual standing room was at a premium, and hundreds were actually turned away. This statement is not herein written and published as an advertisement of W. W. Cole, but it is a plain, unvarnished statement of fact that will be endorsed by every man, woman, and child who witnessed yesterday's entertainments.

Not the least attractive feature of Cole's show is his menagerie, being not only the largest collection of living animals ever witnessed here, but they are large and handsome specimens. While each cage presented objects of admiration, Sampson, the great elephant, and George Conklin with his performing lions, elicited special admiration.—St. Joe Gazette.
