Call for Republican Judicial Convention.

The republican electors of the second Judicial District of Nebraska are requested to meet in convention at Plattsmonth, Tuesday, August 19, 1884, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for District Attorney, selecting a central committee and such other business as may properly come before the convention. The several counties are entitled to representation as follows, being based upon the vote cast for J. M. Blair, regent of the university, giving one delegate at large, and one for every one hundred and fifty votes and major fraction thereof: Lancaster county 13
Cass county 11
Total 24

It is recommended that no proxies be admitted to the convention unless held by persons residing in the counties from which the proxies are given.

AN INDEPENDENT KID.

An Independent kid becoming wroth because he could not have all the Pie he wanted one day, came to his Father and said:

"O father dear, behold me here,
I'll never more be good!

I'll go and be a bolter fierce,
And live in the dreary wood.

Accordingly he bolted and coming to the Dreary Wood, fell in with the democratic Tiger.

"Are you in favor of Free Trade and of Civil Service Reform?" said the Kid.

"Just look at my Platform and See," said the Tiger.

While the Kid was looking at the Platform the Tiger jumped upon him and swallowed him down in one Swallow.

Soon after the Father came out to hunt the Kid, and seeing the Democratic Tiger, shot him in the Stomach. The Kid being in the Stomach got peppered too.

This fable teaches us that the Independent Kids are not so wise as their Grand Old Pa.—Denver Tribune.

MRS. HURD'S NIECE.

By Ella Farman. The Young Folks Library. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price 25 cents. This fascinating story one of the best from the authors, pretentious pen, will find a multitude of earnest and appreciative readers. It draws a sharp contrast between genuine practical religion and its fashionable substitute, and shows the hollowness of a life not based upon sound principle. The character of Lois Gladstone is clearly and effectively drawn, and the story of her experience in the Hurd household with the changes brought about in it through her quiet but persistent influence, is told with skill and feeling. There is hardly a page without its suggestive passage, and we know of few books which contain so much that is really helpful to young girls placed in position where self-control, moral courage and self-sacrifice are required.

MAJ. J. K. MORLEY deputy Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings, is very flatteringly mentioned in several of our exchanges for the shoes of Mr. Glen Kendall. Major Morley has been deputy in this department since the year 1877; his duties during the past two years being confined exclusively to drafting the deeds and contracts of the Land Office. Major Morley is a competent, methodical, painstaking official, and his long experience in the commissioner's office would undoubtedly add greatly to his natural qualifications for the discharge of the very important duties of that very important office, and should it turn out that Mr. Glen Kendall's administration of this department has been all that it ought to be, we can see many good reasons—civil service as well as others—why the Major ought to succeed his chief.

STILL ANOTHER.

Mr. O'Donahoe Gives His Reasons.

Editor Western Celt:

I have watched with much interest the tactics of both political parties since the nomination of Blaine and Cleveland. I have also glanced through the pages of history since the days of Washington, and never has either party—I care not what name they went by—appeared in its true light till now.

At other times a cloud would appear to impair the vision as to the ultimate design of either party; but now the mask is thrown off, and we behold each party in its true light. The issue now is, what influence England can have in the affairs of this great and glorious republic.

The democratic party of today courts the friendship of England and her free trade policy. The republican party says, "Hands off, Johnny Bull, we know how to regulate our own affairs, without your intermeddling. If in the course of events we think that free trade will benefit us, we will have it without your say-so." This is the right spirit, and the spirit that should animate the breast of every American citizen.

England interfered with the regulation of our affairs in 1776, 1812, and in 1862, and every time she tried to make us yield to the British yoke. All her leading journals of today are advocating the election of Cleveland, and her Cobden club will send thousands of pounds to this country in order to secure his election. These same journals and club sent thousands of pounds to help the South during the rebellion, and arms and ammunition to equip the Alabama and other southern cruisers. They had their English Derby-hound ready near the coast of France, to protect Captain Semmes when the ship Alabama, was sunk by the Kearsage.

Can any true American, and more especially an Irish-American, support the English candidate? I emphatically say, no—unless he becomes recreant to every principle of humanity and honesty. Vote, I say, for America's candidate, James G. Blaine, and give him such an overwhelming majority in November that the Cobden club and its confederates will be buried out of sight forever and ever. Then democracy may be purified.

M. O'DONAHOE.

THE North Platte Nebraskan changed from a republican to a democratic paper and less than three days there after the office was struck by lightning. The way of the transgressor is hard.—[Hastings Journal.]
