BORROWED AND STOLEN.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The Palladium of Our Liberties Was Framed in Philadelphia.

Representatives From All Parts of the Union and Foreign Representatives Take Part.

A Monster Parade—The City Completely Packed—Incidents of the Day.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 15.—The last centennial of events of the revolutionary times began this morning. If there is one thing, more than another, for which the 2,500,000 people who are temporarily residents of this city are thankful, it is the weather. With a clear sky, the day so far gives promise of being every thing that could be wished for. In all directions as far the eye can reach, the streets are a mass of bunting and decorations.

A SCENE OF GRANDEUR.

The monster civic and industrial parade, illustrating the advancement of industrial arts and science during the last century, it is believed, fairly eclipsed anything of the kind ever known. There were in line 300 floats, each bearing a representation of some particular branch of industry, 12,000 men, 3,000 horses, and 150 bands of music. At the head of the column rode Col. Lowden, chief marshal, and his staff of military and naval officers and two trumpeters. Among the floats of the first division, were a beautiful temple, handsomely decorated, with thirty-eight ladies at the portal, representing the states in the union, "Uncle Sam," the Goddess of Liberty and the thirteen original states, represented by daughters of America in costume, and a float on which stood representations of the school houses of a century ago and those of to-day, surrounded by school children. The remainder of the division was made up of national and state officers, including national and state executives, committees in full regalia and visiting camps of sons of America. The second division was made up by the carpenters' company, of Philadelphia, which antedates all other associations.

The majority of the remaining floats represented various industries; among them was a display showing the progress in the modes of traveling from the revolutionary era to the present time by land and water. The United States mint had an interesting exhibit. The government naval display included a model of the first steamer which crossed the Atlantic, a model of the United States man-of-war Hartford, models of the new cruisers, many kinds of naval guns, and a display of life-saving apparatus.

The third, fourth, fifth and sixth divisions were given up to industrial and educational exhibits.

SCENE FROM THE GRAND STAND.

The scene from the grand reviewing stand, situated opposite the Union league club house, on Broad street, was grand. There were sixteen telegraph stations along the route of parade, which were established for the purpose of communicating from one end of the line to the other, and just as a telegram flashed over the wires announcing that the pageant had started from Broad and Dauphin streets at 10:25, Governor Beaver rode by in his carriage, and was greeted with a hearty round of applause. The head of the procession, headed by a cordon of mounted police, reached the city hall, at Broad and Market streets at 11 a. m., and proceeded around the west side of the city hall and on past the grand receiving stand at Walnut street.

MAGNITUDE OF THE PROCESSION.

To give an idea of the enormous proportions of the industrial pageant, it may be stated that at twenty minutes past 2 o'clock, only seven of the twenty-three divisions had passed by the reviewing stand, and by the time the seventh division had passed southward, the head of the column had arrived on their counter-march, having traveled twenty-three miles south of Market street. The march was made without any casualties, further than that an unknown man dropped dead near Chestnut street presumably from heart disease, and a little girl was somewhat injured in the crowd. Among the governors occupying seats on the reviewing stand, were Larrabee, of Iowa; Beaver, of Pennsylvania; Hughes, of Arkansas; Buckner, of Kentucky; Thayer, of Nebraska; Penoyer, of Oregon; Wilson, of West Virginia; Forsaker, of Ohio; and Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia. At sunrise this morning the United States war vessels anchored in the Delaware river began their celebration. A salute of thirteen guns was fired from each of them. All of these vessels are handsomely decorated with bunting and flags, and to-night they are illuminated with Chinese lanterns. Beautiful pyrotechnic displays were made from all vessels in the harbor this evening. President Cleveland and party arrived here to-night, and were at once driven to the Lafayette hotel.

RECEIVING THE PRESIDENT.

The end of the procession did not reach the city hall until 6:30, and returning north arrived at Broad and Chestnut streets at 7:30. Not a single fatal accident occurred. The president's party, consisting of the president, Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary Bayard, and Colonel and Mrs. Lament, left Washington at 4 this afternoon, in charge of Maj. J. M. Carson. A hot journal, before reaching Baltimore, delayed the train twenty minutes, which was not made up during the journey. At Baltimore a large crowd collected around the station and cheered for the president, but the latter did not show himself. At Wilmington there was a big demonstration, the immense crowd cheering for the president. He finally appeared in company with Mrs. Cleveland on the platform, and bowed his acknowledgments. At Wilmington the presidential party was met by the Philadelphia reception committee, and escorted to Philadelphia. The party landed at Thirty-second and Market streets, where the city troops were waiting, and under their escort they were driven to the Lafayette hotel. Here an immense assembly gathered anticipating a reception. In answer to repeated calls and cheers the president and Mrs. Cleveland appeared on the balcony and bowed their acknowledgments amidst tremendous cheers.

The Haddock Murder Case.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—The defense in the Haddock murder case rested this morning immediately after the opening of court, and the state occupied two hours with rebutting testimony. Then both sides rested finally. This afternoon the legal points in the case were argued before the court. The address of counsel to the jury began an hour before adjournment in the evening.

McGargle Located.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15.—There are rumors current in this city to the effect that McGargle, the Chicago boodler, has been seen and recognized at Harrisburg, a town in western Ontario. City detectives state that they can put their hands on him when he is required. All they want is a warrant and a reward. They confirm the rumor that he has been seen in western Ontario and say that he has been living in a small out of the way town ever since he left St. Catherine's and that they have been cognizant of the fact.

Yacht Race Postponed.

New York, Sept. 15.—The Volunteer and the Mayflower were towed from Bay Ridge this morning to a point outside Sandy Hook in the hope that a race could be accomplished. After the boats got within two miles of the Scotland lightship from which point the race was to have been sailed, they dropped the tug. This was 10 a. m. The yachts waited near the starting point until 3 o'clock for a breeze, and finding none the judges postponed the race until tomorrow when the race will be sailed if there is wind enough.

Chicago Races.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 15.—First race, three-quarters mile—Bill Streit won, Fred. Wooley second, Vivian third. Time, 1:16.
Second race, one mile—Glen Hall won, Hopedale second, Probus third. Time, 1:44.
Third, race seven furlongs—Annie Hip-one won, Allie second, Comet third. Time, 1:33.
Fourth race, one mile and fifty yards—Alfred won, Ira E. Bride second, Vic Regent third. Time, 1:47.
Fifth race, six furlongs—Phil Lewis won, Juna second, Belle K. third. Time 1:17.

STILL STRUGGLING.

The Anarchists Using Every Effort to Save Themselves.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 15.—The condemned anarchists spent the day much as usual, and had the ordinary run of visitors. The men do not seem affected in the least by the result of their case, as announced yesterday. A representative German paper of this city, the Illinois

State Zeitung which has hitherto favored the execution of the anarchists, came out today in an editorial favoring a commutation of their sentence. The defense committee is making strenuous efforts to raise the funds necessary to carry the case to the court of last resort, if it can be done. One of the socialistic leaders went east this evening to retain eminent counsel. It is reported that they will try to get Benjamin F. Butler or Roger A. Pryor.

That Bad Umpire.

Omaha Man—You fellows have lost another game, I see.
Omaha Baseballist—Yes, but it was all an account of unfavorable decisions by the umpire.
"Well, that's not so discouraging. What was the score?"
"Seventeen to nothing."—Omaha World.

Victoria's Earliest Letter.

Lady Seton has and takes great pride in showing to all her visitors at Durham house probably the earliest autograph letter of Queen Victoria in existence. It is in childish print characters and runs thus: "How do you do, my dear Sir Henry! Your wife's friend, Victoria." It was addressed to Sir Henry Seton.—Chicago Herald.

Bohemian Glass Ornamentation.

The ornamentation of the glass is done partly in connection with the exposure in the furnace, and partly in the finishing shops, where the work is completed by cutting, polishing, tarnishing, etching, painting and mounting in metal. The glass houses have at their command a very complete color scale for transparent, opaque and slotted glasses. But it must not be supposed that a crucible is placed in the furnace for each color, from which glass colored for each ornament is to be made. The colors are worked out by means of what are called pastes, previously warmed until they are soft, suitable quantities are cut off, laid upon the oxidation of white colored glass, and then spread out by drawing or blowing. By this means only is an economical use of such costly materials as gold and silver compositions possible.

Some of the glasses thus treated—gold, copper and silver glasses—remain still little, or not at all, colored after the melting, shaping and quick cooling; and do not take on their bright hues till they are reheated. This is the case with the yellow silver glass, which continues uncolored after the intermelting of the silver salts until it is exposed in the furnace again. Very fine effects are produced by blending or overrunning of the paste colors, provided proper attention is given to the laws of harmony. A blue glass cup is, for example, overlaid with silver glass at its upper edge, and this is drawn down in gradually thinner tones till it fades away at the foot of the vase. Gold and copper ruby colors are thus combined with green glasses, etc. Another brilliant effect is produced when a still hot bulb of glass is rolled in finely pulverized aventurine glass, and after this is melted, and previous to the shaping of the vessel, is overlaid with a coating of either colored or colorless glass.—Christian at Work.

Sunshine in All Rooms.

A sanitary engineer suggests the importance of building on streets running northwest and southeast, or northeast and southwest. Sunshine in all rooms is some time in the year can be insured, with great gain in healthfulness.—Arkansas Traveler.

Mr. POWDERLY states that in his next annual message to the Knights of Labor he will advocate government ownership of all the telegraph and railroad lines in the country. That is to say, he will propose to do away with a number of separate monopolies by combining them all into a single comprehensive and stupendous one, to be controlled and operated by political instead of business agencies and influences. It is greatly to be feared that Mr. Powderly does not grow wiser as he grows older.—Globe Dem.
