—“After Dark,” don't fail to go.

—The last night of the Stuart Co.

—Mrs. Lilah Stuart was taken sick after the performance last night with laryngitis or affection of the larynx. A physician was summoned. The lady is improving today.

—The Y. L. R. R. A. are preparing to give a target social at the G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 28. This is a new and novel entertainment. A prize will be given to the best marksman. Come and try your luck.

—Mr. McHugh, a manufacturer of Malvern, Iowa, will shortly remove to this city and renovate the old foundry on Washington avenue, which he intends to occupy, and employ a large number of men. Full particulars in next Monday's issue.

—The point where the coldest temperature on earth has been observed has been dignified by the name of the Pole of Cold. It is located to the east of the river Lena in Siberia. There, at Verchojansk, the Russian government has established an observatory. The poor weather man out there reported in December one year 85° below zero and in December, and January, 1885, as much as 90° and 98° below.

—At the gates of a smoldering land, I stand, and bask in its sulpherous glow, and I beckon the spirit with welcoming hand, to this region of torture below. The chump who deserts the town of his birth to boom up a place far away; who'd never invest in his own city's earth for fear the more would not pay, who groans at the evil that held down his town and never would squander his tin, as sure as I'm living he's wandering down, 'I'll gather, I'll gather him in."

—N. A. S. E., No. 1, of Nebraska, met in their hall at Omaha last night and passed resolutions to establish a mechanical library. The members formed themselves into a joint committee to raise what they could in the way of books and money toward the movement, but prior to the meeting $200 had in this way been secured. The members of the lodge will surely meet with success and the library will be open to the use of any for a small fee. A special meeting will be held soon for which over 300 invitations will be sent out over the state to steam users.

—“One gallon of whisky costs about three dollars, and contains on the average sixty-five ten-cent drinks. Now, if you must drink whisky, buy a gallon and make your wife the bar-tender; then, when you are dry, give her ten cents for a drink. When the whisky is gone she will have, after paying for it, three dollars and fifty cents left, and every gallon thereafter will yield the same profit. This money should be put away in the savings bank, so that when you have become an inebriate, your wife may have money enough to keep you, until your time comes to ‘snuff out.’”

—Electricity is about to be put to a new use. The emptying of the sewerage of London (Eng.) into the river Thames has necessarily polluted the river; and, in searching for some means of preventing this pollution, it has been discovered that electricity transmitted into the sewage produces the equivalent of a chemical change. The electric current sets the particles of matter in a circulatory motion, and the result is that the organic matter collects at the top in a semi-solid form, so that it can easily be separated from the transparent fluid beneath. The experiments have so far been conducted on a limited scale, but if the plan should prove to be a cheap and practicable one, it would go far toward solving a problem that agitates every large city in the world.

Kate Castleton's Husband.

“What does this trouble amount to?” was asked of Mr. Harry Phelps, husband and manager of Miss Kate Castleton, who was made defendant last Monday in a suit for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court in Chicago.

“O, it's all settled,” replied Mr. Phelps. He was standing in the foyer of the Haymarket Theatre, where his wife was appearing in the farce called “Crazy Patch.” “It doesn't amount to anything,” he continued, “or you may be sure I would not be here. I would close the show up at once: It was only a domestic quarrel, and to frighten me she instructed her lawyer, Mr. Rice who is stopping at our hotel, the Tremont to begin suit for separate maintenance. That is absurd, for she has separate maintenance already. We have made up and will go home together in the carriage tonight.”

“And what was the occasion of the disagreement?”

“I became a little too gay,” frankly admitted Mr. Phelps, “and she got hot and wanted to give me a lesson.”

“Which you deserved?”

“Well, yes—rather.”

Miss Castleton was averse to talking, but it is understood that she described her woes to a few sympathizers during the day. Her husband was good to her she explained, an excellent manager, and devoted to her interests. It was only when he became suddenly exhilarated that they quarrelled, and her object in filing the papers was to forbid him her apartments while in that condition. To a reporter she said: “Mr. Phelps is attentive. He will not leave me a half an hour all the day long. Then he will say: ‘Jenny, I believe I'll go down and get a cigar.’ He will go down and be gone about ten minutes and come back drunk. There is not the least bit of trouble between us. I simply want the privilege of ruling my own room. We will not separate and do not want to separate. Mr. Phelps will continue to be my manager and my husband.”

In the complaint Miss Castleton, who gives her name as Jennie E. Phelps, represents that she married May 15, 1884, to Isidore P. Phelps, but that on account of his intoxication she separated from him Feb. 19, 1888. She instances several dates, the latest being the present month.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

John Valley is in town to-day visiting old friends. He will return to Omaha Monday.

Mr. Creamer of Callon was in town to-day and renewed his yearly subscription for THE HERALD.

Dr. John Black leaves for Denver in the morning, on account of the severe illness of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Willey Black, who went to that city with her husband hoping to recruit her health.

M. E. Church.

Rev. H. Burch will occupy the pulpit at the M. E. church tomorrow. The older people of Plattsmouth will no doubt be interested in hearing him, as he is one of the oldest ministers in the state, and is probably the man who organized the first Methodist society in the city.

—“Man inhumanity to man” was reversed this morning at 9:15 at Omaha. An elderly lady was passing from the U. P. depot to that of the B. & M. She was leading three children and had a young baby in her arms. While crossing the road she fell down and hurt herself and child very seriously and in a manner that required feminine assistance. Our reporter, with other men assisted the woman in the B. & M. ladies' sitting room, in which there were a number of well-dressed females sitting, who, when they noticed the poorly-clad woman, immediately left the room. The men were helpless to assist further and as the train pulled out the injured woman and crying children were left alone.

—Will Boeck and Miss Pauline Kihlonic will be married in the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 9 a. m. Immediately after the marriage ceremony they leave this town for Kansas City, St. Louis, Burlington and Council Bluffs and then return to Plattsmouth which will be their future home. We hope the index of late Will Boeck on them to an endless path of health, contentment and prosperity.

—Wm. Hooton, of Council Bluffs, but more recently of the mail department of the Omaha P. O., makes a trial trip this evening as assistant on the mail car from Pacific Junction to some western point in the state and return.

—Every man, woman, and child in this city should go and witness Dion Boucault's celebrated drama “After Dark” at the opera house tonight.

—Putnam vs. Plattsmouth was tried yesterday. Putnam was fined $35 and costs. The case will now go to the supreme court.

—Sidney Green fell through a “star” trap at the Opera house last night. He was hurt very badly.

—“After dark,” the light will come. “After dark! The Light has come.”

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Washington's birthday has come and gone. It will probably be the last holiday day this term unless Arbor day is celebrated.

By the way, other schools in the state celebrate Arbor day by having a procession, speeches and tree planting. Why cannot Plattsmouth do the same?

The teachers' reports were all handed in yesterday and now the superintendent will be able to make his report to the board at their next meeting. It will show that there have been about 1150 pupils in the city schools this year.

It is reported by those who ought to know that one of the fourth ward teachers has been granted a week's vacation for the purpose of celebrating her nuptials with a prominent business man of Main street. I will have state this is only rumor from that source. It is the wish of the school every morning before the bell rings. THE HERALD is clear.

Apres to the above we may state that in some cities teachers are compelled to sign a contract not to get married during the school year. While this may be very beneficial to the school, I doubt the propriety of abridging a natural right of every lady. When the fruit is ripe it should be picked, further more, it being leap year, we girls intend to exercise our rights. CLARA WILSON.

A Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness and attention shown us in our recent sad bereavement and to invoke the blessings of a divine providence to rest upon and attend them all the rest of their days.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. PICKENS.

When Attacked by Pneumonia.

“What is the first symptom of pneumonia?” was asked a Brooklyn physician the other day.

“A severe chill,” was the reply.

“What ought a man to do who is seized with such a chill?”

“He should get into a bath tub containing hot water—so hot that it would scald the skin—and stay there as long as he can.”

“What is the philosophy of such treatment?”

“A severe chill, which always precedes pneumonia, indicates that the blood has gorged the lungs, liver or kidneys. Now, the first remedial step is to dissipate this blood. The hot bath does this. It draws the blood to the surface, and dissipates it over a greater area. After having lain in the bath until relief is experienced, the patient should step out of it and wrap himself in a woolen blanket. Don't stop to dry yourself with a towel, but wrap the warm wool around you and tumble into bed.”

The consensus of opinion among the leading physicians of the day is that pneumonia is an infectious disease. That is, the disease germ is in the air, and when the right physical condition is presented the disease takes root and fructifies. The popular idea that pneumonia is confined to cold weather is an erroneous one. There is no pneumonia in the Arctic regions. It is mainly due to the sudden changes in our temperature. By consulting the health reports of New York city it will be found that the highest death rate occurs in December and February, but that there are a good many cases in August.—New York Sun.

A Lost Opportunity.

In the memoirs of the Comte de Falloux, now publishing in Le Correspondent, the following passage, referring to the coup d'etat of Napoleon III, occurs: “Among the prisoners detained at Mont Valerien Dec. 2, 1851, was one Anthony Chomet. He gave to a lady visitor a number of letters to take to Paris, and said: ‘Tell my family I am in no danger, but that I feel inconsolable to have held the destiny of France in my hand and to have let it slip!’ Nobody understood the phrase, but the fact was this: In the constituent assembly preceding the election of Louis Napoleon to the presidency, Chomet had introduced an amendment excluding the members of families that had reigned in France from the office of president. Louis Napoleon ascended the rostrum and spoke against the amendment so awkwardly, so incoherently, and with an accent so foreign and strange that he was all the time interrupted by the noisy laughter and raileries, and finally compelled to desert ignominiously. Then Chomet arose and said: ‘After the assembly has heard that harangue, and all France will have read it to-morrow, there is no further need of my amendment. I withdraw it.’ He then makes himself ridiculous makes himself impossible, is the French saying, and Chomet was guided by it. But Louis Napoleon outwitted the ridicule and became master of France, which would not have been possible if Chomet's amendment had become law.—Paris Letter.

Moles Removed by Electricity.

The fair sex owes still another debt to the scientist. A lady who had a mole on her shoulder and who, from this reason, was unable to display her otherwise fair and attractive corporeal possessions, had an electrical operation performed with perfect success. The mole was perforated with electric needles in every direction. After a week the mole, which had been burned to a black mass, fell off and left the skin in good condition. The new skin shows hardly a trace of discoloration, and she now wears the most fashionable hair dresses with impunity and success.—New York Mail and Express.

Reasons for Purchasing Lots in South Park.

- 1. As a whole they are the finest lying lots in the city.
2. They are shaded with beautiful forest trees.
3. They are located between Chicago and Lincoln Avenues, the two finest drives about the city.
4. They are only a ten-minute walk from the business portion of the town.
5. By reason of their location between the two main thoroughfares into the city, they are more accessible than lots in other additions.
6. The only addition to the city reached by two established avenues.
7. The only new addition to the city reached by water mains and with a prospect of being supplied in the near future with complete water privileges.
8. New sidewalks recently constructed to within a few feet of the addition and will shortly be extended.
9. Will certainly have street car privileges at no distant date.
10. If you wish a fine view of the river, locate on a lot in South Park.
11. If you wish a slightly and picturesque view of Plattsmouth, it can be had from a South Park lot.
12. To persons in the railroad employ, the eastern portion of South Park is the most desirable residence locality in the city.
13. To persons desiring a residence on Chicago avenue, the western portion of South Park is available for that purpose.
14. The B. & M. railroad track runs near the east line of the addition, furnishing good facilities for manufacturing industries.
