CITY CORDIALS.

-Word has just been received as we go to press that the depot at Pacific Junction is on fire and that the fire cannot securing a canning factory. be kept under control. Full particulars tomorrow.

-The Board of Health officers are holding a meeting this afternoon at the office of Dr. Cook for the purpose of making arrangements, if possible, to check the fast spreading epidemic the waltz. city is infested with at present.

-The little daughter of Mr. Dave O'Brien, six years of age, died this morning about 7 o'clock, of diphtheria. The child has only been sick about two days. A little boy about three years of age, belonging to the same family, is similarly affected and is not expected to live but a short time. The funeral of the little girl will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the father's residence, corner of Vine and Sixth streets.

... "His Natural Life," which will be played at the Waterman opera house tonight, is one of the most fascinating of plays. Several have read the play and no one have we ever heard denounce it. As the company was obliged to stop over a day some place before reaching their next town, they stopped off at Plattsmouth, this being the reason why the last company has been followed so closely. They deserve a good house.

-W. E. Paul, who was arrested at Seward on the charge of embezzlement of $75 from the Metropolitan Manufacturing company while engaged in selling goods in this city for the above company several months ago on the installment plan, is being tried here today before Judge Pottenger, Lindt, Mynster & Sea brook, of Council Bluffs, are prosecuting. Mr. W. R. Isard, a member of the Metropolitan Manufacturing company, of Omaha, is the chief witness.

-A commercial man narrowly escaped a neck-break this morning, one would say who was acquainted with the circumstances we have reference to. The man we speak of weighs about two hundred city today. pounds, at least. Early this morning as he was about to descend the stairs at the in the city. Biddle house he missed his step and started at the top and rolled like a heavy ball to the last step, striking the floor with a thud. With the exception of loosening a tew boards at the bottom of the stairs no damage was done to the house. If Barnum had not retired from the show business the man would surely short time at the home of Dr. Siggins. stand a good chance to secure a situation with him as an extraordinary tumbler.

-The dogs will no doubt suffer today at the hands of the police. All found running loose on the streets without muzzles or tags, will be fired upon by our city protectors. It is to be hoped that about five thousand of the sleep interrupters will be allowed to run loose today for the last time. The death of about five thousand of those useless canines that prowl around during the night, and keep up a continual howl, would be a great relief to the community. This will relieve many individuals who have sworn to be avenged on the disturbers and were about to commit the deed themselves. Requiscat in peace.

-Mr. W. H. Pool's little boy, about three years of age, who has been sick for several days with the prevalent discase here at present, diphtheria, died last night about eight o'clock. Every possible aid was secured to in sure his recovery but all efforts were in vain. Almost every day of late new cases of this dread epidemic are reported, and it remains, as yet, unchecked. The funeral has been arranged to take place tomorrow morning from the residence of Mr. W. H. Pool at 10 o'clock and proceed to Eight Mile Grove where interment will take place. Rev. W. B. Alexander, of the M. E. church, will conduct the obsequies. All the county offices here will be closed tomorrow afternoon on account of the

Tonight.

The play "His Natural Life" as presented by Chas. C. Manbury and Neliie Boyd, supported by an excellent company, with a full line of original and special scenery and mechanical stage effects, should have a liberal patronage from our citizens. A genuine "Rain Storm" of real water, with other special scenes introduced during the play of real merit will be worth the price of admission alone. ### The Poor of Mexico.

The peon laborer who earns 37 cents will not grudge a third of his may to some unfortunate comrade. What rich man with an income of 100 a day will with equal readiness and out $33 to a poor fellow mortal? I know a case where a poor serving woman took her little bed and gave it a sick woman, and herself slept on the hard floor for weeks thereafter. A poor paralytic comes to my door every week and gets alms; it is hard to keep a silver quarter in the pocket when a deformed man crawls by on his hands and knees. How many of these poor wretches one sees on rainy afternoons crawling along through the mud and dirt of the streets. Many say, carelessly, that these poor people should be in the hospitals, but they prefer, when able to do so, to get out into the world their fellows and trust to the charity of the fortunate who have legs to walk on, for a few bits of money to keep them from starvation. I know a poor woman, paralyzed from the knees down, who, with her babe in her arms, kneels in one of the public gardens and receives the charity people bestow on her. If she gets twenty-five cents in a day, she lives well and has a little meat and possibly a drop of coffee. If she gets but six cents she lives on that, and thanks heaven. the pleasure of doing good is lost. For years there was seen around the streets here a dog faced lad, who walked on his hands and feet like an animal. I have not seen him for months, and perhaps he is dead. The story went that this strange, fantastic streets. On chilly winter mornings he went about in cotton, for he was decently covered, but his expression of sadness and hunger and weariness went straight to the heart. To see this poor fellow made one ashamed of being able to walk upright. Those of us who gave him small coins now and then do not, I fancy, regret it, now that he has gone from sight. For the student of human development this lad would have been a treasure. He was human, but he was also brutish, Sights such as these make the blood run chill in the veins, but they also prompt little acts of charity which
